Rally Behind His Rhineland Policy.

ADOLF HITLER.

BERLIN, March 29.—A total of 44,389,140 German men and women today placed their trust in the Austrian born musketeer of the world war, Adolf Hitler, who now stands as the most powerful man in Europe. In the eyes of Germany Reichsfuehrer Hitler is the man who finally broke the hated bonds of the Versailles treaty, and the nation expressed its gratitude by voting for him in the so-called reichstag election on a scale unparalleled in history.

There were 542,898 Germans, or 1.21 per cent, who dared to reject the Fuehrer's leadership, while another still tinier fraction dared to stay away from the polls. Of the total votes cast, Hitler received 98.79 per cent. A total of 98.95 per cent of the electorate went to the polls in answer to his call to indorse his remilitarization of the Rhineland and denunciation of the Locarno treaty.

Nazi Leaders Gloat.

Nazi leaders gloated over the record breaking landslide. They gleefully pointed to Hitler's plebiscite in 1933 following Germany's departure from the league of nations. At that time he received 95.1 per cent of the vote.

In Berlin Hitler's victory was celebrated wildly. There was a huge torchlight procession. Thousands gathered in front of the chancellory and cheered the Fuehrer who frequently appeared on the balcony.

The election was a triumph of regimentation for which the Nazis have worked for three years. In a high pressure campaign they succeeded in convincing the people that they faced a great danger if they failed to support Hitler and his list of reichstag candidates.

A Campaign of Speeches.

With speeches that began March 7—the day German troops marched into the Rhineland—the Fuehrer and his associates sought to mesmerize the country into the belief that everything has improved in Germany during the Hitler reign.

The Nazis whipped the public into a frenzy of excitement with the help of drums, fifes, parades, military demonstrations, threats and all the wizardy of modern propaganda.

Hitler's friends differed as to the influence the tremendous victory will have on the Fuehrer. Some said it would stiffen his back and induce him to ride roughshod over the powers which objected to his scrapping of the Locarno pact. Others said the election would make him feel so strong he would be willing to make a concession to his neighbors in an effort to help establish "the new order in Europe" to which he referred so frequently in his election speeches.

Largest Reichstag in History.

As a result of the election, Germany will have the largest reichstag in its history. There will be about 740 members, compared to 690 in the last.

It will be composed largely of officials of the Nazi party. Sixty-nine of the highest ranking party dignitaries were on the list of candidates together with 123 Storm Troop leaders, 71 Schutz Staffel [Hitler's bodyguard] leaders, 409 employés of the party and state, and 84 farmers belonging to state organizations.

Although the Nazis call themselves the "Nazi Workers' party of Germany," there were only 18 workers in the old reichstag and 10 were party functionaries.

Minister of the Interior Wilhelm Frick, in the name of Hitler, will pick the "yes men" for the puppet parliament.

The election also provided the Nazi party and the secret police with a "black list" of "traitors" who dared to ignore the Fuehrer's summons.

Take a Puzzled Sonny Boy to His New Home

Reginald Arthur Mann, the smiling Sonny Boy of courtroom prominence went to a newly rented apartment at 4508 North Racine avenue yesterday to live with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Mann Fletcher, and his recently acquired foster father, Ray Alfred Fletcher.

Last Tuesday Judge Rudolph Desort of the Superior court decided that Sonny Boy is the son of Mrs. Fletcher, born to her out of wedlock three years ago. The judge ruled out the claim of Dr. Gordon E. Mordoff, 1120 Lake avenue, Wilmette, that the child was born to his late wife, Mrs. Madge Mordoff, and is his son.

Foster Sister Hands Him Over.

After Mrs. Mordoff's death last Feb. 10, Sonny Boy was mothered by her adopted daughter, Mary Margaret Mordoff, 17 years old, a high school senior. It was Mary who called the child in from a tricycle ride on the sidewalk when Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher arrived for him yesterday, and who dressed the little fellow for his newest venture. Dr. Mordoff was out.

"Dad had to leave on a professional call," Mary explained. "I guess he didn't want to go through saying good-bye, anyway."

In three neatly packed little boxes in the front hallway were Sonny Boy's clothing and "the toys he plays with mostly." With a wondering smile he allowed himself to be kissed by the elder participants in the drama.

"You will always be welcome in my home," Mrs. Fletcher assured Mary.

The Departure Scene.

In a rather hasty manner, Fletcher lifted Reginald Arthur in his arms and started out the door.

"No, no," Mrs. Fletcher cried, "let him kiss Mary good-by!"

When Fletcher set the child down, the mother knelt before her baby and said:

"We're going away, Sonny, and kiss Mary good-by—but she is coming to see us often."

Judge Desort decreed that the Mordoffs might visit with Sonny Boy every Sunday. The Fletcher family scarcely had landed in its new home when Dr. Mordoff availed himself of the Sunday visiting privilege for half an hour.

GOV. WINSHIP PLACED UNDER CLOSE POLICE GUARD IN PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 29.—(AP)—Gov. Blanton Winship has been under a close police guard since the killing of Col. E. Francis Riggs, chief of Porto Rico's insular police, Feb. 23.

The governor does not leave his official residence without a police guard. Officers have just received .45 calibre pistols and sub-machine guns.

Col. Alex J. McNab, a retired army officer, has been offered the position which Riggs held until he was shot and killed by two Nationalists, who later were killed by police.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 29.—Lord Marshall of Chipstead, director of Horace Marshall & Son, Ltd., publishers and newspaper distributors, died today at the age of 70. As Sir Horace Marshall he succeeded to the office of lord mayor on Nov. 9, 1918, and at the memorable lord mayor's banquet that night Prime Minister Lloyd George read a telegram announcing that the kaiser and crown prince had abdicated and the German empire was helpless and headless. His mayoralty in 1918 and 1919 was chiefly devoted to the reception of the victorious allies and he presented the freedom of the city of London to President Wilson, Earl Beatty, Earl Haig, Marshal Foch, Gen. Pershing, Gen. Diaz, Gen. Allenby, and the shah of Persia. Probably no civilian not a courtier ever possessed so many foreign decorations of exalted grades.

Woman Wearing $100,000 in Gems and Furs Missing

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The police missing persons bureau revealed today that it had been requested to search for Mrs. M. Richardson of Port Elizabeth, South Africa, who was reported to have arrived here on Thursday on the liner Conte di Savoia with diamonds and furs worth $100,000. Friends have received no word of her and asked the search.

Impatient Woman Walks Off Without $90 Change

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Impatience cost a woman shopper $90 today. She handed a butcher a $100 bill in payment of a $1.50 order. The clerk gave her $8.50 and said he'd have to get the rest from his employer. When he returned with it she had disappeared. The note was genuine, too. It's owner's haste was not explained.

Train Traps 2 Riding Horses Across Trestle

A horse back ride yesterday nearly cost the lives of William Wintelborn, 26 years old, 1711 Lake street, Evanston, and Miss Grace Riemer, 25 years old, 920 South Linden avenue, Highland Park.

They rented two horses at the Waukegan Riding stable and set out for a canter on a path which runs along the Chicago and North Western railroad right of way. Near Greenwood avenue in north Waukegan they came to a place where a trestle carries the tracks over a pond.

Decide to Take Risk.

There was no train in sight and Wintelborn and Miss Riemer decided to risk riding the trestle. The ties were close together and they believed the horses could pick their way across safely. By so doing, they would avoid riding down the embankment and fording the pond.

Half way across Miss Riemer's horse got one leg caught between two ties and threw her off. The other horse reared in fright and threw Wintelborn.

Train Roars on Them.

At that moment they heard a passenger train roaring down on them from the north. The couple tried frantically to get the horses off the trestle, Wintelborn's finally jumped to safety into the pond but Miss Riemer's could not be freed.

A watchman at the Greenwood avenue crossing saw the plight of the couple and ran down the tracks, trying to flag the train. Wintelborn and Miss Rriemer ran off the trestle and watched the train rush by, crushing the trapped horse to death.

Knocks Self Out on Post Fleeing from Policeman

Policeman Michael Kelly of the Rogers Park station surprised two men tampering with his automobile early yesterday at 2604 Altgeld street. One of the men ran into an alley where Kelly found him outstretched on the pavement, unconscious, and took him to the Alexian Brothers hospital. Physicians found no bullet wounds. When the captive regained consciousness he explained that he ran into a telephone pole.

Secretary Skeptical, but Willing to Try Nudism

Fort Myers, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Pretty brunette Florence Fritz, first applicant for the job of stenographer for a Tampa nudist society, told her prospective boss she "could not conceive of an intelligent secretary, in the nude, working on a typewriter." She added, however, "I am open to conviction."

CITIZENS HEAR 4 KILLERS TELL PEACOCK DEATH

In the presence of ten prominent men who acted as impartial witnesses four young toughs last night signed confessions that they deliberately shot and killed Dr. Silber C. Peacock, specialist in children's diseases, and robbed him of $20.

The witnesses then affixed their own names to the confessions as evidence that the young killers voluntarily admitted their guilt. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney insisted on such procedure to protect the state's case should the youths elect later to repudiate their signed statements. This precaution is necessary because the Illinois Supreme court frequently rules confessions out of evidence when defendants assert their statements were not made voluntarily.

Explains Reason for Precaution.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley gathered the witnesses, including five leading physicians and five business men, in the state's attorney's office in the Criminal Court building. Three of the business men are former grand jury foremen.

"A jury may not believe the testimony of officials actively engaged in the apprehension and prosecution of a criminal that his confession was given without compulsion," Mr. Crowley explained. "But the testimony of impartial observers would not be challenged."

The young gangsters then were taken singly into the witness room. They are Robert Goethe, Durland Nash, Emil Reck, all 19 years old, and Michael Livingston, 17 years old.

Police Foster Mental Ease.

Policemen had given them a good dinner, permitted them to bathe in the administration building of the county jail, and to put on clean clothes, after four days of confinement. This treatment apparently appealed to them, for they smiled throughout the reading of the confessions.

Each readily admitted his guilt. To assure the group of doctors and business men that the killers were talking voluntarily Mr. Crowley asked each in turn several questions about the sixty other robberies in which they are implicated. Again their answers indicated their willingness to "tell all."

The Impartial Observers.

The five physicians who witnessed the confessions are Dr. Thomas P. Foley, president elect of the Chicago Medical society; Dr. H. Kenneth Scatliff, chairman of the society's committee to investigate the Peacock case; Dr. Lemuel Day, Dr. Anders J. Weigen, and Dr. Harold W. Miller, president of the North Shore Medical society.

The five business men are Robin B. Stiles, Victor H. Munnecke, and Julius J. Buechner, all former grand jury foremen; Munnecke's son, Richard, and Frank H. Landon, president of the General Can company. William Foehringer, former secretary of the city civil service commission, watched the proceedings, but did not sign.

Prosecutors and Officers Sign.

Officials whose names were appended as witnesses to the confessions are Mr. Crowley, Assistant State's Attorneys Marshall V. Kearney and Blair Varnes, Capt. Daniel Gilbert, Lieut. Thomas Kelly, Capt. Harry O'Connell, and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan.

Mr. Crowley announced that he would delay until tomorrow before seeking an indictment of the four killers by the grand jury. As soon as the indictment is returned, he said, they will be taken for immediate arraignment before the chief justice of the Criminal court.

Odd Coincidences in Career.

Capt. O'Connell, who commands the West North avenue police district, disclosed yesterday that two unusual coincidences marked the long and painstaking investigation which finally resulted in the arrest of the gang last Thursday. Dr. Peacock was slain the night of Jan. 2, when the foursome lured him from

Harold K. [Duke] Coulter, her husband, polo playing former major, was ousted from the army for alleged improper conduct with her while he was married to another woman. Efforts to locate him tonight were unsuccessful.

The body of Mrs. Coulter, clad in night clothing with a bullet wound through the head, was found by a maid. Near the body was a revolver.

Inquest Decision in Abeyance.

Justice P. L. Wiley reserved decision on an inquest, but was expected to rule on it tomorrow.

Mrs. Coulter came into the public eye when her present husband was on duty at Fort Sam Houston. Prior to that time she was the wife of William F. Morgan, Texas oil man.

Her former husband thereupon instituted suit for possession of their son, William J. Morgan Jr. During this action it was revealed that Coulter and Mrs. Morgan had married. The court gave custody of the child to the father.

Since then Mrs. Coulter has lived most of the time here, while Coulter trained polo ponies and played througout the country.

Ousted from Army in 1934.

Coulter, who elected to stand trial by court martial rather than receive a reprimand for alleged misconduct, was convicted in San Antonio on July 5, 1934, and ordered dismissed from the army.

Coulter insisted that he was innocent. Among the charges of which he was found guilty were:

1. Intimacies with the then Mrs. Morgan at Mrs. Morgan's home and at Campbellton ranch.
2. Wrongfully caused Corp. G. R. Perry and Private Ben E. Creel to obtain pistols from the supply sergeant of their company and act as guards at Mrs. Morgan's home.
3. Breaking arrest after he had been confined to the limits of San Antonio by going to Mrs. Morgan's home on May 25, 1934.

CIGARET WRECKS PRIZE WINNING POLISH BALLOON

WARSAW, March 29.—(AP)—A burning cigaret caused an explosion of gas in the balloon Warszawa which had just descended today after an attempt to reach the stratosphere. Several children were injured.

Capt. Zbigniew Burzynski, winner of the 1935 Gordon Bennett balloon race, took off early this morning in the attempt. After reaching an altitude of approximately 7,000 feet he landed near Lomza.

A peasant, rushing to the scene with a lighted cigaret in his hand, touched the bag and the balloon was severely damaged.

SUSPECT SAYS HE SIGNED TO END TORTURE

Prisoner Innocent, Asserts Wilentz.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Trenton, N. J., March 29.—[Special.]—A frantic repudiation of a "confession" to the murder of the Lindbergh baby was voiced today by Paul H. Wendel, former member of the New Jersey bar, from his cell in the Mercer county jail where he was lodged late last night as the result of a sensational coup by Detective Ellis H. Parker.

Wendel was formally charged with the murder of the first born son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on the basis of a written statement obtained from the prisoner by Parker. But as soon as he was turned over to authorities by Parker, Wendel, a middle aged man once prominent in Trenton politics, charged that he had been tortured by Parker into confessing the crime.

Speculate on Hauptmann's Fate.

There was much doubt as to whether this latest amazing development would affect the fate of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who is sentenced to die in the electric chair shortly after 8 o'clock next Tuesday night for the kidnaping and murder.

Gov. Harold Hoffman, who granted one reprieve to Hauptmann and who repeatedly has expressed doubt that Hauptmann committed the crime alone, said he would pay no attention to the Wendel statement.

Gaston Means Also "Confesses."

New Jersey authorities also have received a confession from Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent now serving a term in federal prison, that he kidnaped and "did away" with the Lindbergh baby, and that Hauptmann was "not in on the job."

Means was convicted of defrauding Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, Washington society leader, of $103,000 in 1932 on his promise to get the Lindbergh baby back from a kidnap gang.

According to the 18 page confession written in Leavenworth penitentiary, Means climbed through a window into the Lindbergh nursery and stole the child. Means confessed writing the ransom notes, saying his accomplices were Max Hassel and Max Greenberg, slain gangsters.

Calls It "Tissue of Lies."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz branded the Wendel statement "a tissue of lies" which Wendel was forced to make. Wilentz talked to the prisoner early this morning and again this afternoon.

At the same time prosecution forces were plainly concerned over its possible use to delay the execution of Hauptmann.

Members of the prosecution and high judicial officers agree the court of pardons has the power, never yet exercised, of granting a temporary reprieve.

Calls Schwarzkopf Into Conference.

Soon after arriving at the jail, Wilentz sent for Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, and Capt. John J. Lamb of the state police.

A crowd of some 200 persons gathered around the jail, eagerly discussing the latest of many sensational developments marking the Lindbergh kidnap-murder.

Wendel told questioners that he had been kidnaped by four unidentified men in the Coney Island section of Brooklyn and held prisoner by them for three weeks, during which time he was beaten and tortured until he agreed to confess the crime.

In describing the methods he said were used on him to extort a "confession," a member of the prosecution staf quoted Wendel as saying he was taken to a house and "stretched out" with chains on a bed. Then he was beaten across the legs, he said, until he signed a statement implicating himself in the crime.

Once Highly Respected Citizen.

The text of the Wendel confession was not made public, but he is reported to have stated that he kidnaped the child because of his inherent hatred for a society which he claimed "unjustly robbed me of every opportunity to make good." Wendel, son of a Lutheran minister, once was a highly respected member of this community. He was both a druggist and a lawyer, but in 1931 he was charged with embezzlement of a client's funds and resigned from the bar.

Wendel, in the repudiated statement, said he entered the Lindbergh nursery by means of the now famous ladder, carried the infant downstairs and made a safe exit from the estate. He contended that he did not murder the child but carried him away to a place of refuge and then endeavored to keep him alive through the medical knowledge he possessed as a druggist. He was purported to have said that the baby fell out of bed several days later and was fatally injured. Then, according to the repudiated confession, Wendel secretly brought the body back to Hopewell and deposited it in the woods where it was discovered months later.

Trembling and gray-faced as he reflected upon the peril in which this statement placed him, Wendel made his charge that the confession was made only after he had been beaten severely.

Wilentz, after a lengthy interview with the prisoner, said Wendel had made a written repudiation of his confession.

"He tells me now, and he is reducing his statement to writing, that he not only had nothing to do with this crime, but that he never was on the Lindbergh premises," said Wilentz.

"He says that on Feb. 14 he was taken into custody in New York by persons unknown to him and detained there until Feb. 24, when he was delivered to the home of Ellis Parker. Since that time, using his own words, he was 'detained by Ellis Parker' under guard at the Lisbon state colony.

"Millions" Held Out as Lure.

"Furthermore, he says that he gave Ellis Parker a statement similar to the one given in New York, but in giving it to Mr. Parker he did so only because of duress on the part of Mr. Parker, while insisting at the time that he [Wendel] knew nothing about it.

"Parker told him that if he confessed he would make a million dollars and that he needn't worry about the state police, as Col. Schwarzkopf, as well as Prosecutor Anthony Hauck of Hunterdon county, would be superseded and Prosecutor Eastwood of Burlington county would take the place of the present prosecuting officials, and that he would have nothing to fear."

Dr. Carroll T. Jones, superintendent of the New Jersey state colony for feeble minded males at New Lisbon, said in a statement today that Parker brought Wendel there on the night of Feb. 24. Wendel, Dr. Jones said, signed a note saying he was willing to remain at the institution until "this investigation is concluded."

Superintendent Quotes Note.

"About 9 o'clock on Feb. 24, Ellis Parker called me and asked me to provide quarters for a man for a few days where he would be quiet and undisturbed," Dr. Jones said in his statement.

"About 10:30 that night two cars arrived and Ellis Parker came over. I asked him to make sure there would be no force, and Parker replied that the man was willing to stay. I saw Wendel write something on a piece of paper and he gave it to me.

"'February 24, 1936.

"'To Carroll T. Jones, superintendent.

"'Dear Sir:

"'I am willing to stay in your custody until this investigation is concluded.

[Signed] "'P. H. WENDEL.'"

Treated as a Guest.

"Wendel remained there as a guest and conducted himself in a courteous and gentlemanly manner.

"I had no occasion to examine him, and saw no marks on him. But one day when I was there I mentioned the word 'shanghai.'

"He said 'a person can be shanghaied. I was shanghaied and tortured.'

"He rolled up a trouser leg and said 'look at that,' and pointed to one or two marks on his leg.

"I could not tell how the wounds were inflicted. I noted no other marks on the man.

"He appeared like a professional man. I treated him like a guest."

A few days later, Dr. Jones added, Parker and his secretary brought a typewriter and stayed with Wendel for several hours.

Dr. Jones quoted Wendel as once saying: "I do not want to talk to anybody but Ellis."

Wendel is being held on a charge of murder, in addition to four detainers involving his alleged embezzlement in 1930 and 1931, shortly before he resigned from the bar.

Wendel said he had an alibi for the night of the kidnaping. He was in his home working on a chemical formula, he asserted, and heard a news bulletin on the radio telling of the infant's abduction. His wife and daughter were present, he said.

Takes Prisoner to County Line.

Yesterday morning Col. Schwarzkopf sent a telegram to Parker at the request of Wilentz and Hauck asking for informtion about Wendel. Thereupon Parker escorted Wendel to the Mercer county line, where, through prearrangement, the prisoner was handed over to James S. Kirkham, chief of Mercer county detectives. Kirkham took Wendel immediately to the county jail.

Kirkham denied his action was a technical move to hold the suspect pending a thorough investigation.

"Do you think Wendel was connected with the Lindbergh case?" he was asked. "I surely do,' he replied.

"Is there anything besides his reported confession to substantiate the charge?"

"Yes," the chief answered.

Parker said today he would watch the investigation of the Wendel incident, and "if it is not conducted properly I will tell what I know, and there's a lot I haven't told."

Hauptmann Spends Lonely Sabbath.

The German carpenter, convicted by a jury more than a year ago of the murder of the child, spent a lonely Sunday. He had no visitors and was not informed of the Wendel confession. According to Col. Mark O. Kimberling, prison warden, Hauptmann maintained his stout confidence that he will not be executed Tuesday night.

Hauptmann has one chance left—a 1 to 100 shot, in the opinion of officials. The state court of pardons meets tomorrow at the request of Gov. Hoffman and will consider the case again. The same body turned down a mercy plea for Hauptmann two months ago and the governor then issued a reprieve.

Gov. Hoffman summoned reporters tonight and read a lengthy statement in which he declared only one court ever had passed on the guilt or innocence of Hauptmann in the crime for which he stands convicted.

Cites Limitations of Higher Courts.

"The only real trial in this case was before the jury at Flemington," he said. "The Appellate court could merely read the evidence without regard to the credibility of the witnesses by seeing them in person. The United States Supreme court did not hear the evidence, but only decided that it was without jurisdiction. I have been trying to regard the case fairly in the light of all the evidence presented."

The governor's attitude strengthened the belief among many observers that he would not permit Hauptmann to go to the chair Tuesday night, but would take some action to postpone the execution, although he has stated that he would not issue a second reprieve.

PLAN FOR EXECUTION OF HAUPTMANN GOES FORWARD AT PRISON

Trenton, N. J., March 29.—(AP)—Col. Mark O. Kimberling, principal keeper of state prison, tonight went ahead with preparations to execute Bruno Richard Hauptmann at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, but said he would recognize any stay that might be ordered by the Court of Pardons.

Although the court never has delayed an execution, Col. Kimberling took the position that a tribunal having the power to grant a full pardon "has the right to grant anything less than that." Members of the judiciary and authorities on the constitution agreed there was no question about the court's power in this respect.

Col. Kimberling made arrangements to accommodate about 30 witnesses who will gather in his office and walk silently to the execution chamber, about 200 feet away, shortly before 8 o'clock.

Charles Zied, Philadelphia gangster convicted of slaying a detective in a Camden holdup, was expected to precede Hauptmann to the chair. In that event, Hauptmann's death would be delayed until about 8:30, as different witnesses will attend the two executions.

THOUSANDS VIEW FEDERAL EXHIBIT OF KIDNAP CLEWS

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Justice department officials today said thousands of visitors have studied the clues and evidence which convicted Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the Lindbergh baby kidnaping.

The evidence is marshaled in a special exhibit at the federal bureau of investigation headquarters, where regular tours of the crime laboratories draw crowds twice a day.

Justice department agents officially "closed" the Lindbergh case when Hauptmann was indicted for kidnaping in New Jersey and for extortion in New York in 1934, but the famous "Lindbergh file"—containing their private notes and data—still is rated an "active" record, open only to accredited police officers, a department spokesman indicated today.

ETHIOPIA'S SECOND CITY IN FLAMES

ITALIAN BOMBS RUIN HARRAR, 2D CITY OF ETHIOPIA

Citizens Flee on Sighting First Planes.

ADDIS ABABA, March 29.—(AP)—Squadrons of Italian planes practically destroyed Harrar, a city of 40,000 and Ethiopia's second largest, with incendiary bombs today, said reports reaching officials here.

Victims were believed to be few, as the entire population of the ancient Moslem city fled in terror when the first planes were sighted.

An official communique received by telephone from Harrar said fifteen bombs hit the Egyptian Red Cross hospital, several struck the Ethiopian Red Cross hospital, and two fell near the Swedish hospital.

A French mission, the French consulate, a prison, the former Italian consulate, and a radio station were all wrecked, the communique said.

"Msgr. Jaroseau, in charge of the French mission, refused to leave the altar during the bombardment," the communique added. "The church was wrecked, but he was unhurt."

Leave Buildings in Flames.

A group of twenty-five Fascist bombers roared over the city from one side and thirty-five came in from the opposite direction after dawn, but only scouted.

Then fifteen to twenty bombing planes arrived two hours later and for two hours and fifteen minutes dropped bombs, leaving the city in flames.

The European quarter, until recently headquarters for more than a score of foreign correspondents, was reported badly damaged. The town of Jigjiga also was reported heavily bombed.

News of the air raid struck panic among natives in Addis Ababa, since the bombing of Harrar, an open town and one which is reported to be completely demilitarized, seemed to presage a bombing of the capital. Ethiopians predicted that the bombing of Harrar, a center of the Moslem faith, would inflame Mohammedans throughout the world.

Ancient Walled City.

Harrar is an ancient walled city, the capital of a province of the same name. It is roughly 300 miles east of Addis Ababa and only thirty-five miles south of the railroad from Addis Ababa to Djibouti, French Somaliland, Ethiopia's only link with the outside world except by caravan.

Although the old city lost some of its commercial importance to Diredawa when the railroad was built, it is an important center for caravan trade. The town stands on a plateau some 4,000 feet above the sea.

Seize Another Town.

TROOPS GUARD 4 TAKEN FROM MOB IN RAPE OF GIRL

Rescued After Death of Attack Victim.

BULLETIN.

Huntsville, Ala., March 29.—(AP)—Tear gas was employed tonight to disperse a mob milling about the county jail housing the four colored suspects held in connection with the rape and slaying of 19 year old Vivian Woodard.

Huntsville, Ala., March 29.—(AP)—Three National Guard units were on duty here tonight, called out by Gov. Bibb Graves to protect four colored suspects wrested from a mob by officers investigating the rape and fatal injury of Miss Vivian Woodard, 19 year old daughter of a city employé.

The governor's order at Montgomery followed a report to him that the suspects had been taken from a mob and were held in Madison county jail under protection of local police and state highway patrolmen armed with shot guns, machine guns, and tear gas bombs.

Orders Police Concentration.

The governor also ordered that all highway patrolmen in north Alabama be concentrated in Huntsville immediately, instructing Chief Walter K. McAdory to "keep them there."

As the state announced it would post a reward for capture of the guilty person, or persons, a purse of $150 was made here for the same purpose.

The girl died in a hospital late today following injuries suffered when she was slugged and raped as she walked home from a movie last night.

Found After All-Night Search.

An all night search ended when a neighbor found her unconscious behind a garage near her home.

Finger print experts were summoned to examine bloodstained trousers and vest and a bloodstained brick, found on the sidewalk near the garage.

When wrested from the mob one of the suspects had a piece of wire about his neck. The suspects are Eugene Hambrick, 24; James McCalley, 19; Woodrow Wilson, 19, and Ira Jolly, 17.

HOME OF 'SCOTTSBORO VICTIMS.'

Race trouble is not new to Huntsville. It was to their homes in this town that Mrs. Victoria Price and Ruby Bates, white girls, were "hoboing" on a freight train when they were alleged to have been raped by the colored youths who since have become the celebrated defendants in the equally celebrated "Scottsboro case."

JOY RIDERS FLEE AFTER COLLISION; CAUGHT IN CHASE

Five Held After Crash Injuring Two.

Three young men and two girls were held at the county highway police station in Homewood last night after their automobile sidewiped another machine and forced it into a ditch on Torrence avenue, half a mile south of the Glenwood-Lansing road.

James C. Driver, 56 years old, 9920 South Seeley avenue, and Miss Lynn Whalen, 7056 Harper avenue, were thrown out of the ditched car and seriously injured. Both were taken to St. James hospital, Chicago Heights.

Captured by Trafic Officer.

Policeman William James Afflack of the Chicago central district trafic detail, who was riding in his own car with his family, saw the accident. When the car sped on he gave chase and overtook it nearly three miles away. He ordered the driver, John Babitsky, 21 years old, 1267 Marion court, to follow him to the Chicago Heights police station.

Police took the five occupants of the car to the highway station, where Babitsky was booked on charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident. His companions, also held, are Joseph Kalayak, 23 years old, 2961 Archer avenue; Steve Borbziak, 22, of 1267 Marion court; Mamie Lazida, 22, of 652 East 89th place, and Helen Ewaniszyn, 16, of 622 East 89th street.

Struck By Car, Dies.

Frederick Hudson, 41 years old, 7302 Madison street, Forest Park, a WPA worker, died at Oak Park hospital yesterday after he had been struck by the car of a hit and run driver at Elgin and Madison streets in Forest Park.

Edward Swanson, 45 years old, 6727 Rhodes avenue, a bricklayer, was hit at South Chicago avenue and 69th street by a sedan which sped away. He was taken to Jackson Park hospital, his skull and both legs fractured.

Nick Schneider, 45 years old, 8339 Anthony avenue, a laborer, died yesterday of injuries incurred last Thursday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Frederick Leichner, 7828 Cornell avenue, at 83d street and South Chicago avenue.

Struck by the jutting body of a coal truck as he was standing in a street car safety zone Thursday, Joseph Szczeranski, 73 years old, 1101 North Wood street, died yesterday in the County hospital.

Richard Keys, 45 years old, colored, 3241 Ellis avenue, died in the Michael Reese hospital last night shortly after he was struck by a Yellow taxicab at South Park avenue and 26th street. The driver, Anthony Kozil, 1315 Chicago avenue, was held by the police.

The coroner's office reported 189 persons killed and 3,445 injured within the city limits from Jan. 1 up to 4 p. m. yesterday. In the same period 227 persons were killed in Cook county.

RESUME HEARING TODAY ON FARGO ESTATE CLAIM

Hearing on the claim of Lucille Camden to a share in the estate of the late Livingston Wells Fargo will be resumed this afternoon before Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court. Miss Camden, who calls herself Lucille Camden Fargo, asserts that she was Fargo's common law wife and, as the widow, is entitled to a dower right in the property he left. Fargo, a member of the family which founded the Wells-Fargo Express company, died in 1934.

At the hearing Friday Miss Camden's claim was supported by the testimony of her sister, Mrs. Mary J. Camp, 59 years old, a widow.

4 HERE ARE CITED FOR GUGGENHEIM FELLOW AWARDS

Among Sixty Honored for Studies.

Four men of the Chicago area are among 60 Americans who will share the $115,000 of the 12th annual series of fellowship awards of the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, it was announced yesterday.

The local winners are: Dr. John Webster Spargo, associate professor of English at Northwestern university; Dr. Pierre Robert Vigneron, professor of French literature at the University of Chicago; Donald Culross Peattie of Glenview, a writer, and Aaron Bohrod, 2406 North Clark street, Chicago, a painter.

By terms of the awards each of the 60 chosen will receive $2,000 a year or more, according to special circumstances, for a period that varies with his needs. Each is free to carry on his work wherever and in whatever manner he sees fit.

39 Scholars Get Awards.

Projects of the recipients range through the arts and sciences. Those honored include thirty-nine scholars, eight artists, a composer, five poets, two novelists, and three playwrights.

Dr. Spargo's award, a renewal, was given for his studies of English law and literature of the middle ages and the renaissance. He is 40 years old, was educated at Harvard university, and is the author of several books and articles.

Dr. Vigneron's appointment was in recognition of his physiological and critical study of the life of Marie Henri Beyle, 18th century French novelist, better known by his pseudonym, Stendhal. Dr. Vigneron, a native of France, is 39 years old and holds degrees from Sorbonne university.

Mr. Peattie received his fellowship for his "story of the rise in the wilderness of an idealistic American community, based on Owen's New Harmony experiment, and of its fall." Born in Chicago, Mr. Peattie is 37 years old and was educated at the University of Chicago and Harvard university. He is the author of several books and other writings.

Creative Work Rewarded.

Mr. Bohrod's award was based simply on "his creative work in painting. He has won several previous prizes for his work and was commissioned by the government to paint the mural in the postoffice in Vandalia, Ill. He is 28 years old and studied at the Art institute here and with the Art Students' league in New York.

Four women were among the 60 persons who received fellowships this year. They are Miss Zora Neale Hurston, writer; Miss Josephine Herbst, writer; Miss Catherine K. Bauer, authority on housing, and Miss Doris Rosenthal, New York public school teacher.

The awards were established in 1925 by former Senator Simon Guggenheim and his wife in honor of their son. Since then the foundation has granted more than $1,400,000 to aid creative workers in carrying on their studies at home or abroad.

Mayor to Receive Safety Award for City Today

TWO POWERFUL GROUPS LINE UP BEHIND BROOKS

King and Kurt Berliner Join His Forces.

The strength of Wayland Brooks, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, was increased materially yesterday through indorsements of his candidacy by two large Republican organizations in Cook county.

The indorsements, announced by Brooks' headquarters, were made by the organizations headed by William E. King, state senator and Republican committeeman of the 2d ward, and Kurt Berliner, committeeman from the 6th country town district.

Both committeemen previously had been counted as aligned with the candidacy of H. Wallace Caldwell. Their enlistment with Brooks was the result of unanimous votes in their organizations, which were preceded by tests of sentiment among the voters that showed Brooks running far ahead of any other candidates.

Has 66% of County Committee.

King has been committeeman for four years, and his ward is well organized. His convention vote of 18,276 is by far the largest on the county central committee, and his swing to Brooks gives the candidate almost solid support from the south side wards. This situation is true also of the north side wards. Brooks now has about two-thirds of the county committee with him, and some more of the Caldwell committeemen are trying to open negotiations to come over.

"My organization is interested in the success of the Republican party at the polls in November," said Senator King, "and Brooks is the one man who can lead the Republican party to victory and deal a death blow to the present régime of reckless waste and extravagance in governmental spending.

Surveys Show Vote Strength.

"The workers of my organization have been surveying the sentiment of the voters of our ward for the last month and every report as well as the results of straw votes has proven that Brooks is the man the Republican voters want at the head of the state ticket. The survey showed further that Brooks will receive more votes than all of the other candidates combined.

"We have been impressed also with Brooks' stand on the racial question. The consideration of human rights is one of the first that must be taken into account in selecting a standard bearer and we know that Brooks will be a good governor for all races and all sections of the state."

Seven of Eleven Now in Camp.

Berliner's organization takes in all of Proviso township, a Republican stronghold. He said that his indorsement was brought about by a survey of the district which showed the Brooks' sentiment to be running strong and revealed the weakness of the Caldwell campaign. He is the seventh of the 11 country town committeemen to declare for Brooks.

After spending a day at his farm near Wedron, Brooks will resume his downstate campaign tour with meetings today at Elgin and Rockford. On Tuesday he will be at Woodstock and Waukegan, and at Aurora and Joliet on Wednesday.

SCRIPTURES WIN COLORED VOTES FOR MRS. BAUR

Mrs. Bertha Baur went to the Scriptures yesterday in her campaign for the Republican nomination from the Ninth congressional district, drawing fervent "amens" from every member of her colored congregation and a shouting endorsement of her candidacy.

Addressing a group of colored voters in St. Thomas Methodist church at Orleans and Oak streets, she took a Bible and read from Isaiah 6:8, "I heard the voice of the Lord saying, whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, 'Here am I; send me.'"

"Here am I, Bertha Baur, your neighbor and your friend," she told the gathering. "Why not send me?"

"Amen" shouted a baldheaded man on the front row. "Amen," chorused the choir, the gallery and the back row, and from then on, an antiphonal of "Amens" responded to each remark Mrs. Baur made.

Later Mrs. Baur joined in singing old spirituels, such as "When I Feel the Spirit Start to Move."

Cut Price Dairy's Truck Is Stolen and Burned

While Joseph Lydel, 2942 North Ashland avenue, driver for an independent dairy, was in a restaurant at 3169 Lincoln avenue early yesterday three young men stole his milk truck. Five miles away at Catalpa and Damen avenue they set it on fire. It was destroyed before firemen arrived. Police said the dairy has been cutting the price of milk. Windows in two delicatessens serviced by the dairy were broken on Friday.

FIGHT OF HORNER AND BUNDESEN TO BE OPENED HERE

Rivals End Pre-Primary Drive Downstate.

From now until primary election day on April 14 the two candidates for the Democratic governship nominations, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen and Gov. Horner, will center their efforts in Chicago and Cook county.

The regular organization's slate of state candidates, headed by Dr. Bundesen, has completed a lengthy downstate tour. These candidates will join now with the organization's county candidates, headed by State's Attorney Courtney, in a round of public appearances and speeches.

Horner Claims Attacked.

While preparations were being made yesterday for the final pre-primary campaigning, Gov. Horner's claims of befriending the public schools were attacked by State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, majority Democratic leader, in a radio speech, and by Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, in an indorsement of Dr. Bundesen.

"The governor takes credit," said Adamowski, "for having increased the state school distributive fund from $10,000,000 to $13,000,000. As a matter of fact he surely can recall that he advised legislative leaders that $10,000,000 was sufficient, and that he was opposed to any increase."

Mr. Puffer also spoke of Horner's opposition to increasing the school fund. He said the governor continually had asked for advice from school officials, but rejected every effort made to straighten out the financial dilemma in which the schools were gripped.

Charges Neglect of Schools.

"Instead of the champion of school legislation that we had expected to find in Horner," read his statement, "we found a man who neglected the schools at a time when the entire state system was paralyzed because of lack of funds."

Gov. Horner will wind up his downstate campaign today, and make his first Chicago appearance tomorrow at the Sherman hotel.

DECLARES YANK ADMITS "ERROR" ON GERMAN SHIP

MANILA, P. I., March 29.—(AP)—Commodore Fritz Kruse of the Hamburg-America line, asserted today Alvin T. Simonds, Boston manufacturer, "admitted he made a mistake" in giving an interview recently criticizing the Nazi government.

Simonds and his wife, passengers on the Hamburg-America liner Reliance, left the ship here Friday and were given a police guard because of fears expressed by the manufacturer that they would be attacked as the result of the interview.

Kruse's statement, mailed to the Manila newspapers as the Reliance left port, said Simonds' Singapore interview was "uncalled for, provocative, and annoyed German passengers very much indeed." Kruse said many American passengers branded the Simonds' anti-Nazi statement as "utterly unwaranted." "Furthermore he and Mrs. Simonds felt that he had so displeased German passengers it was better to leave the ship at Manila. They left of their own free will."

STUDY OF PAROLE PLEAS PROMISED BY DITCHBURNE

Steps to Curb Second Offenses Urged.

Harry S. Ditchburne, candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney, drew attention yesterday to the numerous crimes committed by paroled convicts and urged close coöperation between the state's attorney's office and the state parole board.

"Much criticism has been leveled at the present system under which prisoners are released on parole," Ditchburne said in a statement expanding on his promise, made in earlier campaign speeches, to follow closely, if he is elected, the applications of all prisoners seeking parole.

Rehabilitation Is Impeded.

"The rehabilitation of the property paroled convict is seriously impeded and interfered with by the errors that have been made in some instances.

"Newspaper accounts of crimes committed by second offenders and persons on parole make us all wonder whether the present system is working out in the manner intended under the indeterminate sentence law."

For many years, Ditchburne said, it has been the practice for the state's attorney to send with a prisoner's commitment papers to the institution in which he is confined a letter containing a history of his crime. When the prisoner's case comes before the parole board, he said, complaining witnesses, the judge who heard the trial, and the state's attorney are notified, but unless the state's attorney has a serious objection to parole of the convict it has been the practice not to send a representative to the hearing.

Assistant for Parole Work.

"When I am elected state's attorney I intend to assign a regular assistant to inquire thoroughly into all applications for parole, attend the hearings, and in every possible way protect the people of Cook county," Ditchburne said. "In this manner I am certain many mistakes will be avoided and much criticism of the system eliminated, and those who are entitled to parole will not suffer."

Such a specially assigned assistant state's attorney, he said, should have technical training in sociological, psychological, and criminological phases of the parole problem.

2 Seized After Chase When Auto Crashes

William Kofler, 24 years old, a private watchman, called the attention of Policeman Roy Madden to suspicious action of four men driving slowly about the district of Kedzie and Bryn Mawr avenues early yesterday. In Kofler's automobile the two started in a pursuit which led up McCormick boulevard into Evanston, ending when the fugitive car crashed into the North Western embankment at West Railroad avenue. Madden and Kofler seized two of the men who identified themselves as Nick Nechi, 26 years old, 5707 North Maplewood avenue, and Frank Cordone, 31 years old, 767 North Ashland avenue. The other two escaped. In the wrecked car were three revolvers.

FILE COMPLAINTS TODAY TO WEED OUT FAKE VOTERS

Hearings to Be Held Before Names Are Erased.

Applications to remove from the poll books the names of persons suspected of registering illegally for the April 14 primary will be filed today and tomorrow before the board of election commissioners in the city hall. Polling clerks and private individuals, who file the applications, must also present affidavits that they challenged the names from personal knowledge that the suspects are fraudulently registered.

Persons who were denied registration on March 17 and those who assert their names have since been illegally erased may also file applications today and tomorrow to have their names placed on the poll books. The election commissioners, Alexander J. McKay, Harry A. Lipsky, and Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, will receive applications from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. on both days.

Accused to Be Given Hearings

The commissioners will ask questions of those presenting applications to remove names and will then consider the cases Wednesday. The suspects will be asked to appear Thursday, Friday and Saturday to show cause why their names should not be erased. If they do not appear, the erasures will be made.

Any appeal from the board's action must be taken to County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. It is expected that nearly 60,000 suspect notices will be filed. As a result of a postoffice check on the regisration lists about 60,000 postcards were returned with notations that the persons to whom these cards were sent did not live at the given addresses.

Recanvass Is Ordered.

Precinct election clerks were ordered to re-canvass the addresses and then make applications to erase names of the fraududent registrants.

If the clerks fail to file the suspect notices or attempt to disfranchise legally qualified voters they will be prosecuted, Judge Jarecki said.

Meanwhile throughout the city civic organizations will swing into their campaign today to aid in purging the registration lists of unqualified voters and to assure an honest primary, free from the fraud that has tainted Cook county elections in past years.

Shell in Cigar Explodes in Man's Mouth; Lip Hurt

Newark, N. J., March 29.—[Special.]—While Albert Coleman was standing on a street corner tonight the cigar which he was smoking exploded in his mouth. It was found that the explosion was caused by a .22 caliber cartridge which had been imbedded in the cigar. A fragment of the casing lacerated Coleman's lower lip. He was treated by a druggist and went home.

Rochester, N. Y., March 29.—(AP)—An 18 year old ballet dancer was shot to death and her two escorts wounded today after the girl sought to retrieve a purse she claimed her father had taken from his estranged wife.

Police arrested the father, John Schenk, and charged him with first degree murder.

Wounded were Jack Wehbring, 20, and Nelvin Zeitvogel, 21, both of Irondequoit, a suburb. Both are in a critical condition.

District Attorney Daniel J. O'Mara said the girl and her two companions were shot when their car was forced off the road near this city by one driven by Schenk. Wehbring, the district attorney said, was shot in the back when he attempted to flee. The girl and Zeitvogel, the prosecutor said, were shot as they sat in the car. They were returning from a lake shore party.

ACT TO RELIEVE DETENTION HOME CROWDING TODAY

Plans for relieving overcrowded conditions which resulted in a recent attempted break from the juvenile detenion home will be decided on today by the board of county commissioners.

Acting on a recommendation of its public service committee, the board is expected to take steps to force the state to remove children who are awaiting transportation to the state institutions for feeble minded children at Dixon and Lincoln, and to enter a claim against the state for $14,440 for the care of such children since Jan. 1, 1935.

Commissioner Elizabeth Conkey, who has been investigating conditions at the juvenile home, told the committee that some children destined for state institutions have been held at the home for from six to eight months. She said it costs the county $2.25 a day to care for each child.

DOWNSTATE TURN AGAINST HORNER SHOWN IN SURVEY

Party Lineup Breaking for Bundesen.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Horner's lineup of downstate Democratic county organizations, almost a solid wall when the active campaign opened a month ago, has started to crumble, according to reports received by THE TRIBUNE from its Illinois correspondents.

The primary is two weeks from tomorrow and the big question in the mind of experts is whether the forces backing Dr. Herman N. Bundesen against the governor for the nomination can break down enough of the carefully prepared structure in that fortnight to turn the present pro-Horner tide downstate.

Obtained Early Indorsements.

Early last winter the state administration put on a thorough program of obtaining indorsements in all counties. The plan succeeded in 99 out of the 101 counties downstate and latest reports indicate that the Bundesen forces so far have been able to shift the regular organization support in less than twenty counties.

That the Horner forces were able to control the county organizations at the outset has caused the state leaders as much pain as anything in the campaign. They said that if the governor had followed his own ideas on distribution of state patronage in 1933, 1934, and 1935 the lineup of counties with which he started out would have been impossible.

Until Horner's election the practice under one state administration after another was to distribute state patronage through members of the legislature. That gave previous governors control of the assembly. Following Horner's victory in 1932 the state leaders who put him over, led by the late A. J. Cermak, insisted that downstate jobs be handed out through the county committees.

System Adopted by Horner.

Reluctantly, it was said at the time, Horner adopted the new system. Many county chairmen and their relatives were given jobs. All state positions in each county were made subject to the wishes of the local committee. The result was that when Gov. Horner called for indorsements by the county organizations they were forthcoming in nearly all instances.

That his control, however, is being broken in some counties is shown by reports from correspondents of THE TRIBUNE on developments during the last week. Extracts from some of these reports follow:

MARION—"Bundesen undoubtedly gained over Horner when the two marched into the 25th congressional district a week apart. Williamson county is an example of the turn to Bundesen. Although the Democratic county committee reputedly has indorsed Horner, not an elective officer in the county is supporting the gov- county officialdom is a single deputy sherif. The tax collector has discontinued his practice of stamping on tax receipts the information that Gov. Horner took the state tax off real estate."

Bundesen Running Strong.

MOUNT VERNON—"Horner still leads in Jefferson county. Reports, however, from a large number of southern Illinois counties below Mount Vernon are that Bundesen leads him and is running strong."

GRANITE CITY—"Throughout this section there is a strong tendency to favor Horner. The Kelly-Nash flavor is not tasteful."

EAST ST. LOUIS — "Republicans are jubilant regarding the Democratic split created by the Horner candidacy in the face of opposition from the state central committee of which Bruce Campbell, East St. Louis, is chairman."

DANVILLE—"Horner still has the edge over Bundesen. Vermilion county has many Democrats on the state pay roll and thus far none of them has gone over to the other camp. Some pressure is being brought to swing WPA workers for Bundesen."

Seen as Political Strategy.

BLOOMINGTON—"Recently there has been voiced in Bloomington and nearby counties the opinion that the Horner-Kelly feud is a piece of political strategy to gain downstate support for Horner and sway the election to the Democrats."

SPRINGFIELD — "Horner, whose first introduction to downstate came when Cermak placarded him as a Chicago man, has now been accepted as the downstate's champion against 'Chicago domination.' That situation is ludicrous but there seems to be no doubt Horner has a strangle hold on the rural vote."

DECATUR—"Horner has approximately 90 per cent of the county central committee and most of the state jobholders. Macon county is conceded to Horner."

PEORIA—"During the last week an increase in strength for the Bundesen forces has reduced the edge held by Horner."

CHAMPAIGN—"Horner has district headquarters in Champaign and they are leaving nothing undone to boost their candidate. Bundesen just recently opened headquarters, but will receive a small vote."

Rockford for Bundesen.

ROCKFORD—"Bundesen still is apparently the favorite. Horner will show strength, but not enough to win the Rockford area."

GALESBURG—"Horner boosted his strength considerably. It appears now that Horner will carry Knox county, possibly by several thousand votes."

ROCK ISLAND—"Horner organizations are active and it appears the governor will come out on top."

JOLIET—"Horner still appears to lead Bundesen in Will county. The pay rollers are with the governor, but it is understood Bundesen has the WPA workers' support."

ELGIN — "Horner is gaining strength over Bundesen and it is believed he will carry Kane county by a comfortable margin."

Little Aid from Ticket.

The comment of most of the downstate correspondents concerning the other offices was to the general effect that Gov. Horner is not materially aided by his running mates except John E. Cassidy, candidate for lieutenant governor, who is said to be of some help in his home town of Peoria. The Horner candidate for state auditor, Homer Mat Adams of Urbana, who is 26 years old, is said to be considered too young for the office. Joseph T. Spiker, running for treasurer on the ticket, is a Chicago druggist and is not known downstate.

The regular candidates running with Bundesen—John Stelle, Edward J. Hughes, Edward J. Barrett, John C. Martin, and Otto Kerner—are well known throughout the state.

LIBERTY LEAGUE ASKS CANDIDATES TO BACK COURTS

Only Safeguard to Rights, Its Contention.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Declaring that the unimpaired power of the federal judiciary is the only safeguard for constitutional rights against "the whims and exactions of autocratic burocracy," the American Liberty league today called upon all political parties to include in their platforms a plank unequivocally opposing any scheme to curb the courts.

With an inferential thrust at President Roosevelt, the league also suggested a provision declaring that "strict adherence to this pledge . . . is an obligation binding in honor upon the candidates who accept the nominations for the presidency and vice presidency."

Resolution Made Public.

The Liberty league made public a resolution adopted on March 26 by its executive committee, which includes such prominent citizens as Alfred E. Smith and John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential nominees; Sewell L. Avery and A. A. Sprague of Chicago; Joseph E. Bly, former Democratic governor of Massachusetts, and Representative James W. Wadsworth [Rep., N. Y.], former United States senator.

The resolution began with a "whereas" that there are "serious indications that an attempt is being made to destroy the American system of constitutional government by weakening the proper powers now exercised by the judicial branch in accordance with the constitution."

The suggested plank follows: "We pledge our party unequivocally to oppose any attempt to curtail or abolish any of the powers now exercised by the judicial branch of the government, whether such attempt be made directly through proposals to amend the federal constitution, or indirectly through legislative devices intended to accomplish the same result by a devious route."

"This resolution is adopted," it declares, "in the firm belief that the action suggested is such as could not possible be distasteful to any American citizen who desires, sincerely, the preservation of constitutional self-government in the United States.

Seek Free Speech Protection.

"It is adopted in the belief that it is wholesome to recall to the people of the United States the fact that if the power of the judiciary be impaired there will remain no effective safeguard of such constitutional rights as free speech, a free press, trial by jury, religious liberty, and protection of homes and possessions against the whims and exactions of autocratic burocracy, or self-serving temporary legislative majorities.

"It is adopted in the belief that the American people are not unmindful that according to decisions of our highest court there have been attempts during the last three years to infringe upon the rights and liberties guaranteed by five of the ten articles of the bill of rights.

"It is adopted in the belief that the American people realize fully that in many of the great nations of the world today citizens are denied the right of free speech, a free press, peaceable assembly, and religious liberty—because of the absence of constitutional guarantees and an untrammeled judiciary to make such guarantees effective."

10 DEAD, 3 HURT TOLL OF TRAIN AND BUS CRASH

Byron, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—Ten persons, including four members of one family, were dead today from the crash of a bus and a section of the central of Georgia's limited passenger train, the Southland, which left the rails after the impact.

Eight mangled bodies were removed from the wreckage following the accident late last night and two others, including the bus driver, died today without regaining consciousness. Three were in hospitals with serious injuries.

Although the entire train—locomotive, three express cars, and two coaches—was derailed, railroad officials said none of its crew or passengers was injured.

The dead: Mrs. Sara Sumter, 45, of Americus, Ga.; W. J. Whitehurst, 45, of Macon, Ga.; O. H. Looney, 35, bus driver, of Macon; Ely Williams, 80, of Macon; Lloyd Allen Jones, 25, of Byron; Emma Law, 55, of Montezuma, Ga.; her daughter, Henrietta Martin, 30, and the latter's two children, Lucy Mae, 3, and a boy, 18 months old; an unidentified man, about 45.

Miss Dora Poole and Miss Ruby Gunter, who had just left the bus, saw the tragedy. They said the bus had just pulled out of its station and rolled on the tracks when the train struck it amidships.

CITIZENS HEAR 4 KILLERS TELL PEACOCK DEATH

Witnesses Are Business Men and Doctors.

his apartment in the Edgewater Beach apartments, 5555 Sheridan road, on a fake mercy call.

One of the strange happenings was an attempt by Goethe's gang to hold up Capt. O'Connell's brother, Dr. John P. O'Connell, physician for the city civil service commission, on the night of March 20, outside the Park Lane hotel, 2842 Sheridan road. When Dr. O'Connell brushed aside a pistol with which Nash threatened him the gang took fright and fled.

Theft from Chief's Old Teacher.

The night before they had stolen the automobile of Mrs. Clarence Arlin, 925 Montrose avenue, who was Goethe's teacher when he attended the Lafayette school. They abandoned the car, stole another, and were parked without lights in an alley at the rear of 928 Hoyne avenue, when two policemen approached.

Without warning the young hoodlums opened fire. The policemen fired back, but in the darkness the four gangsters escaped. Capt. O'Connell believed they were probably neighborhood toughs, members of the gang he was seeking for a wave of recent robberies in his district.

Goethe and Nash Suspected.

The police captain began a roundup of all known hoodlums in the area. In particular he asked for the arrest of Goethe and Nash, well known in the district, who were released from the Bridewell on Dec. 3, and who were reported to have turned again to robbery.

They were picked up last Thursday and soon began confessing a series of petty larcenies. They named Reck and he was seized. Dr. O'Connell identified the three as his assailants, but told of a fourth member of the gang. This remark led to Livingston's arrest.

The four were scrutinized closely by Sergt. Andrew Aitken of the detective bureau, assigned to the Peacock investigation. Sergt. Aitken was convinced Dr. Peacock was slain by just such a gang of tough "young punks."

Four Other Doctors Help Out.

Four other physicians had fallen prey to robbers who lured them out at night on fake mercy calls. Sergt. Aitken believed that the men who robbed these doctors killed Dr. Peacock.

The four physician victims went to the West North avenue station Friday night and identified the gang. In a few hours Sergt. Aitkin, by playing the youths off against each other, obtained their admission of the Peacock murder.

Another under arrest last night is Joseph Dziedzic, 33 years old, 2734 Cortez street, from whom the gang said they "rented" a pistol for some of their robberies. This gun was abandoned in their flight after the battle with two policemen the night of March 19. Police still are seeking the pistol used to kill Dr. Peacock.

4,000 Clerks and Delivery Boys in N. Y. Vote to Strike

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—A strike of between 4,000 and 5,000 clerks and delivery boys in fruit and vegetable stores in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn to combat a threatened lockout by independent store owners was voted by the retail dairy, grocery, fruit, and vegetable clerks union at a meeting of its members today. The large chain stores are not involved.

YOUTH IS HOPEFUL AFTER HE'S GIVEN 45 BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS

St. Louis, Mo., March 29.—(AP)—In high spirits today after his 45th blood transfusion in two years, James Hedley, 23 year old victim of a rare disease—aplastic anemia—expressed confidence he would overcome the malady for which there is no known cure.

For 24 months Hedley has literally lived on borrowed blood. This week, after the youth's funds were exhausted, a public appeal brought 75 offers from volunteer donors.

Hedley's ailment results from nonfunctioning of bone marrow, source of red blood cells. Physicians have told him there are cases on record where the bone marrow has suddenly sprung to life.

They said his case differed from pernicious anemia in that the latter is caused by defective bone marrow and may be relieved by a diet of liver and administration of liver extracts.

"Somebody else will have this trouble some day and if they cure me they'll be able to cure others," Hedley said. "I've drunk warm animal blood and have taken every sort of treatment. Needles get a little tiresome sometimes, but I don't mind them any more. I can eat anything, but every day I drink a half pound of chopped liver in tomato juice."

He has made 14 trips to Barnes hospital. Doctors say he has had 33 tranfusions, but Hedley said he has kept a careful count and his list adds to 45. He has had four operations including removal of the spleen.

"After a series of transfusions, I'm a new person," he declared, "then I begin to get weak and go back to the hospital.

"The doctors are so interested in me that it's almost a pleasure. One told me of a fellow with this trouble who had 105 transfusions, and his marrow started to work. He lived for two years and was killed by an automobile.

"Well, I'll be more careful than that. It wouldn't be fair to the people who have helped me if I let myself get careless."

RUNS STOLEN CAR INTO HOUSE AND LANDS IN CELL

Andrew Tarnony, 21 years old, 2236 North Mason avenue, lost control of an automobile he was steering out of the driveway at his home yesterday, and the car crashed into a house across the street at 2243 North Mason avenue, which is owned by Anthony Jablonski, a city fireman. Damage to the house was estimated at $200.

ANDREW TARNONY.

Neighbors notified Cragin police and Sergt. Paul Huettig took Tornony to the station with his runaway automobile. There it was learned the car had been stolen Saturday from Albert Bernstrom, 3837 North Ashland avenue, who reported he had been held up at Addison street and Narragansett avenue by three young gunmen.

Later Tarnony was identified by two milk wagon drivers, Vernon Heath and Edward Healy, as one of three men who robbed them recently.

HEARING ON TAX BILL IS CALLED A 'FISHING' SCHEME

New Dealers Are Without Definite Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—On the eve of the hearings on the 800 million dollar corporation tax bill six Republican members of the house ways and means committee joined today in a statement declaring the measure "a desperate political maneuver" to evade the urgent issue of balancing the budget.

"The proceedings scheduled to begin tomorrow morning before the ways and means committee have been arranged in a wholly irregular manner," said the joint statement. "They do not constitute legislative hearings on a tax bill, as the majority members of the committee would have the country believe, for there is no tax bill.

"To date, the administration still is without a fiscal program. Neither does it have a budget policy by which to measure expenditures against revenues.

Bill Required First.

"Since the President's 'simplified' tax program was outlined to congress on March 3, no revenue bill ever has been drafted, in whole or in part, in either the house or senate. Regular legislative procedure requires that public hearings be held after a tentative bill has been drafted.

"In these circumstances, the 'hearings' this week will be only a fishing expedition—another exploration into the economic stratosphere—in the hope that at some point in the flight somebody will suggest a defensible revenue program.

Budget Problem Ultimate.

"Ultimately this administration will be compelled to come to grips with its budget program. When an honest revenue bill, directed to a balanced budget, is submitted to congress, it will command cordial support among Republican members.

"Meanwhile, however, we regard it as of the utmost importance that the present gesture be appraised fairly by the nation for what it is—a desperate political maneuver to evade an urgent national issue."

REDS SEEKING RULE OF LABOR, WARNS OFFICER

Lenoard Tells Plans to Grab Control.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—A charge that communists are attempting to "bore into" organized labor through John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization today enlivened a heated election campaign in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

The Steel Workers' union, a charter member of the American Federation of Labor, rapidly is becoming a focal point in the contest between the "craft" union advocates and the "industrial" group headed by Lewis. Its annual convention begins April 28, and the fight is to gain control of that session.

Candidate Accuses Reds.

Louis J. Leonard, international secretary of the Amalgamated, who is being boosted as a candidate by many of the present administration's followers to succeed Michael J. Tighe, 79 year old president, declared:

"We know communists are making the most serious threat we yet have faced to gain power in our union. They are working hand-in-hand with those strange bedfellows, Lewis and John Brophy, in the industrial committee.

[Brophy was chief organizer of the old National Miners' union ten years ago, a bitter rival of the United Mine Workers, headed by Lewis.]

"Recently prominent radicals adopted a campaign plan in Cleveland that was promulgated by William Z. Foster, the communist.

Group Would Seek Control.

"This plan calls for setting up of local committees among both the Amalgamated and company union locals—a nucleus of loud shouters, who in case of a strike disorder would try to grab control."

Leonard said Clarence Irvin of Youngstown, a prominent "rank and file" leader in the 1934 Amalgamated association convention which almost voted a nationwide strike, attended the Cleveland conference and has been "following up the orders."

Leonard referred to a recent article in the Sunday Worker appearing under Foster's name, which stated the communists have "many differences" with Lewis and other leaders of his industrial committee, but:

"We will give them 100 per cent cooperation and support, as we would any other trade union leaders, in a militant campaign to organize steel."

Norbert Kolb and 2d Wife Adopt Baby from Cradle

Norbert U. Kolb, 6149 North Talman avenue, a tuckpointing contractor, and his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Kolb, announced yesterday they have adopted a baby boy from the Cradle in Evanston, and have named him Norbert Jr. Mrs. Kolb said she arranged the adoption as a surprise to her husband. Kolb's former wife, Mrs. Ella Kolb, 2507 Catalpa avenue, brought suit for $75,000 damages against Mrs. Gertrude Kolb last year, charging alienation of affections. Judge Harry M. Fisher decided in favor of Mrs. Gertrude Kolb.

"SPRING TONIC" FOR MODERNS

● Spring tonic used to mean sulphur'n' molasses. But now, in the light of modern dietetic knowledge, wise folks "tone up" for spring a much more pleasant way. They simply cut down on rich foods, and drink plenty of Bowman Milk.

This is an easy way to get over that "logy" feeling you have when you eat more and exercise less. And it's a safe plan because Bowman Milk will keep your diet properly balanced. What's more, it supplies food values essential to vitality.

Start drinking at least a pint of Bowman's Grade "A" Milk every day. If you're not already getting Bowman service, call Sup. 6800.

LARGER DEFICIT FEARED DESPITE TAX YIELD GAINS

Record Total Is Expected Next Fiscal Year.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the increased yield of existing taxes and the prospective additional revenue from new taxes about to be enacted, government expenditures are increasing to such an extent that a balanced budget is becoming more and more remote.

The President in his relief message to congress held out the promise of a smaller deficit in the next than in the current fiscal year. Actually, however, it looks as if the deficit would be greater than ever unless the cost of relief should prove much less than this year. In any event the expenditures of the federal government are destined, it appears, to reach a record breaking total.

Expenditures Mounting.

Expenditures have been steadily mounting ever since Mr. Roosevelt took office. In the fiscal year of 1934 they were $7,105,050,084. In 1935 they were $7,375,825,165. This fiscal year ending June 30 next it is estimated that they will total $7,645,301,338 and in the next fiscal year they are expected to touch 8 billion 100 millions, exclusive of the veterans' bonus payment. If the bonus be included the total will rise to a possible 9½ billions. With the bonus included the deficit next year bids fair to top the record breaking 4 billion dollar deficit of 1934.

The President also made a gesture in the direction of greater economy several weeks ago when he announced at a press conference the forthcoming cancellation of approximately 1 billion dollars that the alphabetical agencies are authorized to spend. Mr. Roosevelt said the depression was over and the authorized expenditures could be curtailed.

Not a Dollar Canceled.

In the interest of accuracy I took occasion to check up on the President's statement. I found that up to the close of business last night absolutely nothing has been done to cancel one dollar of the authorized New Deal expenditures. Acting Secretary of the Treasury Taylor thought that possibly the curtailment would be effected by the committee appointed by the President to reorganize the administrative arm of the government which is to report next year.

In the meantime it appears that the authorization of about 700 millions for the Home Owners' Loan corporation will lapse by statute on June 13 next anyway. At the same time congress is being asked to authorize increased expenditures for the Commodity Credit corporation and other New Deal agencies.

Accounting Is Sought.

Representative James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, thinks that with proper economy exercised an additional 1 billion for relief in the next fiscal year should be sufficient, instead of the 1½ billions the President asked for. He said today that Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins will be called on for a detailed accounting of the expenditure of the 4 billion work relief fund when the appropriations committee starts hearings on the President's recommendations next week.

Armed with complaints of high WPA administrative costs and spreading dissension over WPA state administration, house Republicans plan to make the most of their opportunity to get at the intimate facts of relief spending.

Three minority members of the committee — Representatives John Taber and Robert L. Bacon of New York and Lloyd Thurston of Iowa—all have questions they want to put to Mr. Hopkins. Democratic members want to avoid a partisan foray, but are equally anxious to get at the facts.

Plans to Quiz Hopkins.

"I intend to ask Mr. Hopkins what his rules are going to be, what his policies are going to be, and what his overhead has been and is going to be," Representative Bacon said tonight. "By this time they certainly ought to know where they are going.

"He ought to bring in here a very specific, detailed plan of how he intends to spend this money. If he hasn't had plenty of experience in planning after three years of profligate spending, he never will have. If he can show definitly how he intends to spend this money, then the committee can decide whether it ought to be earmarked."

Mr. Bacon said he is particularly interested in the range of salaries on WPA pay rolls, because of complaints he has received that the cost of administration is out of proportion to relief actually dispensed. He said congress approved the last relief appropriation without any specific information as to plans, and "should not again make the same mistake."

Plan Is Challenged.

In his relief message the President said it is up to industry to reduce the relief rolls by increasing employment arbitrarily by reduction of hours of labor without decrease of wages. The National Chamber of Commerce immediately called the President's bluff by inviting Secretary of Commerce Roper to tell its members at their convention next month how to comply without going bankrupt. The National Association of Manufacturers asserted that in the last two years the manufacturing industry has provided 80 per cent of the new employment.

"It has, and is," said the association, "carrying more than its proportionate share and on the whole has listed average hourly rates to the level or beyond those of 1929. Less than 2 million additional workers will bring manufacturing employment up to the 1929 maximum and it is thus obvious that manufacturers cannot provide work for the nine million or more jobless."

OPEN NEW CAMPAIGN TO HALT 'CHISELING' ON U. S. WORK RELIEF

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—A new campaign against work relief "chiselers" was started today by Dallas Dort, head of the WPA division of investigation.

Calling his district supervisors here for a three day conference, Dort said that so far his "W-men" have held graft under the 4 billion dollar work relief program to an "infinitesimal" amount, but he wanted to tighten up his investigative force.

Among other things the supervisors of the 15 investigation areas into which the country has been divided will compare notes in advance of congressional approval of the 1 billion 500 million dollar appropriation to continue WPA which President Roosevelt recently asked. They will go over the 1,300 cases on which investigations have been completed or are under way.

Flying south with her were the five sled dogs which toiled over blizzard swept trails on the longest journey of its kind ever made by a woman in the northland. Miss Joyce was born Jan. 18, 1909, at Baraboo, Wis.

Did you know this about Red & Pink Salmon?
Pink salmon is as good as red salmon although the color is not as attractive and red salmon contains somewhat more oil. The difference in price is because pink salmon is far more abundant than red. They are smaller in size and spawn when two years old, whereas red salmon takes four to six years to mature. If your budget is low, always buy pink salmon; if moderate, buy red salmon when color and eye appeal are important, as in salads or when can of salmon is to be served whole rather than flaked and mixed with a sauce.

"RIGHT SHOULDER LOW" SUITS

THE next time you adjust the braces on your trousers make this test: do you have to "take in more slack" on the one that goes over your right shoulder than on the one that goes over your left? The chances are 6 out of 10 that you do. Most men are right handed. Most men use their right arms more. And the natural result is the lower right shoulder.

Yet suits have almost always been designed and cut as though both shoulders were equal in height. This has made suits more difficult to fit. And it is one of those small details that intangibly has affected the appearance of a man's clothes.

These are the factors which led to the development of our "right shoulder low" suits for men whose right shoulders are low. The low shoulder is taken into consideration from the first. The suits are designed and tailored with this fact in mind.

We believe that it makes them better suits; that it will increase the satisfaction you get from your clothes; that it will make an intangible yet very positive difference in fit and appearance.

FRANCE DEMANDS SHOWDOWN WITH HITLER ON PEACE

Flandin Attacks German Policy of Force.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 29. — France will stand or fall with her allies, the little entente [Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia] and Russia. She will not buy her own security by giving Reichsfuehrer Hitler a free hand in the rest of Europe. Germany's reply to the recent peace propositions of the Locarno powers of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Belgium will be considered acceptable or inacceptable by this criterion.

This clear cut summons to the Fuehrer to lay his cards on the table was made tonight in an election speech by Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin in the historic town of Vezelay, where St. Bernard preached the second crusade.

Attacks German Philosophy.

In addition to reaffirming the soviet formula of the indivisibility of world peace Flandin established a striking contrast between the French theory of world law and the Nazi conception of the dynamic rights of the German people—the latest version of the pre-war slogan of Germany's right to a place in the sun.

"What will be the value of a treaty tomorrow," Flandin exclaimed, "if Germany reserves to herself the right to repudiate it in the name of eternal morality and the vital rights of the German people?

"The second question of principle which will be raised before the discussion of a new accord with Germany is who is an impartial and independent judge whom Germany will recognize and to whose decisions she will conform?

"It is impossible not to see the contradiction between the two conceptions of international life which confront one another. Germany's is a conception of force, that of the rest of the world is a conception of law."

Demands a Showdown.

Flandin's bristling speech means, in the opinion of diplomatic circles, that France is seeking a showdown with Germany and that unless the reich gives concrete proof it has no aggressive intentions in central Europe or against Russia France will refuse further negotiations and get ready for war sooner or later.

Here are some pertinent questions Flandin put to the fuehrer and the comments which he made upon them:

"The Fuehrer says Germany does not want to take anything from anybody, but he already had said that after the Saar plebiscite. He then also reaffirmed the Locarno treaty, which since has been repudiated. In the name of the integral sovereignty of the German people, does the Fuehrer intend, when he thinks the moment favorable, to bring up the Danzig question?

"When he proposes a nonaggression pact with Lithuania does he accept definitly the status of Memel or is he just stalling for time to prepare new deeds of force in violation of treaties?

A Question About Colonies.

"If Germany intends to assert her right to possess and exploit colonies, what colonies is she going to claim?

"For us peace is indivisible and cannot be assured by bilateral pacts of nonaggression of which certain ones would be repudiated at the desired moment while others would cover the aggressor against collective action destined to assure respect for treaties.

"Is it not significant that at the moment Hitler launches his peace appeal, Nazi propaganda is redoubling in Austria, Danish Schleswig, Polish Silesia, among the German minority in Czechoslovakia, and even in German Switzerland?

"Yes or no, does Hitler renounce annexation and even full absorption of the populations of these territories into the reich, or does he proclaim that these are internal affairs of the German people in which he does not intend to let other nations meddle?

"If the latter case be the truth, then we understand why Germany is rearming at a record pace."

PRINCE RUPPRECHT OF BAVARIA REFUSES TO VOTE FOR HITLER

MUNICH, Germany, March 29.—(AP)—Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria and his wife were among the few who dared to stand out today against the Nazi steamroller and refused to vote in the reichstag election. When Storm Troopers called to remind the 66 year old heir to the now defunct throne that he had not yet voted he politely refused. No flags were flown from his home.

Rally Behind Leader's Rhineland Policy.

of the persons who did not vote. Each qualified voter received a slip indicating his polling place and informing him of the number under which he was inscribed. Many of the slips were accompanied by warnings that if the citizens failed to vote by noon Storm Troopers would take them to the polls. The slips were turned in and exchanged for ballots.

Troops Call on Voters.

Shortly before the polls closed at 6 p. m. Hitler Youths and Storm Troopers called at the homes of persons who had not voted in order to induce them to go to the polls.

Persons who cast their ballots received little brass buttons which read: "Freedom and bread, March 29, 1936."

As early as an hour before the polling places closed it was announced that a number of cities and towns had voted 100 per cent for Hitler.

The highest returns were in the Saar and the Palatinate where 99.7 per cent of the votes cast were in the fuehrer's favor. At Hamburg the returns were lowest, with 95 per cent.

For the first time in the history of aviation a polling booth was established in the air. It was aboard the new dirigible Van Hindenburg, whose 104 passengers and crew voted solidly for Hitler. The Hindenberg and the Graf Zeppelin cruised over the Saar and the Rhineland all day long. Both airships landed at Friedrichshafen this evening.

Vote on German Ships.

Germans residing abroad boarded German ships in order to vote. Germans in Manchukuo boarded a steamer at Dairen. When it was announced all had voted for Hitler they joined in singing "The Watch on the Rhine," dispatches said.

A special plane rushed twenty Germans from Paris to Saarbruecken where they voted.

In Waldsassen, Bavaria, a convent asked for a special polling place so that the nuns "could show they were voting for the fuehrer" despite the friction existing between the Catholic church and the Nazis.

GENERAL URGES REORGANIZATION OF ENTIRE ARMY

Smaller and Faster Units Held Vital Need.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Reorganization of the entire army to create a speedier, more efficient fighting machine was urged today by Brig. Gen. Charles D. Roberts, commanding officer at Fort Ontario, N. Y.

To accomplish this Roberts recommended drastic reductions in the size and makeup of existing units, simplification of command, and motorization and rearming of the infantry—the "backbone" of the army.

Under Roberts' plan, outlined in the Infantry Journal, the size of the infantry division would be reduced to 11,422 men and 608 officers—less than half the present strength—and a similar slashing and regrouping would be followed all down through regiments, companies, battalions, and squads.

Soldier for 39 Years.

The plan was evolved through his 39 years' experience in the Spanish-American war, Philippine insurrection, Vera Cruz expedition in Mexico, and service as director of the infantry board.

"When we entered the world war," Roberts said, "we had available a tremendous reservoir of untrained man power. Rightly or wrongly we used this man power with the utmost lavishness to make up for our lack of experience and training.

"Our division of 28,000 men was almost double the strength of the French and British divisions. Everybody admitted that it was too large and unwieldy, and at the end of the war it was cut down to under 20,000 men. Since then it has been gradually enlarged until it has a paper strength of 25,000 men."

New Problems Created.

"Since the world war," he added, "advantages in mechanization and motorization, on the ground and in the air, and in methods of communication, make practicable the rapid movement of troops to the battlefield and on the battlefield, increasing mobility and creating new problems. These problems make it evident that complete reorganization and reequipment of our fighting division is necessary."

The division, under the Roberts plan, would consist of three infantry regiments of 333 officers and 7,005 enlisted men; one field artillery regiment, one infantry tank battalion, one engineer combat battalion, one medical battalion, one quartermaster train, and one company each of headquarters' troops, military police, and signal corps to bring the total to 608 officers and 11,422 men.

Claims 'Chute Leap Mark After 21 Air Descents

Los Angeles, March 29.—(AP)—Herbert Stark put in a busy day jumping from airplanes. The 23 year old Compton, Cal., youth took to his parachute from a plane at 2,000 feet at 6:50 a. m. today, and from then until 4 o'clock bailed out 21 times. Stark said he was filing application for the world's record which he said was held by Troy Colback of Long Beach, who made 15 successive jumps.

BOTTOM LAND DWELLERS FLEE FLOODED OHIO

Residents in Four States Driven from Homes.

Louisville, Ky., March 29.—(AP)—Flooded from Pittsburgh to the Mississippi, the Ohio river today crept over roads, menaced factories, and forced bottom land dwellers to move.

Some hundreds of persons in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, and Illinois moved out. The upper river fell, but below Louisville the rise continued slowly. The river neared the thirty-seven foot stage here today, surrounding scores of additional homes.

Near Henderson, Ky., some thousands of acres of bottoms were under water and the river was rising slowly.

Near Flood Stage at Cairo.

At Cairo, Ill., the Ohio rose within a foot and a half of flood stage after a foot rise the last 24 hours. More than a dozen families left their homes at Golconda, Ill., where Front street was under water. At Cannelton, Ind., about a score of refugees were cared for.

Southern streams were rising. The Tennessee river swirled over thousands of acres of lowlands. Low parts of Chattanooga, Tenn., were under water. More than 100 homes were vacated.

Meanwhile the flood was receding on the upper Ohio. National Guardsmen left Pittsburgh, which was expected to be back to normal this week.

At Cincinnati the Ohio was expected to be back in its normal channel by Wednesday or Thursday.

Seek to Restore Projects.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Senators and representatives began a drive today to restore nearly a half billion dollars' worth of projects to the "omnibus" flood control bill hastily revamped because of the east's floods.

These projects, labeled "pork" by Chairman Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] of the senate commerce committee, were eliminated by army engineers instructed to draft a measure limited to approximately 300 million dollars for reservoirs and levees which the floods showed were really needed.

Aware of the protests, Copeland called a meeting of his committee for tomorrow and invited members of congress to justify any projects eliminated.

LEADERS OF WORLD JEWRY TO COMBAT ANTI-SEMITIC WAVE

PARIS, March 29.—(AP)—Leaders of world Jewry will hold a congress here in August to discuss methods for combating an anti-Semitic wave, which they say is sweeping the entire world, "America not excepted."

LOUIS LIPSKY.

Organization of the various independent Jewish bodies into one centrally controled unit is imperative, said Louis Lipsky, honorary president of the Zionist Organization of America, if the fight against anti-Semitism is to be carried on effectively.

The object of the world congress, he said, is "to organize Jews of all lands to fight for equality of Jewish rights and to establish an elected group to act for them in their common interest."

More than 300 delegates, elected by Jewish organizations throughout the world, will attend the congress. The United States, whose 4,228,000 citizens of Jewish faith represent more than a quarter of the globe's entire Jewish population, will have 70 delegates.

SONS OF POLICE AID AT MISSION FOR POLICEMEN

A special mission for policemen was held yesterday at St. Patrick Roman Catholic church, Des Plaines and Adams streets, with three priests who are sons of Chicago policemen assisting the visiting pastor, Father Regis Barrett, O. S. B., of New Jersey.

The pastor of St. Patrick's is Father Thomas J. Hayes. His assistants are Father John Kane and Father Joseph King. They are the sons of Policemen Dennis Hayes, Thomas Kane, and John J. King, all members of the trafic force.

Father Barrett is well known in the east for his work among policemen. He has enrolled thousands of policemen under the patronage of Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal.

HOLDUP VICTIM IS NEAR DEATH; SHOT BY PAROLED PAIR

Sam Bell, 42 years old, 7845 Essex avenue, who was shot and wounded early yesterday by one of two paroled convicts during their robbery tour on the south side, was reported in a critical condition last night at the South Shore hospital. One of the ex-convicts, Anthony Rossolille, alias Tony Rosselle, 23 years old, was later shot to death in a gun fight with two policemen.

The other robber, Stephen Przybyla, alias John Carson, 23 years old, 2645 Adams street, and Mrs. Ruth Mitchell Hetzell, 21 years old, 441 South Oakley boulevard, who accompanied the two men on their holdups, were captured after Rossolille was shot.

Delicatessen Is First Stop.

The bandits first held up a delicatessen at 7847 Essex avenue, where they shot Bell, owner of a cigar store at 25 East Jackson boulevard. They fled without loot and drove to a candy store at 5858 Stony Island avenue. There they took $40.

As the robbers' car sped north, with Rossolille at the wheel, it struck a fire department truck in front of 3245 Indiana avenue. Rossolille tried to swing his car around, and knocked down Fire Lieutenant Ray Daly. Policemen William Davis and Michael Tydings of Stanton avenue station hailed Rossolille, and when he displayed a pistol they opened fire. Rossolille was struck in the arm and head and was dead when taken to Mercy hospital.

Placed on Probation Twice.

Police records disclosed that Rossolille was arrested on March 10, 1930, for automobile theft. The charge was later changed to one of driving an automobile without the owner's consent and he was placed on probation for a year. On Sept. 10, 1930, he was arrested for burglary and again was given probation. On Aug. 3, 1931, he was sentenced to Pontiac reformatory—the records do not indicate the charge or the sentence—and was paroled on June 7, 1934.

Przybyla was paroled on Aug. 7, 1934, from Pontiac reformatory.

Police arrested Rossolille's brother, Maddy Rossolille, at 620 South Hoyne avenue. He, Mrs. Hetzel, and Przybyla were taken to a detective bureau showup in the afternoon.

Porto Ricans Pick Second Roosevelt Delegate Slate

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 29.—(AP)—A second so-called Democratic insular convention named six delegates today to vote for President Roosevelt at the Democratic convention at Philadelphia. The meeting today was composed largely of dissenters of a gathering held Feb. 16, which also named six delegates to vote for Roosevelt. At the previous meeting, members of the Liberal party who were enrolled as Democrats walked out when they were voted down on a point of order.

WAIT NEW STORY OF VERA STRETZ AT TRIAL TODAY

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Vera Stretz, cultured slayer of her employer, Dr. Fritz Gebhardt, whom she "loved very, very dearly," waited fitfully in her cell today for the morrow when she must take the stand and reveal the most intimate details of her illicit liaison.

Her testimony was interrupted Friday by week-end recess and although she withstood the ordeal, she welcomed the respite which gave her at least three days to recover her poise before Assistant District Attorney Miles M. O'Brien begins his cross-examination.

Defense Counsel Samuel S. Leibowitz, who promised "startling" disclosures when Miss Seretz took the stand, has kept concealed his trump card. Whether he would show an unnatural assault attempt as he intimated, or would bring his client around to self-defense through a struggle for the weapon, remained a secret.

Friday it was brought out that the pistol with which Gebhardt was slain was in his possession when Miss Stretz entered his apartment Nov. 12. He had taken it away from her sometime previously, it was testified.

Today the prosecution awaited an explanation of its being found in Miss Stretz's purse directly after she had admitted shooting Dr. Gebhardt.

CORN WALLACE LOSES AGAIN.

The District court verdict against the Wallace Publishing company and the publishers of four other farm journals has been affirmed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Thus one more of the moral pretenses of the New Dealers has been exploded. The defendants were found to have conspired to freeze out a competitor in violation of the anti-trust laws. Damages were fixed at $37,000. The boss of the Wallace Publishing company at the time the conspiracy was hatched was the same Hi-Bred Wallace who is now secretary of agriculture, who quotes scripture on the slightest provocation and who on occasion has denounced business men for their alleged failure to deal honestly with farmers.

Mr. Wallace is revealed by these proceedings as the kind of fellow who fears honest competition. Faced with it, he does not play the game fairly. He wants a marked deck. The New Dealers are forever talking about the evils of cutthroat competition without ever making clear what they are talking about. Mr. Wallace is in a position to clarify their thinking. Cutthroat competition can be defined conveniently as the kind in which he engages.

The suit against the Wallace Publishing company and others is not a new one. When it was first brought the defendants sought to beat the case by denying that they were engaged in interstate commerce. They argued that the federal courts therefore had no jurisdiction. That defense is not without its ironic implications, in view of Mr. Wallace's efforts as secretary to squeeze his AAA into the framework of the federal government's sphere of action. The federal government had a right, he said, to supervise an Iowa farmer's management of his Iowa farm, but it had no right to forbid an illicit agreement of an Iowa publisher with publishers in other states. Mr. Wallace was wrong both times. The defense in the anti-trust case was knocked out by the Supreme court and the suit sent back for trial on its merits. What the merits were has now been determined.

Mr. Wallace is two fellows. He is Secretary Wallace, who quotes holy writ against business men, and he is also Hi-Bred Wallace, the business man who cuts corners. In his second rôle he conspires as publisher to starve out his competitors; as seed merchant he does not hesitate to enhance his family fortune through his public acts. His seed company advertised that farmers could reduce their corn acreage to get the government bounties, but by planting the Wallace seed, available at a fancy price, they could still raise about as much corn as before. Mr. Wallace defended this practice by saying that it was not he but his wife who owned the seed company stock. The defense, like that of his publishing company in the anti-trust suit, was something less than convincing.

SIX TO NINE.

The more the subject is discussed the more attractive appears overnight railway service from Chicago to New York.

The trains would leave at 6 o'clock in the evening. Fifteen minutes to settle down; a half hour with the afternoon paper; fifteen minutes for the evening toilet; dinner from 7 to 8; conversation or a book until 10; lights out at 10:30 or 11.

Up at 7:30; dress, breakfast, the morning paper handed you by the steward. New York at 9 o'clock.

A COURAGEOUS SENATOR.

Senator Dickinson of Iowa has expressed his indignation at the conduct of the Black inquisitors in stealing 5 million private telegrams. The committee had no more right to read these messages than postal officials would have to open and read private letters. Mr. Dickinson condemns the inquisitors for violating the rules of common decency as well as the constitutional rights of American citizens.

Mr. Dickinson's forthright expression offers one more evidence of his courage and his capacity for independent thinking. Just as he was one of only a handful of senators who had the stamina and the insight to denounce the economic absurdities of the New Deal when it was at the height of its popularity, so now he places his regard for the constitution above the natural desire of all senators to remain on amicable terms with their colleagues. Mr. Dickinson may earn the ill will of some of them in consequence, but evidently he does not regard the friendship of such men as worth cultivating.

It is encouraging to find at least one senator willing to uphold the liberties of the American people even if by so doing he must brave the vituperation of the tyrannous majority.

THE PEACOCK MURDER SOLVED.

The murder of Dr. Peacock has been solved, nearly three months after it was committed. It was solved because the police department stuck to the job.

Two patrolmen picked up a youth on the street to question him about a missing girl. They accused their prisoner, who had served a sentence in the Bridewell, of being a robber. The youth, anxious to win favor for himself, asserted that two of his companions might be stickup men.

They were arrested. The detectives working on the Peacock murder noted that their descriptions fitted those of robbers who had held up other physicians. Questioning led to confessions.

It all seems quite simple now that the job is done. It was simple. The essential ingredient in the solution was patience. Almost every crime committed by habitual criminals can be solved if the police will stick to it long enough.

RAILWAY PENSION PLANS.

A little less than a year ago the Supreme court declared the New Deal's railway pension law unconstitutional, but that obstacle did not deter congress very long. It proceeded to split the bill into two parts. Under one law the railways will pay a special pay roll tax to which employés must contribute. The legislation is silent as to the purpose of this extraordinary levy. Under another law railway workers are awarded retirement pensions, but no provision is made for an appropriation to cover the cost. Although great care was taken that the bills should not appear even as distant cousins, their family relationship is clear.

It is far from certain that a majority of railway men, whose future welfare has thus been made the special concern of the federal government, are in favor of the security specially conferred upon them by a benevolent administration. Recently two thousand employés of the Atlantic Coast Line petitioned the Supreme court for permission to intervene in the test case on the side of their employers. In a written statement they say they have been employed by the railway for periods ranging from ten to thirty-one years and accordingly are subject to the benefits of a free pension system voluntarily maintained by the railway. Not only will the compulsory contributions provided for in law number one be burdensome, but in the end the old age payments under the federal law will be somewhat less than they now are scheduled to receive under the railway's plan.

There are many enlightened employers among the railways who long ago were able to discern that loyalty would be best encouraged by some sort of superannuation plan. In most instances these pension systems are supported entirely by the road. The federal scheme would sweep them aside and also nullify the good will they have built up. As is shown by the statements of the Atlantic Coast Line employés, management, in one case at least, has been more generous than congress, and good existing plans are being jettisoned for the benefit of a single government method that is not only mediocre but destroys that loyalty of employé to employer which is the very essence of any pension plan.

IN MEMORIAM.

WOOD, Lieut. Thurman A., United States army air corps. He died two years ago today near De Witt, Ia., while flying the air mail. He was preceded in death by Lieuts. J. D. Grenier, E. D. White, J. Y. Eastman, D. O. Lowry, Fred I. Patrick, G. F. McDermott, F. L. Howard, A. R. Kerwin Jr., and H. G. Richardson, and Privates Otto Wienecke and E. B. Sell.

They were sent to their death by the smiling President of the United States. He acted on the advice of his political manager, Postmaster General James A. Farley, and of Senator Hugo L. Black, who was then starting his career as a Peeping Tom in the investigation of air mail contracts.

Lieut. Wood and his eleven companions were among those assigned to carry the air mail with inadequate equipment and without sufficient training in night flying. They undertook the task imposed upon them without complaint and died in the high tradition of their service.

The people of the United States will remember them, we hope, at the polls on Nov 6.

Editorial of the Day

A STRANGE DOCTRIN.

[Greenville, S. C., News.]

Rather a strange doctrin, one must say, is that which—if press dispatches reflect the argument accurately—was made by counsel for the governor in the highway commission hearing before the Supreme court Saturday.

In substance the counsel seems to have argued that since the governor's official act was taken in the name of the state it was an "act of the state," and a court proceeding for review of the governor's act is a suit against "the state," hence the court is without jurisdiction since the state cannot be sued without its consent.

It is true that the state cannot be sued by citizens without its consent, but counsel seems to be attempting to identify the governor as "the state," and that rather curiously suggests that famous remark of Louis XIV., as counsel for the commissioners pertinently brought out. There are other branches of the government which are just as important elements in the composition of "the state" as the executive branch. One might with as much logic hold that the legislature is "the state," and that the courts could not properly review any acts of the legislature.

It is interesting to recall that our Supreme court has very recently delivered a ruling in which the principle of court review of acts of the governor seems rather clearly established.

In the decision growing out of the military seizure of the highway department the court said:

> If the power of the governor, after his proclamation of the existence of a state of insurrection, is uncontroled by any deterrent power of the government and is subject only to his caprice and will, what shall restrain him from depriving a citizen of his property or his liberty? To hold that he has such unlimited power, unrestrained by any force of law, would be subversive of every principle of freedom and liberty, and be an invitation to the insurrection and rebellion which it is the province and duty of the law to suppress.

While no military activity is involved in the case heard Saturday, the logic of that ruling would seem to apply alike to all official actions of the governor and other officers. If it is a constitutional principle that a governor may take any action he pleases and that no court can even inquire into the legality or constitutionality of such actions, then we had better write ourselves a new constitution as speedily as possible!

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SIC TRANSIT GLORIA. Yesterday we were Kentucky colonels. Seventeen thousand of us, enough for a small army. And now with one sweeping slash of his pen the governor reduces us to the ranks. But, fellow ex-colonels, let us have revenge. Let not one of our seventeen thousand ever again drink Kentucky bourbon. No, not a drop, nothing but Scotch. We'll show the proud state of Kenutcky that she can't demobilize us and take all our splendor and our swords and our sashes and our spurs away from us without our striking a blow in return. Let us gather then, we who were once proud colonels; let us gather merely as Private Binks and Private Smithers and Private Plops—and drink to the days when we were Kentucky colonels. Highballs, Max, Scotch highballs, and as we used to say when we were officers in the Kentucky army—"Here's how!"

AND WHERE DOES SEN. BORAH STAND on this fisherman thing? It's an accepted tradition of this country now that nobody shall be elected President unless he's a fisherman, and we've got to find out where each candidate stands on fishing. We've got to be careful, for suppose some candidate is elected President who doesn't go fishing. After he gets in the White House the discovery may be made that he never caught a fish in his life. He may even play checkers or dominoes. Horrors, he'd be impeached or something. So let us be on our guard. Now then, Sen. Borah, do you go fishing? Jointed rod or hickory pole? Flies, frogs, fishworms, or liver? Do you troll, still-fish, or cast? Come, come, Senator Borah, we must know all!

THE KING PASSES.

The King is dead. The little Princess Spring,
Called from her nursery, a blue-eyed maid,
So innocent, so young and so afraid,
Bows at the bier, aghast and shuddering.
But the ministering winds to her shall bring
The scepter soon, and, taking up the blade,
She will bestow on them the accolade,
And all will feast, and all forget the King.

The King is dead. "Long live the Queen!" they cry
Rejoicingly. The world is fashioned thus—
The pageant of the seasons, passing by,
Unthrones the old and brings the new to us

EOLUS.

A ONE LEGGED MAN who drives a truck was discharged by a Chicago judge because there is no law in Illinois against one legged auto drivers. There isn't even one that forbids a man without legs to drive a car. I was told of such a man last summer by an enthusiastic woman who said, "Oh, he's simply wonderful! He drives in traffic, on country roads, day and night, and just as good as anybody can drive. He has had two levers put over his head; one takes the place of a clutch and the other is the brake. And he just gets along fine." "But," sezzi, "with one hand on the wheel and the other on the emergency brake, how can he use the clutch and brake levers over his head? Has he got four hands?" Well, no, the woman said the legless man didn't have four hands, but he was a wonderful driver just the same. Well, it's perfectly all right in Illinois, there's no law against it. Doggone it, I think I'll sell my car after all.

I DON'T KNOW WHETHER Al Smith is sincere about his being ready to take a walk at the Democratic convention or not. Reports are that he has just got a new auto. Maybe he is all ready to take a walk if he thinks the convention is not doing the right thing, but that new car? It doesn't look as though he were getting in training. Not for doing any great amount of walking, anyhow.

EVER SINCE I had an item about the thing the other day everybody is writing to me for my recipe for a spinach juice cocktail. I haven't got a recipe, but I would say offhand that a spinach juice cocktail had some spinach juice in it.

DIALOGUE.

What promise in such fields, my man?
  I saw the winter rampant here;
What strength is in your bony span—
  Your soul; all clogged by weather-fear?

I do not know; I do not know:
I only feel the urge to sow,

How will you stop these giant ruts
  And get enough of seed to plant?
See how the swollen river cuts
  As morning sun-rays fall aslant!

I cannot tell; I cannot tell:
I know my plowshare's sharpened well.

Are you not well aware the price
  Is treacherous; they prophesy
A scourge of insects . . . drought . . . field mice
  And hail to bruise the heading rye?

Yes, but the wintertime was long
And now I catch a grackle's song.

Do you not know the harvesting
  Is weeks—yes, weary months away
And that these promises of spring
  May be all spent by noon today?

I know the months before the fall
But yet, my scarred knolls seem to call.

TREATMENT OF WOUNDS.

But a few years ago infections resulted all too frequently from minor cuts, abrasions, wounds, etc., because they were not cared for promptly, and blood poisoning was sometimes responsible for loss of life. What was true a generation ago still holds today, namely, that wounds can take life if their care is unintelligent or improper. Due to better instruction and more attention on the part of first aid teams in our industrial plants, methods of handling accidents have changed the picture for the better.

The present plan of treating wounds is a far cry from the period when all injuries received a bath of boiling oil or were cauterized with a red hot iron. It was this situation that faced Ambrose Paré, surgeon general to Henry II. of France; a condition which he promptly remedied, as he reasoned that a bad wound could be made worse by interference. He saved not only lives but an untold amount of suffering by abandoning this barbarous method of treatment.

With the birth of the antiseptic era carbolic acid, known to kill bacteria, was used freely. While much good no doubt resulted, no small amount of harm followed its burning action on delicate tissues. It was not until much later, however, that its rôle in producing gangrene was proved. This antiseptic was followed by scores of others, some of which find wide acceptance even today. A few are of undoubted value in special situations but their use is giving way under the domination of cleanliness plus as little interference with tissues—badly wounded tissues—as possible. It is now recognized that any chemical antiseptic designed to kill bacteria may destroy needed cells and thus retard healing.

Now comes the experience of many surgeons who believe that thorough cleansing of all wounds is all that is necessary, permitting the forces of nature to accomplish repair. Furthermore, experiments have shown that the use of antiseptics may actually delay or hinder healing. In other words, the great cleanser is soap and water and the assumption is that every cut not made under strict surgical conditions is infected. The object, therefore, is to remove as much of the foreign matter—bacteria, etc.—as possible without injury to the tissues.

The modern management of injuries in which the skin is broken includes the following stipulations: [1] cover the wounded area as quickly as possible with a sterile dressing [a pad of gauze]; [2] scrub the surrounding skin with soap and water; [3] then gently cleanse the wound itself with the same materials followed by a thorough washing with sterile salt solution. The whole area is then covered with a sterile gauze dressing. No antiseptic powder or chemical should be applied.

How do we know that the soap and water cleansing is more efficient than the use of tincture of iodine or any other antiseptic? The answer to this question has been supplied, in part at least, by William M. Junkin of West Virginia. He showed that wounds cleansed in this manner without an antiseptic healed without the formation of pus. In a control series of experiments in which tincture of iodine was employed as an antiseptic, infection was severe enough to bring on pus formation in every case. Junkin reports in all 45 human cases and notes that the rate of healing was more rapid and that infections were rare. The temperature failed to rise appreciably in any of his cases—rarely reaching 100 degrees F. Some of the wounds were quite severe and required extensive tissue repair.

The recommendation for the first aid kit, therefore, is a bottle of liquid soap. Salt tablets should be available so that salt solution may be prepared quickly as needed. Hot water is sufficiently sterile for all practical purposes.

Most authors, in describing the soap and water treatment, will urge that the washing of injured tissues be carried out gently but thoroughly enough to remove all particles of dirt and the major number of bacteria. This applies to minor as well as to fairly extensive injuries. Cleanliness is far more important than the pouring on to wounded surfaces of antiseptics that do not "antisept."

CATARACT.

K. M. writes: 1. What is the cause of cataract? The patient is 50 years old and has been thoroughly examined and no organic trouble found.

2. When once started can cataract be arrested?

3. What could be the reason, after having worn glasses for fifteen years, for being able to read now without them? However, I am unable to see at a distance.

REPLY.

1. This probably is senile cataract, which usually appears after the age of 50. It is a degenerative change the cause of which is unknown.

2. No. A cataract once started cannot be dissolved. The rate of development, however, may be very slow. A cataract should be allowed to ripen, after which it can be safely removed by a competent ophthalmologist.

3. People who have worn glasses for reading can often go without them after the age of 45, but are in need of them for clear distance vision.

SUGAR IN BODY.

A. P. S. writes: Some time ago I read a statement that a deficiency of sugar in the system is as serious as an excess. What are the symptoms of such a condition and how can it be corrected?

REPLY.

Too little sugar in the system is characterized by weakness, anxiety, irritability, and hunger; sometimes by fatigue, tremor, sweating, dizziness. In severe cases there may be convulsions, delirium, loss of consciousness, abdominal pain. The treatment is principally dietary. The weight of the patient must be considered. When the symptoms appear in one who has taken too much insulin a lump of sugar should be eaten.

STOMACH ULCERS.

P. S. writes: I have been troubled with stomach ulcers for many years and have been advised to take the injection treatment. What is your opinion?

REPLY.

You probably refer to injections of histamine. Although some favorable results have been reported the safest plan is a dietary régime that results in healing in a goodly percentage of cases. Alkalies are also employed to neutralize the free acid of the gastric juice.

From Across the Sea

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Prime Minister Baldwin's triumph at the last elections serves to emphasize the fact that non-English races have played a prominent part in British politics since the mother of parliaments began some six centuries ago.

Squire Baldwin, as he is most frequently referred to here, is English. He comes from Worcestershire, where he has a country estate and goes in for pig farming while he smokes his pipe and reads Thucydides in the original. But most of Baldwin's predecessors in this century have been Welsh or Scottish and as prime ministers they have answered to the names of MacDonald, Bonar Law, Lloyd George, Balfour, and Campbell H. Bannerman. With the exception of Asquith, who was twice prime minister, Baldwin is in fact the only English prime minister since the turn of the century.

The present parliament is the 37th. During these 37 parliaments there have been 39 prime ministers, Baldwin being the 39th. Of these 39 prime ministers 27 have been English. Seven Scotsmen, three Irishmen, one Welshman, and one Jew held the post.

Among the Irish were the Pitts. The single Jewish prime minister was Benjamin Disraeli, Queen Victoria's favorite. The lone Welshman among the 39 was the war time minister, David Lloyd George.

Another Celt in British politics was Sir Edward Carson, once first lord of the admiralty. Other non-English names that figured in cabinets during the last hundred years or so are: Lord Londonderry, Minto, who was at the admiralty as first lord in 1835; Akers-Douglas, McKenna, Sir Herbert Samuel [Jewish], and Aberdeen.

Baldwin, as prime minister for the fourth time, shares honors with Gladstone, who also occupied the post four times. Three others, Ramsay MacDonald being the last, have occupied the post three times, and nine have occupied it twice.

But Baldwin's terms have been brief. He has occupied the post for only about seven years. Walpole occupied it for 21 years, William Pitt for 20, and Gladstone for a little short of 20 years.

Strictly speaking there is no such office as that of prime minister in England. The head of the government is the first lord of the treasury, but it seems that Sir Robert Walpole "arrogated to himself an office previously unknown to law and the constitution, that of prime or sole minister," as Lord Melbourne wrote to Queen Victoria. The title seems to have stuck to all his successors. According to the British who follow these things, the only precise explanation of prime minister or first minister was that given by Lord Courtney, who said, "The prime minister is so by virtue of the fact that he was the first to receive the summons from the king or queen to come to the palace and that on his invitation the other ministers joined him."

According to constitutional practice here, it is the prerogative of the king to summon whom he wishes for his first minister, but after that the minister chooses his own colleagues.

That choice has to be ratified by the king. Cases have been known in the past, especially in the days of George III. and Victoria, when the monarch's predilections put a spoke in the prime minister's wheel.

In these more austere and constitutional days relations between the king and his prime ministers have been more formal and official than they used to be. The late King George V., however, was supposed to have exerted considerable influence on governmental matters.

Nevertheless relations between King George and his prime ministers never reached that point of jovialness and gusto they did between William IV. and Lord Melbourne. William IV. wrote to Melbourne:

"The king highly approves the day fixed for the meeting of parliament and begs that everybody will dine with him after the council and drink two bottles of wine a man."

William's injunction to Melbourne that he and his fellow ministers were to drink two bottles a man throws some light on what was expected of prime ministers of England a hundred years ago. The expectation was often fulfilled and consequences were rarely lacking.

"All prime ministers have the gout," says Lady Montfort in Disraeli's "Endymion," and a hundred years ago it was said that only one man ever led parliament after he was sixty. The case of the younger Pitt was exceptional. He could hold the house of commons when he had drunk so much port he could not have held his seat in a saddle, and it was said that "he had the port while the clerk of the house got the headaches that went with it."

SIDEWALK IMPASSABLE.

Chicago, March 26.—[Friend of the People.]—For the past ten years water has been running over the sidewalk under the elevation of the C. R. I. & P. railroad at 83d street, just east of Halsted. In the last cold spell this ice was six inches thick. You cannot walk on the sidewalk, and when it thaws you must walk in the street. In the summer it is all muddy. It is time something was done before some one falls on the ice or children get hit by a machine from walking in the street.

We wrote the railroad company on Jan. 28, 1936, in the matter of complainant's letter and received reply dated Jan. 28, 1936, stating that an investigation will be made and this office will be advised as to what will be done.

NECESSARY REPAIRS MADE.

Chicago, March 26.—[Friend of the People.]—The noise made by street cars going over tracks in front of residence below mentioned is very annoying. The rails have not been repaired for a good many years and are badly in need of attention. With so many unemployed men there is no need for delay in the repair of same. Putting this letter in the hands of reliable party will be greatly appreciated.

Answering the complaint referred to above I wish to state as follows: The Surface Lines have made the necessary repairs and street cars passing this point in the future will not cause any further annoyance.

HALF AS WIDE, TWICE AS DEEP.

Moline, Ill., March 26.—It seems to me the first gleam of intelligence has been exhibited by Mr. Morris L. Cooke when he said: "Water should be held at its source in order to make flood control effective." I have watched for over forty years of active shooting and fishing the hundreds of drainage districts come and rob the land of its much needed moisture. Half of them are broke and the land they have drained is worthless. Any schoolboy would know that if you restored these drainage districts to their original swamp condition and let the Mississippi river widen out instead of rise vertically between dikes the flood control problem would be solved. Of course there would not be any monumental dams, with Senator Norris' name attached to them, built.

The simple arithmetic is twice as wide, half as deep, or half as wide as at present, twice as deep. Of course, the army engineers don't care anything about restoring the former natural catch basins for water because their lifelong jobs depend upon building more and higher dikes every year.

BOONDOGGLING IN SECRET.

Warsaw, Ind., March 26.—Following is a clipping from the Warsaw Daily Times which I believe will interest your readers, for it shows how the Roosevelt-Black dictatorship refuses information to the taxpayers who are furnishing the money. I am a reporter on this paper and secured the information myself. The item is in part as follows:

"A new relief project which will employ five investigators at the Kosciusko county courthouse went into effect Thursday morning with Ben Lawson of Lafayette, of the United States department of agriculture, in charge. Lawson is in charge of work in 15 Indiana counties. When asked regarding the project Lawson said he was to say nothing, on orders from Washington.

"He said: 'I am not to say anything about the project on orders from Washington. We want to avoid publicity as much as possible.' From other sources it is learned that data on farm mortgages as far back as 1890 is sought and other information from courthouse records is to be secured. Five people are to be employed. Two are now working."

A CHOICE ASSORTMENT.

Chicago, March 24.—Reading Mr. Thompson's letter yesterday about the destruction of certain Ellis avenue property, the thought again occurs to some of us that we have in and about Oakland about the choicest assortment of young blackguards to be found. Thuggery bids fair to rise to heights of virtuosity among our local collection of big mouthed, empty headed, braying young jackasses, hobbledehoys, hooligans, upstarts, etc. The thought occurs that there is a crying need for strap oil, and plenty of it. The further thought occurs in the anticipation of what the younger kids of today will be with this beautiful example now before them when fifteen years from now they come to the sappy age. By that time our present hooligans will have achieved whatever measure of maturity may be expected of them, and it's our belief that between now and that time their conceit will have suffered about the most thorough deflation yet seen in any period—that they are going to hit the ground harder, and feel lower than any generation so far developed in America.

SOME SAY SEVENTH, OTHERS EIGHTH.

R. S.

SPELLING, ETC.

Huntington, Ind., March 25.—A recent editorial on the subject of THE TRIBUNE'S very modest gesture toward an American system of orthography leads me to offer my unsolicited opinion that the movement should be widened and accelerated by some agency whose edict would be more authoritative than the mere example of any newspaper can be. It is a long overdue reform.

My own attempt to be THE TRIBUNE'S pupil, except when composing classics for other publications, led me into a blushing predicament. I had use for the word "burocrats"; was trying to make "ubiquitous burocrats" rhyme with "iniquitous Democrats," but at the moment could not recall whether THE TRIBUNE had yanked the obnoxious "eau" out of the first or second syllable of the word. There being at hand, immediately, no dictionary, to be on the safe side I put the offending trio in both the first and second syllables, as I had been admonished to do by an old railroad rule in my youth, to wit: "When in doubt take the safe way." My punishment was swift; the editor sent me, in taunt, a pocket dictionary with the maltreated word heavily underscored. The correct spelling is now firmly fixed in my mind: à la TRIBUNE, "burocrat"; à la dictionary, "bureaucrat."

While awaiting reinforcements in its warfare against grotesque spelling, will not THE TRIBUNE train its batteries upon American syntax as dishonored by the split infinitive now running wild and reckless, as unrestrained as air? I read yesterday an editorial paragraph that was unexceptionable in word selection and economy, and yet was as bumpy as a ride in a day coach on the old Pumpkinvine railroad. Searching for the low joints in the editorial, I found four split infinitives in ten lines! All writers should bear in mind that the infinitive has had benefit of clergy; it may occupy twin beds, but not separate rooms with a hall between.

If I should, perchance, espy a split infinitive in a TRIBUNE editorial and throw it up to the editor I imagine he would dig up several from the writings of Henry James or even Shakespeare and then chortle to me to observe the highbrows he hobnobs with. What somebody else has done is no authority if it runs counter to established authority.

WILLIAM H. BARNHART.

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE NEGRO.

Chicago, March 26.—May I say a word in sincere appreciation of the editorial, "The Supreme Court and the Negro," in your issue of March 23? I am having copies made for distribution to dozens of my friends, and I only wish that every colored man, woman, and child in America could read it.

If THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE had done nothing else than print these words, which should reach the heart and mind of all those who believe in the American ideal of fair play, a million colored men and women should always be grateful to you.

WILSON LOVETT.

AT JUTLAND WITH BEATTY.

Harvey, Ill., March 23.—I wish to thank Mr. Alexander R. V. Porteous for his reply to the editorial in THE TRIBUNE on the late Earl Beatty. I served through all these battles with this gallant admiral. He is rated among the greatest who ever sailed the seven seas. I was through the Jutland battle and we sailed all through the next day and night and no German ships were to be seen. They had all fled back to safety. He held the whole German fleet for two hours with only four ships. I can vouch for the truth of Mr. Porteous' reply.

CATHOLICS SEE HOPE; CHURCHES OPEN IN MEXICO

Thousands Closed More than a Year.

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—(AP)—Thousands of Catholic churches throughout Mexico were being reopened today after having been closed for more than a year, but otherwise there have been no changes in federal or state religious laws and none appeared to be in immediate prospect.

Every one of the country's 29 states and two territories has laws limiting the number of priests allowed to officiate. In at least two states—Tabasco and Campeche—priests must be married.

Because these and similar restrictive laws are in effect, most Catholics regard the reopening of churches, which is being carried out with the approval of the federal government, as a "hopeful sign" that the government's religious polices may be modified.

Turned Over to Committees.

So far at least twelve states in which churches were closed between Dec. 1934 and April 1935, in a country-wide anti-Catholic campaign, are making arrangements to open them or have already done so and turned them over to "committees of neighbors" for care and upkeep. The churches themselves and all other religous property is constitutionally owned by the federal government and administered by the ministry of finance.

In all there are some 5,000 churches in Mexico, of which an estimated 4,000 were closed by state governors in 1933 and 1934. Since there was no legal basis for this action, the federal government made known it would not oppose the reopening of churches, with the exception of those designated by presidential order for use as schools, libraries or offices.

In most of the reopened churches no religous services will be officially allowed because of state laws which restrict the number of priests permitted to officiate in the country to 197—approximately one for each 80,000 Catholics.

Showing Liberality.

There are indications, however, that in some parts of the country these laws are not being strictly enforced. For instance, in the federal district only 25 churches are allowed by law to be open for services, yet a trip through this city on Sunday shows considerably more than that number crowded with worshippers.

Another aspect of the church's problem in attempting to spread religion is illustrated by the presence in San Antonio, Tex., of Msgr. Pascual y Diaz, archbishop of Mexico, who is conferring with American prelates on establishment of a seminary for the training of Mexicans for the priesthood. The church is forbidden to give religious education in Mexico.

During the past week opponents of Mexico's enforced Socialistic education burned two schools in the state of Queretaro. In Jalisco one teacher was killed and a woman instructor assaulted and left for dead, and insurgents who entered a rural school in the same state shot and killed a boy pupil and wounded several others.

JAPANESE RAID 2 BORDER POSTS, MONGOLS CLAIM

Invaders Suffer Deaths in Sharp Fighting.

MOSCOW, March 30.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Japanese and Manchukuan soldiers, soviet dispatches received early today stated, attacked two Outer Mongolian border posts yesterday, but were driven back after sharp fighting in which a number of the alleged invaders were killed and wounded.

The dispatches said the new attacks, which followed a Mongolian demand to Manchukuo for cessation of border raids, were launched simultaneously against frontier posts at Adyk-Dollon and Bulun-Dersu in the Lake Bor region at the northwest corner of Manchukuo. Mongolians insist both posts are from 5 to 28 miles within their territory.

Move by Trucks.

The soviet account said the force which attacked Adyk-Dollon was made up of seven truckloads of troops and an automobile containing officers, while those who attacked Bulun-Dersu filled two trucks. The fighting was reported to have lasted some time, and the Mongolians were said to have beaten back the attacks when they were reinforced.

There have been two other recent incidents in this region. Manchukuo is protesting to Moscow and Ulan Bator [Urga], capital of Outer Mongolia, that on March 26 soviets fired on a Japanese patrol after abducting two Manchukuan woodcutters, and March 25, near Lake Bor, where an Outer Mongolian force allegedly penetrated Manchukuan territory and fired on a Japanese patrol.

Mongolia, supported by a mutual assistance pact with the soviet union, refuses to admit any doubt about the location of the border and therefore says incursions across the line could not be due to a mistake. The Mongols have let it be known they are ready to fight any time hostile troops set foot on their side of the border.

To Return Japanese Bodies.

The soviet government, it was announced last night, has ordered eastern border authorities to deliver to Japanese officials the bodies of a Japanese officer and a Japanese soldier killed in an engagement March 25 on the frontier of Manchukuo, Corea, and Siberia near Hunchun, which is about 150 miles southwest of Vladivostok. The soviets say the encounter occurred on soviet territory. The return of the bodies was requested by the Japanese ambassador, Tamekichi Ota.

[Japanese dispatches to Tokio reported continued tension in the Hunchun region. A dispatch to the newspaper Asahi from Seoul, Corea, asserted 350 soviet infantrymen and 150 cavalrymen were seen arriving at border positions in that region March 27, while two vessels "resembling warships" entered Possiet bay, a Russian port near the zone. Japanese troops in northeast Corea were said to be closely watching such movements.]

Army Outlines Foreign Policy.

TOKIO, March 29.—(AP)—Leaders of Japan's army in Manchukuo conferred at Hsinking today with Hachiro Arita, Japanese ambassador to China, over the renewed bittterness in Russo-Japanese and Manchukuo-Mongolian relations.

Artia, said the Domei [Japanese] news agency, is en route home from China, to become foreign minister in the new government here. Hence ranking generals of Japanese forces in Manchukuo seized the opportunity to impress their views of the border troubles on the prospective minister.

Claim Benefit to U. S.

PARIS, March 29.—(AP)—France's new military defensive treaty with soviet Russia will help the United States and Great Britain in the far east, French officials said today.

Military observers expect Russia to move more of her huge army and air force to her eastern frontiers, for the treaty assures her of French aid in Europe if Germany attacks on the west. Officials say Japan will advance more cautiously in her "program of conquest" when Moscow can turn her full attention to the east.

France faces almost certain loss of her rich, hard-won Pacific colonies, officials say, if such a war begins, although many observers say the United States and Great Britain could not afford to watch Japan take such territory.

2 SOVIET PLANES TAKE OFF ON LONG TRIP INTO ARCTIC

MOSCOW, March 29.—(AP)—Two soviet airplanes with six men aboard hopped off today to attempt the first flight from the Russian mainland to Franz Josef land in the Arctic ocean.

The explorers, whose planes are specially equipped for arctic flights, will study weather and ice conditions along the route to the pole. Soviets hope some day to fly to North America over this route.

Mikhail Vodopyanoff, soviet air hero, and V. Makhotkin are piloting the planes. Franz Josef land is 2,200 miles away. The first scheduled stop was made tonight at Archangel. The planes, which are not equipped for a water landing, must cross 400 miles of open sea.

GARDENERS GET SPRING START IN ADDED DAYLIGHT

Eastern Time Gives More Hours for Hobby.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Gardeners throughout the city and surrounding suburbs are expected to make the dirt fly this week in starting their early gardens. The Chicago Flower show, which closed at the Navy pier last night, renewed the interest of veterans of the hoe and encouraged many amateur gardeners to take advantage of the extra hour of daylight available since the city adopted eastern standard time on March 1.

Due to the adoption of eastern standard time, gardeners have an extra hour of daylight each afternoon for their work. Many home owners and apartment dwellers will go into their gardens this week for the first time this spring. The added daylight will give home gardeners plenty of time to take advantage of the early season and mild weather in getting their grounds prepared and seeded.

Some Gardens Dried Early.

A few gardeners began last week to utilize their extra hours of daylight by spading up the ground to prepare the soil for a lawn or for the planting of flower and vegetable seeds. An abundance of sunshine and strong winds dried the soil enough to be worked in a few well drained gardens last week.

Other gardeners have been spending their time during the last few days mapping out plans, staking off beds, borders, and plots; buying seeds; cleaning up vegetable matter scattered over lawns and gardens; liming and fertilizing, and making general preparations for planting.

Lime and Fertilizer Spread.

Tons of air slaked lime and finely pulverized limestone are now being scattered around homes, old and new, to sweeten the soil for various kinds of plants. Few flowers do well in acid soil, and a liberal dusting with lime sweetens the soil. Many gardeners are fortunate enough to have wood ashes, taken from their fireplaces, to scatter over their new lawns. The ashes help to loosen the soil and add potash, an essential plant food.

This week experienced gardeners are planning to plant sweet peas in their open garden, providing the ground is dry enough to work. Many expect to take a chance on starting from seeds sown in the open within the next few days such annual flowers as larkspur, coreopsis, pansies, poppies, gaillardia or blanket flower, sweet alyssum, and forget-me-nots.

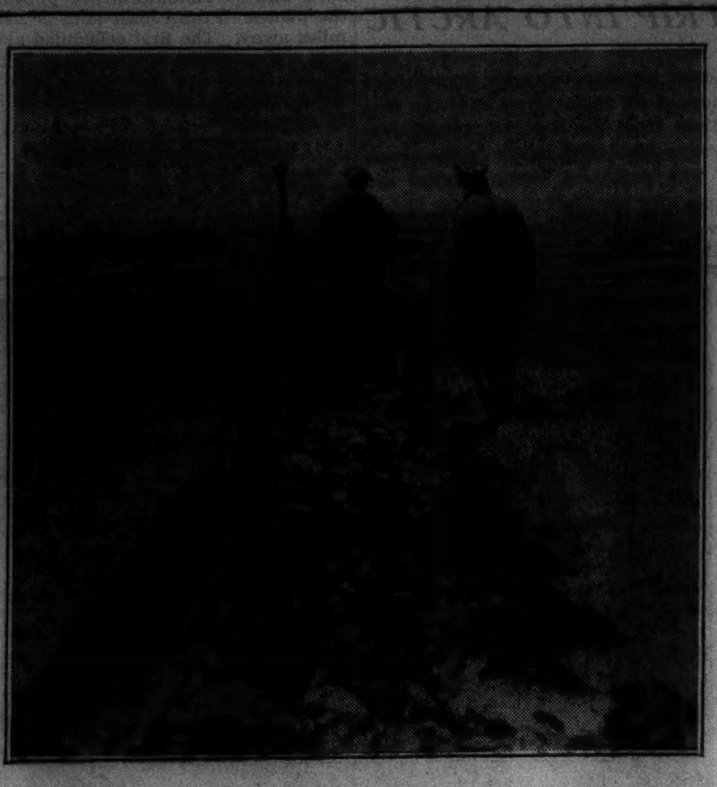
Taught by Flower Show.

The nine day flower show was a short course in gardening for many who will soon try out some of the new things they learned about starting flowers early in the spring. Educational elements dominated this year's exhibition which was attended by more than 225,000, the largest attendance of any of the ten annual shows held by the Garden Club of Illinois.

Amateur gardeners who are planning to start work in their gardens this week are warned by experienced growers not to spade their ground when it is too wet. Gardeners who work their soil while it is soaked with water are likely to have clods to deal with all summer.

Old timers familiar with vegetables are planning to sow early, as soon as the ground is workable, seeds of such crops as lettuce, radishes, cress, spinach, mustard, turnips, kohlrabi, green onion, and peas. Planted early, these crops mature before the full heat of summer.

TURNING FIRST FURROW OF 1936



Three bottom gang plow, drawn by tractor, as it turned the first furrow this year in a field on the Tribune experimental farm at Yorkville.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

By Frank Ridgway

Plowing Begins.

THE first furrow of the season was turned last Friday on the Tribune Yorkville experimental farm. Broad smiles were on the faces of the farm manager and his fellow workers as they left the machinery shed with their tractors tuned and the plow moldboards shining like mirrors. With every bearing covered with a film of oil or grease, the parade of puttering motors started for the field of sod on the north side of the Fox river. It was a thrilling race with "iron farm horses" to see which man reached the Plano bridge first where trafic was slowed down while the tractors were trundled across on planks to protect the floor of the bridge from the gnawing lugs on the wheels.

Three gang plows, all drawn by tractors, were started last week. They filled the air above the field with that characteristic smell of good earth and left millions of earthworms squirming in the sun. Recent high winds and a hot sun beating down on the ground caused a rapid drying of the soil, making it possible to start breaking sod in an 45 acre field of blue grass, timothy, and clover.

Hard winter freezes have left the ground in excellent condition, so that the soil crumbles as it falls from the moldboards. With favorable weather the men expect to be able to work the ground into an excellent seed bed for Smith's variety of white corn that is to be planted in this field.

The ground is being broken at a rapid rate with the three gang plows—two with three 14-inch bottoms and one with two 14-inch bottoms. This makes it possible for the three outfits to turn over a strip almost ten feet wide every time they cross the field.

Fall Plowing Prevented

All the land to be used in the growing of cultivated crops this year is left to be plowed this spring. Ordinarily much of the ground is fall plowed. Last fall heavy rains and a bumper crop of corn to pick made it impossible for the farmers at the Yorkville place to break any of the ground after the crops were removed. They did not even find time to turn over the sod.

When the plows were started last Friday the Yorkville farmers had more than 500 acres to break. In addition to the 45 acres of sod they have 465 acres of land where corn, oats, and soy beans were grown last year.

The ground now being plowed will be planted in approximately 480 acres of corn and 30 acres of soy beans, according to the preliminary 1936 cropping plans. The three gang plows will be kept going early and late until the ground is broken.

The plowmen expect to be able to start breaking the corn fields and stubble land within the next few days if the weather continues to be favorable.

Enriching the Soil

Manure and limestone are being spread ahead of the plows. Last week more than 100 loads of manure were hauled out of the cattle yards and spread on the fields were corn and soy beans are to be grown. It is being applied at the rate of about seven tons to the acre. Limestone finely crushed is being thrown on the spreader and scattered along with the manure at the rate of about one and a half tons per acre.

HUNT BODY OF MISSING FLYER IN MOUNTAINS

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 29.—(AP)—If weather permits, shovel equipped skimen will scale rugged 10,000 foot Observation peak in the Wasatch range northeast of here tomorrow to dig into a mound of snow, seeking the body of Howard Stark, missing department of commerce flyer.

HOWARD STARK.

Alf Engen and John Talmadge climbed the snow encrusted peak Saturday, but were unable to make a thorough investigation because of the danger of snowslides. They found evidence leading them to believe they were near solution of the mystery. Last Jan. 16 Stark disappeared on a flight from Rock Springs, Wyo., to Salt Lake City.

The men told Lloyd Jeulson, department of commerce aeronautical development expert who is directing the search, that a pine tree on the summit bore evidence of being struck by a terrific force.

The mound, which first attracted attention of aerial searchers two weeks ago, is at the bottof of a cliff. A large overhanging ledge of snow decided Engen and Talmadge against further investigation.

ELAINE BARRIE STILL IS FOND OF BARRYMORE

Elaine Barrie, whose curious romance with John Barrymore of the films has been in the public eye, spent yesterday in Chicago, touring the boulevards in the park system with her mother, Mrs. Edna Jacobs. They departed in the afternoon on the Century for New York.

Miss Barrie, who is 20 years old, came in on the Santa Fe Chief and reversed her procedure of a few months ago, when she led reporters a merry chase in her efforts to effect a tryst in a railroad station with Barrymore, who at the time was making a cross country race to avoid her.

She posed for photographs yesterday holding Lady Bing, her pet Scotch terrier, in her arms, against a luxurious mink coat.

"I still love Mr. Barrymore," she said, "even before breakfast."

Barrymore will join her in New York in a few days, she said, and both are to appear in a costume play. She declined to name the play or its producer.

U. S. OPERATIONS ON DEFECTIVES PUT AT 23,092

3,029 Performed in '35, Reports Foundation.

Pasadena, Cal., March 29.—(AP)—Sterilization of the nation's insane and feeble-minded totaled 23,092 last Jan. 1, the Human Betterment Foundation reported today.

The tabulation was on operations performed legally in the 28 states having sterilization laws and took no account of the many operations which the foundation said are performed in private surgical practice. The tabulation showed 3,029 for last year.

California, which adopted its sterilization law in 1909, had performed 10,801 operations in its institutions up to the first of this year.

First Law Passed in 1907.

Official sterilization began with the passage of the first law in 1907 in Indiana. Other states which reported more than 1,000 sterilizations each up to Jan. 1 were: Kansas, 1,509; Michigan, 1,555; Minnesota, 1,154; Oregon, 1,047, and Virginia, 2,386.

West Virginia and South Carolina had performed no operations. In the latter state the law was adopted last year.

Other states which have sterilization laws are Alabama, Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, and Wisconsin.

12,452 Women in Total.

The totals include 10,640 men and 12,452 women. The sterilization prevents parenthood without unsexing the patient. Primarily it is an eugenic measure to prevent birth of defective children.

In a United States Supreme court decision upholding the constitutionality of compulsory sterilization in a case from Virginia in 1927, Justice Holmes remarked: "Three generations of imbeciles are enough."

WOMAN SHOT DOWN AT DOOR; MOTHER OF TWO CHILDREN HELD

Perryville, Md., March 29.—(AP)—Community gossip was suggested today by Sherif Eugene Racine as a possible cause of the shooting of Mrs. Emily Fisher, 24—an act charged against a 32 year old mother of two children.

Mrs. Fisher, shot down as she answered a knock at her door, was taken critically wounded to the Havre de Grace hospital. Her alleged assailant, Mrs. Rachel Gillespie, was held in jail.

Sherif Racine said Mrs. Gillespie, mother of a 14 year old boy and an 11 year old girl, drove to the Fisher home yesterday and did the shooting because she "imagined" her husband was attentive to Mrs. Fisher.

"That seems to have been Mrs. Gillespie's idea," said the sherif, "although I can't find any grounds for it. It seems to have been just a rumor."

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—John Snure Sr., 63, veteran political reporter for the New York Herald-Tribune, died today at his home in Silver Springs, Md., after a prolonged illness. Born in Adamsville, Mich., in 1873, Snure had 33 years experience as Washington correspondent. He is survived by his widow, the former Margaret B. Tell Betrothal of Anna Howe to New Yorker

Virginia Lamson to Become Bride of R. D. Searles.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO engagement announcements and the announcement of an approaching marriage were revealed over the week-end. At a small tea in their Winnetka home yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Howe announced the engagement of their daughter, Anna Shippen, to Joseph Livingston Delafield of New York, and at the same time yesterday at a tea in her Northfield township home Miss Dorothy Stirling announced the engagement of her ward, Miss Margaret Fiske, to Donald McKay Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Benjamin Smith of Lakewood, O. Also yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Warren Atherton Lamson of Hubbard Woods announced the approaching marriage on April 8 of their daughter Virginia to Richard Dean Searles, son of Mrs. Charles J. Searles of St. Louis.

When intimate friends of the Howe family arrived for tea they were completely surprised to find that Miss Howe had returned from the east and that she was accompanied by a fiancé. The party was made doubly pleasant because both young people were present to receive best wishes and congratulations in person. For the last three years Miss Howe has been teaching in Cambridge and at the Oxford school in Hartford, Conn., and no news of her romance with Mr. Delafield had drifted back to Chicago to spoil the surprise of the party.

Delafield-Howe Wedding Is Scheduled for June.

Miss Howe's marriage to Mr. Delafield in June will link two families rich in American colonial background. The bride-to-be is a granddaughter of Mrs. Howland Davis of 1021 Park avenue, New York, whose Morton and Shippen ancestors had long association with early New York and Philadelphia days. The late Mr. Davis was for many years governor general of the Mayflower society. Through her paternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Howe, Miss Howe is descended from a number of the early settlers of New England, and from David Leavitt, a leading New York banker in the first half of the last century.

Mr. Delafield is a son of Mrs. Joseph Livingston Delafield and the late Mr. Delafield of New York and Westhampton Beach, and a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Maturin Livingston Delafield and the late Prof. and Mrs. William Milligan Sloane. He is a descendant of John Delafield, who came to this country in 1783, a representative of a landed family in Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire, England. Judge Maturin Livingston, Gov. Morgan Lewis of New York, Francis Lewis, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Chancellor Robert Livingston, who administered the presidential oath of office to Washington, were other ancestors of Mr. Delafield.

Bride-to-Be a Former Student at Vassar.

Miss Howe, who attended Vassar college, was graduated from the North Shore Country Day school in Winnetka, where two of her brothers, Lawrence Jr. and Richard Warren Howe, now are students. Another brother, David Leavitt Howe, is a junior at Harvard, and the oldest of the Howe boys, Fisher, is engaged in business in the east.

Mr. Delafield is a graduate of Lawrenceville school and of Princeton university, class of 1932. He was a member of the Colonial and the Triangle clubs at Princeton. The wedding will take place late in June at the Howes' summer home on Long Pond, near Plymouth, Mass.

Miss Lamson's Sister Her Only Attendant.

Also a surprise was the news that Miss Lamson is to become the bride of Mr. Searles a week from Wednesday. The wedding will take place in the evening at the Lamson home. Dr.

It is likely that Mrs. Silverthorne will be attending some of the national indoor polo championship games that are to be played at the 124th Field Artillery armory. There will be a game on Wednesday and Saturday nights this week, and the finals will be played on Tuesday night of next week.

Bread-and-Butter Letter—Spelling—Snackers—Advice.

A CURRENT story of Princess Rostislav's concerns a bishop who, visiting in Hollywood, was invited by one of the newer of the movie stars to come to dine. She was an inexperienced hostess; moreover, most of the guests got drunk. Feeling called upon to write her a note the following day, the bishop wrote as follows:

Dear Miss Blank:

"Had your cocktails been as cold as your soup, and your soup as warm as your wine, and your wine as old as your chicken, and your chicken less tough than your guests I should have enjoyed your dinner."

A FEW days ago a letter arrived from a learned gentleman containing the word detriment spelled with an e instead of an i. It seemed strange that he should not have known better, and I wondered if he belonged to a past age that considered good spelling not quite well bred. You will remember, perhaps, Addison's Will Honeycomb, who, when taxed with his bad spelling, retorted that he spelled like a gentleman, not like a scholar. French nobles of the old régime were careful to mispell their signatures when they were elected to the French academy, to show they were not subject to the petty rules of scholarship.

MANY great men have been poor spellers. Shakespeare spelled his own name several different ways and in a dedicatory paragraph on the flyleaf of "Venus and Adonis" spelled "honor" two ways—both with and without a "u." George Washington, writing from Mount Vernon, made request for a beaver "hatt" and a pair of "sattin" shoes. Although that may have been the style of the day.

JUST to keep you in touch with what goes on about town, there was that little incident at Henrici's restaurant a few evenings ago. A nice looking couple entered carrying a brown paper bag. After the waitress had spread a clean tablecloth and put silver and water on the table, they asked for two cups of coffee. Then they opened up the bag and each took out a doughnut. After that the gentleman blew up the bag, his cheeks rounded with the effort, and broke it with a resounding pop. Then they ate their doughnuts. When they had nearly finished, the man said to the girl, "Why, that waitress forgot to bring us any butter."

A CHICAGO mother—her name is Mrs. Chester E. Rieck—heard her small son and a playmate making a great noise in the nursery. Looking in, she found they were rassling [well, you couldn't say small boys were wrestling, could you?] And to her horror, she heard herself saying, "Don't wrestle boys, it makes you so warm. Play nicely WITH YOUR GUNS."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The German-American lyric stage, which was once a flourishing institution in Chicago but is now almost extinct, took its annual or semi-annual breath of life last night in the Civic Opera house, where Kalman's operetta, "The Czardas Princess," was produced for a single performance under charitable auspices. It was a "gala" occasion, as usual; the opera house management dressed the stage with handsome scenery; the orchestra was large and skilful; and the players of the principal rôles were well known personalities to the large German speaking audience.

This work by the composer, who is happily remembered by American audiences for his "Sari" and "Countess Maritza," never reached the Broadway stage in adaptation. The reason is plain enough; the charming score is wasted on a libretto which is practically thin air. No amount of ingenuity by adapters could ever vitalize this pale, standardized little story for the native born, who are not as tolerant of operetta vacuity as the music lovers of Vienna and Budapest.

The central characters are a dashing cabaret singer and a blue blooded hussar officer. They pledge their love in a night club and sign betrothal papers. Then she discovers that his father has arranged for his marriage to a countess. She pretends to marry her manager, thus arousing the hussar's jealousy. Two acts of fussing about this situation follow; then the lovers are reunited, with parental consent, through a discovery that the hussar's mother had been a professional singing girl herself.

This slight narrative is brightened by many attractive songs in Kalman's most sparkling vein, and they are well sung by Georges Trabert and Lucie Westen. The leading comic rôle is acted by the veteran Angelo Lippich with engaging drollery; and a recent arrival from Berlin, Hanna Stein, makes a pleasant Chicago début as the other girl of the plot.

The performance contained, as an interpolated novelty, a song called "Gloomy Sunday," sung by Carlo Hatvary—in Hungarian, I suspect, for I failed to understand a word of it. This is a dolorous ditty about a lover's bereavement which is said to have caused twenty suicides in Budapest. However, it failed to arouse any tendencies toward throat cutting in last night's audience.

"The Great Waltz" begins the last week of its run in the Auditorium theater tonight. This musical spectacle came here for a four weeks' engagement and stayed fourteen and a half weeks. The company will return to New York to disband for the season.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Lucrezia Bori sang her farewell to opera at the Metropolitan Opera house tonight. In the theater she loves the soprano ended a career of twenty-eight years and an association of twenty-six with the Metropolitan opera itself.

It was an occasion of glamor and sentiment. The entire personnel of the Metropolitan Opera association joined with a distinguished capacity audience in honoring Miss Bori.

Chicago Gives Day to Enjoying Own Musicians

BY EDWARD BARRY.

No great musician from the outside world won through to Chicago yesterday. The town looked confidently to the more talented of its own citizenry—and was not disappointed. They succeeded in turning the place into a prairie Weimar for two hours of the afternoon.

The Civic orchestra wound up its concert season in Orchestra hall, presenting in the course of the program two soloists and two conductors, all residents of the city. There were debut recitals by young Chicagoans in the Studebaker theater and Kimball hall.

Grace Nelson played the piano part in the Civic orchestra's performance of D'Indi's "Symphony on a French Mountain Air." Its piquant rhythms were intelligible and infectious under her hands. Miss Nelson combines a certain confident authority with a measure of metrical daintiness, but this authority does not yet extend fully to the matter of tone. The piano part of the symphony can be treated in a much bigger way than it was yesterday without any danger to the accuracy of balance between orchestra and solo instrument.

Jenska Slebos, a cellist of the Civic orchestra, moved to the podium just before the intermission to play Böllmann's "Variations Symphoniques." The background was provided by her erstwhile associates.

Miss Slebos proved herself the possessor of a considerable gift for music. This, plus the obvious results of her training in the hard school of the Civic orchestra, assured a highly creditable solo performance. One might complain of the lack of great variety in her tonal scheme, but the tone itself was round and sensuously beautiful. The young artist gives her phrases a long breathed dignity that accords well with the character of the instrument.

Eric DeLamarter, the man who faces the gigantic task each year of taking a squad from which half his veterans have graduated and making a good team out of it by January, hid himself away in the organ loft for the brilliant Van Der Stucken "Louisiana" that closed the program. His modesty did not save him from an ovation, for Clarence Evans, associate conductor of the orchestra [and, incidentally, principal viola of the Chicago Symphony], insisted on his coming to the stage at the conclusion of the number. The figurative bouquets which were carted up the ailes and stacked on the arms of the much liked director were a meager enough tribute to the executive ability of a man who, although incapacitated by serious illness for nearly half the season, was able, by means of the principles of training he had evolved in other years, to produce another sound and precise and musicianly orchestra out of material that seemed almost hopelessly heterogeneous only last October.

A plenteous measure of extra work has fallen on Evans' shoulders this year. His tasks were discharged in a competent and distinguished manner.

Because of the unfortunate arrangement of yesterday afternoon's programs, I did not get back to Orchestra hall after the intermission in time to hear Adalbert Huguelet conduct the "Nutcracker" suite. Reports have it that he was cordially received by the audience, and that his work had spirit and confidence and dynamic variety.

Alice Guernsey, a poetic violinist with a remarkably pure and attractive tone, played her first full length public recital in Kimball hall. Included in her program schedule was an interesting "Indian Concerto" by Cecil Burleigh. Its thematic material is drawn from Indian sources, but the piece manages to keep itself free from the monotonous minor um-pah um-pah which has been pasted to the unfortunate Red Man like a trade mark. It constitutes one of the minor outrages which the careless and unobserving whites have perpetrated on the aborigines.

I had intended to shriek a little about those occasional phrases in Miss Guernsey's playing where her pure and attractive tone was marred a little by undue forcing, but when the composer himself includes the word "gruffly" in his directions for performance, what can a girl do?

Another successful debut took place in the Studebaker, where Josef Raieff played classical, romantic, and modern music in a program that turned out to be much less stereotyped than this highly conventional arrangement might suggest. The young pianist had the courage to list that exacting B Flat Major Partita of Bach very early in the afternoon. Even without the "warming up" which many an artist of longer years and greater experience would demand as preparation, Mr. Raieff gave a technically clean performance of the work.

Besides a commendable mechanical dexterity, the pianist has an intelligent way of phrasing his music and a quiet grasp of the methods by which dynamic variety and imagination can give life and color to a composition. Just one suggestion: The dynamic scale [in Bach, that is] should not extend itself to include even an occasional suggestion of hardness or sharpness of tone. There are more subtle and more lovely ways to achieve emphasis—a split second pause before the note or chord to be accented, for instance.

Theodore Charles Stone, a colored baritone whose light and agreeably textured voice suffers occasionally from forcing, sang an ambitious recital at Kimball hall in the evening. The program used the four principal modern languages and drew on the works of composers as widely separated in time and space as Alessandro Scarlatti and Radie Britain.

Mr. Stone makes much of his songs, entering into their spirit and poetry with careful discrimination as to mood and style. His "Vergebliches Ständchen" had humor of a convincing sort; his "Ich Liebe Dich" was emotional and sincere.

New Handbags Match Bright Colored Gloves

Felt Models Carried with Fabric Handwear.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Trust the enterprising and ingenious handbag makers to keep even with the fashion parade. Just as soon as colored gloves started their skyrocket zoom for popularity, bag designers sent along the matching bags, no matter how high or strong the shade. It was easy to find a matching bag for any pair of gloves you bought.

The bag designers are still outsmarting the glove designers. With fabric gloves coming to town in swarms, in every imaginable color and shade, the bags are likewise unpacked daily, grand colors that literally will be seen for miles. They are made of soft dull textured felts, to match fabric gloves.

You'll see sulphur yellow—that knockout accent for dull black and navy blue clothes — every wanted shade of red, bright greens, all the blues and grays, as well as the best assortment of purples, violets, and pale mauves we have discovered in weeks.

You'll also cheer for the crêpe numbers, all kinds of brown, navy and black dull crêpe fabric bags in interestingly unusual shapes and sizes, the kind you have needed to wear with matching costumes using the gay colors in belts and gloves and possibly a hat or a buttonhole nosegay. Gabardine in black, brown, and navy, trimmed with discreet bits of gleaming patent lether of the same color, are prize finds to go with footwear of this same combination.

The gypsy bag is "in" in fabrics; dull crêpes in all colors, fashioned with zippers and tied peasant style to be hung over the wrist. These street affairs are much smaller than the first arrivals that were designed for southbound vacationists to wear with beach clothes. Corded bags, made of miles of fine dull silk cord, make some slick afternoon models to wear with your silk crêpes and printed silks. These are available in brown, navy and some especially good looking grays.

Fashion photograph—Stripes invade the knitted clothes, those cleverly copied knitted things made for the few people left in the world who can't or won't knit their own! This two piece outfit features contrasting colors in lovely pastels and clear spring shades. The vest effect uses buttons for decoration. A narrow lether belt further stresses the slim streamline. It is available in a Chicago shop.

SYNOPSIS.

Inspector Sandy Ross and Buck Wasey of the department of justice travel from Reno to Vinton City in search of information on Sociable Joe Willis, suspected of implication in armored car robberies. A collision of two cars on a mountain road brings Jane Bronson into Sandy's life. But when she learns his identity she vanishes. A letter from Sociable Joe brought Jane to Vinton City to plead with her brother, Lee, known there as Ray Hammer, to give up his gang connections. Lee makes a hurried getaway with Jane, driving a cream colored car. Meanwhile in San Francisco the Lurch-McKeevor mob await the arrival of Lee Bronson, needed for his female impersonating ability. The cream colored car is located in Gunnison, Colo., where Sandy and Buck speed by plane. They find Jane alone. She confesses her brother carried a machine gun and left in anger at her pleas to go straight. An outfit of Jane's clothes is missing. Sandy leaves Jane under surveillance and he and Buck fly to San Francisco, where another armored car holdup has been attempted. Lee Bronson, disguised as a woman, escapes with the gang. At the hideout from which they fled Sandy takes bed sheets which he has chemically treated for finger prints.

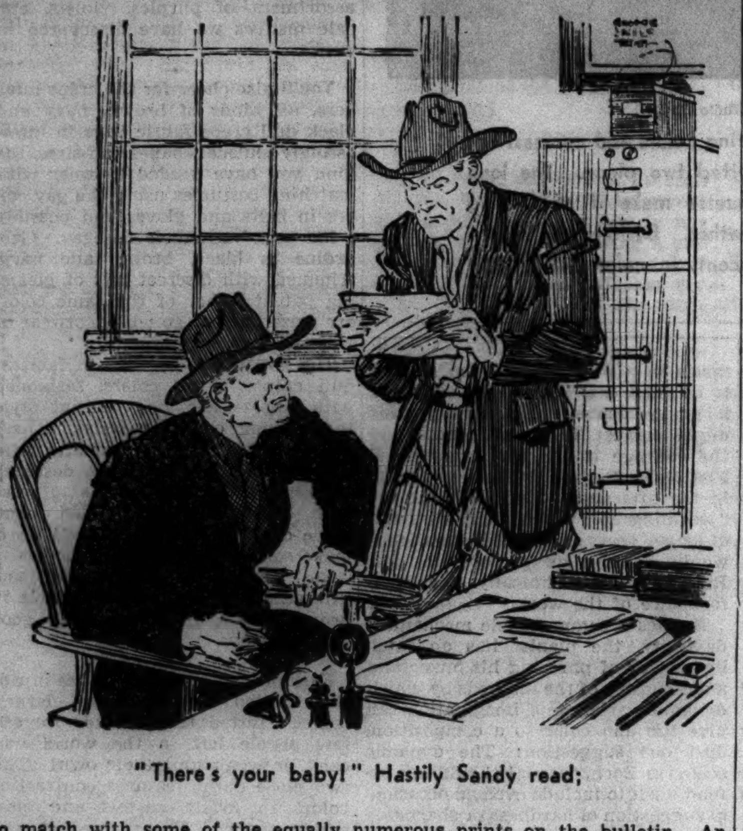
INSTALMENT XXXI.

IDENTIFYING THE GANG.

"There we go!" Buck exclaimed. The eyes of special agents hastily followed his gaze. An oval, brownish spot had begun to make its appearance on the linen. Then another showed, and another, taking shape magically before them—soon the prints were appearing with the thickness of a brown snowstorm. Sandy gave the order for the dipping of another sheet, this time in entirety. Likewise, he commanded the setting up of photographic lights and the assembling of cameras. So doing, he said a philosophical good-by to badly needed rest.

This was to be a long task, the drenching of yard after yard of linen in silver nitrate solution, the wait for results beneath the sunlight lamp and, after that, the laborious photographing of every inch of space where these brown marks had appeared. The next morning, with stacks of newly dried photographs, and many issues of the blue bound fugitives' bulletin before them, Sandy, Buck, and their staf were still at work—now concentrating upon a different angle of their search.

Hundreds of pages of crisp paragraphs delineated the criminal career, description and aliases of wanted men, accompanied, not by photographs, but by finger prints taken at the time of arrests. Comparison meant a terrific task: from the hundreds upon hundreds of brown marks photographed prints which had come from the hideout must be found the ones to match with some of the equally numerous prints on the bulletin. An hour passed and thirty minutes more. There came a shout from one of the workers:



"There's your baby!" Hastily Sandy read;

"I got one!"

Sandy Ross and the Texan ran to the desk of a special agent far down the line. With a pencil the searcher ringed a print of some fifty delineated on a photograph, then pointed to a paragraph in a fugitives' bulletin of September, 1934:

> 14 1 5 U 00 14
> M 19 W 010
> No. 22335 St. Pen. Joliet, Ill.; white, 30 years [1934]; 5 feet 10, 160 pds., med. build, sandy hair, blue eyes, lt. complexion. Recd. St. Pen, Joliet 5-30-34. Sentenced to death for MUR. ESCAPED DEATH HOUSE 8-12-34.

For a moment the two leaders of the special squad stood in silent thanks for the successful termination of a long chance. They had tried something never before attempted in the history of this outfit. Now there was every hope of obtaining the identification of the complete gang.

For those who believe that a criminal can be identified immediately once he leaves a single finger print at the scene of a crime there is a disappointment. This can only happen if that criminal is of sufficient importance and of a sufficiently long record to be listed as a national public enemy. In that event, his regular finger print cards have been "broken down" in the identification division, so that each is classified separately and filed, one by one. Thus, when a "latent" or accidental print, left by a criminal goes into the bureau of identification, that single finger print is classified for its peculiarities and a search is made in the special single finger print file for a print which bears similar characteristics.

However, if the print should be of a person who is not a public enemy, identification is almost impossible. It would be necessary to search through every print in the division, and examine every one of the ten fingers listed on that record, a process involving some fifty-five million prints. Sandy Ross and Buck Wasey had attempted to reverse this process in the use of the fugitives wanted bulletin. Here, in the bulletin, against the description of each wanted man, was listed one finger print. Inasmuch as a person usually handles the covers of a bed with both hands, Sandy and Buck were quite sure that the latent prints they had developed were those of all ten fingers of each suspect. Therefore, in their search they had not looked for the match of the latent finger prints in the files, but had followed an exactly opposite process.

Each searcher had before him the group photographs of finger prints taken from the hideout. They felt sure that all these prints were those of criminals. Against this, one by one, they had studied the single finger prints of persons listed in the fugitives wanted bulletin.

Out of the total of marks on the bed clothing they had found fifty different finger prints, the complete record of five men. These had been classified, so they could be accepted or rejected at a glance when compared with the samples of various fugitives in the bulletin. In other words, it was like matching up the cards of a suit. Each print in the bulletin was compared with the fifty on the photographs, representing the identifying marks of the wanted band. Instantly one matched, it meant that a gang member had been found, for no two finger prints in the world are alike, not even those of the Siamese twins or the Dionne quintuplets.

Sandy and Buck were quite proud of that achievement. Many other law enforcement officers might have called it impossible—even they had experienced extreme doubt at the beginning of their experiment.

"And that settles the Mack part of Lurmack," answered Sandy. "Find the front end and we'll know who's running this gang.

However, that was not to come so easily. Another half hour went by. Then Sandy Ross himself discovered the print of Ancy Moore.

"Nice boy," said the inspector cynically. "Hijacker, murderer, machine gunner. Parolee from Sing Sing."

"Probably played on the football team," agreed Buck Wasey without looking up. The search continued to reveal the name and finger print of Slanty Race, alias China Boy, alias Pig Eye, bank robber, wife slayer, and escaped from Oklahoma state. Then came Fuzz Conovan, merely a bank robber, whom his comrades alternately called Little Neck and the Hairy Ape. Evidently he had been a good boy when sentenced to fifty years in prison for the murder of an old man. He had come out in four on a parole. Following this find, there was no success until nearly noon. Then Buck Wasey raised his round eyes, tired from more than fifty sleepless hours.

"You figure that there are five guys in this gang without Bronson?" he asked.

"Never been more," answered Sandy.

"Then close the books!" the Texan announced, and tossed a photograph, with a pencil ring around one print, to the face of an open bulletin. "There's your baby!"

Hastily Sandy read:

"LURCH, JIMMY, WITH ALIASES——"

The inspector skipped the final line:

"ESCAPED DEATH HOUSE JOLIET, 8-12-34."

Sandy rubbed his throat.

"In for the same murder, probably."

Small Baby's Muscles Will Develop Quick

Acquires New Motions Every Month.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Many mothers have written me, asking what they should expect of their baby in muscular development for the first two years. When can he hold his head up? When sit up without support? When will he smile back at you or follow you with his eyes?

One always has to be careful in writing on this subject to explain that there is no absolute standard. On the average, normal babies usually do certain things at certain ages. But if one baby doesn't, that only means that his rate of growth is different—perhaps slower at some times and faster at others. Or he may be a "slow" baby all along the line, or a "fast" baby without being, eventually, either behind the average or beyond it. Then, with these words to calm the mother whose baby may not be progressing at the rate of this "chart," let us get on with our list.

For the first four weeks:

He will turn his head when lying on his face.

Will try to grasp an object held near his face.

Lifts his head unsteadily when in this position.

At two months he:

At three months he:

Pushes or raises himself by the arms when lying on the stomach.

At five months he:

Smiles.

Holds his head steady when carried.

Notices large objects.

At six months he:

Rolls from his back to his stomach.

Sits up with only a slight prop.

At seven months he:

Laughs frequently.

Expresses recognition of familiar persons.

Sits momentarily without support if placed in a favorable leaning position.

Uses hands to reach, grasp, crumple, bang, and splash.

Tomorrow we shall continue the list from the time the baby is 8 months old through 2½ years or 3 years.

Following a three weeks' honeymoon at the Biltmore Forest Country club in Asheville, N. C., Mr. Searles and his bride will make their home in Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamson and Miss Lamson returned on Saturday from several weeks at the Jokake inn, near Phoenix, Ariz. Just before they left for the southwest the engagement of Miss Lamson to Albert de Montgolfier of Paris was terminated.

Miss Fiske, who is the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Isaac P. Fiske of Hartford, Conn., has been making her home with Miss Stirling for the last three and a half years, when she was not attending college. Mrs. Fiske was a first cousin of Miss Stirling and her sister, Mrs. Francis R. Dickinson. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson's two attractive daughters, Mrs. Gilbert Hill Robinson and Mrs. William Alden Little, are more distant cousins of the bride-to-be.

Miss Fiske is a graduate of St. Margaret's school in Waterbury, Conn., and attended Connecticut College for Women. She and Miss Stirling spent last summer in Europe, visiting relatives in England and Scotland.

Mr. Smith, who was graduated from Bowdoin college last June, is engaged in business in Chicago. No date has been set for the wedding.

View Salvation Army Motion Picture Today.

The women's division of the Salvation Army has invited numerous representative women to learn of its work among underprivileged women and children through a talking picture, "Behind the Tambourine," to be shown at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Woman's Athletic club. There will be music, and tea will be served.

Mrs. Charles King Corsant is president of the women's division, and other board members over whose names the invitations were sent out are Mrs. William S. Monroe, Mrs. Charles S. Clark, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. Edward R. Fifield, Mrs. Robert F. Bensinger, and Mrs. Norval Pierce.

Mrs. James S. Knowlton and Mrs. James A. Hannahare are chairmen of the show. Mrs. Walter P. Saunders of La Grange is the new president of the Hinsdale Horse Show association. The show is a high light of the summer's activities in western suburbs and always draws a large crowd of exhibitors and spectators.

Evanston Women Return to Prepare for Benefit.

With their Easter Monday benefit card party and fashion show just a fortnight away, members of the Evanston women's board of the Northwestern University settlement are returning home from vacations in time to assist in the final preparations for the event.

Mrs. Chester D. Tripp, chairman of the style show committee, and Mrs. Roger L. Foote, one of her assistants, are back from Mexico, where they and their husbands spent a month. Mrs. Vernon David, who is on the playing cards committee, has returned with Dr. David from Useppa Island, where Mrs. Donald Miller, treasurer of the board, also has been vacationing.

Mrs. Edwin E. Sheridan is returning from a cruise around South America with Mr. Sheridan a few days before the benefit, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Eddy will get back from Pasadena at about the same time. Mrs. Ward T. Huston has just returned from California and Arizona, and Mrs. Edward P. Welles, from Florida.

Through the coincidence of knowing amateur radio operators both here and in Port au Prince, where they have been visiting for several weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris have talked twice from Haiti to their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln S. Harris, here in Chicago.

The second conversation took place last week, the night before the senior Harises were leaving Haiti, Mr. Harris bound for Cuba and Mrs. Harris for New York, where her debutante daughter, Miss Valeria Harris, will join her for her spring vacation from Mount Vernon Junior college. Mr. and Mrs. Harris are returning to Chicago April 14.

Charming Paris Sculptor Rushes Work for Exhibit.

Chicago has not been able to see as much socially of the attractive young sculptor from Paris, Mlle. Guitou Knoop, as it would have liked, for she has been working every minute during the weeks that she has been here. During this last week that she is remaining, Mlle. Knoop will be especially busy, for she is finishing a head of Dr. Frederick A. Stock, which she is going to take to New York with her on Saturday to exhibit there. The heads of Dr. Stock and three others that she has done here, those of Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mme. Rene Weiller, wife of the French consul, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, will go on view with the rest of her collection on April 27 at the Wildenstein galleries.

Because Mlle. Knoop has not had time to cast these new heads in bronze, she is going to do them in stained plaster, temporarily, and when she returns to Paris she will have them cast in bronze. Dr. and Mrs. Stock have invited a few guests for tea after the concert on Friday to see the head, and to bid farewell to Mlle. Knoop, who leaves the following day.

Mrs. J. Stewart Harvey no sooner returned from a month's vacation in Santa Fe, N. M., with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, than she plunged into work for the Junior league's second hand clothes sale, which is being held Thursday morning at 1006 South Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Henry Murphy will be hostess at the final lecture of the Lenten series sponsored by the Chapel Guild of the Cenacle at 2:30 o'clock today at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Dr. Ross Hoffman, professor of history at New York university, will speak.

Makeup Must Be Applied to a Clean Skin

Smearing Powder on Dirty Face Is Slovenly.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Plastering on powder over makeup hours old is one of those things that women continue to do, although they know better. If you interview any good skin specialist on the reason for certain of common facial blemishes, you'll hear about certain of woman's incomprehensible carelessnesses, including this one. It is a safe bet, you will be told, that a woman who will make up over a skin that has not been thoroughly cleansed is the very woman ashamed to show her powder puff in public.

Supercleanliness in this makeup business should be the first tenet of beauty faith. Otherwise, you may just as well apply your makeup to the kitchen stove for all the beauty good it will do you. Ten or a dozen years ago women might have had a plausible excuse for so patching up the early morning home makeup. But today the business woman can keep, in an unpretentious looking box in the top drawer of her desk, enough equipment to begin from scratch with the makeup. She can haul out the box, tuck it under her arm, away to the rest room and, in a few minutes, emerge a refreshed looking version of what she was a while ago. She will have her cleansing cream and her astringent and cotton bits to clear the skin completely, and then if she dabs on her cheek rouge, freshens up her lips, she's in trim to face her "dictator" cheerfully.

The woman at home rarely is without a couple of brands of cleansing cream agencies for quick refurbishing.

I do think women are much more meticulous than they used to be about the white downy puff and the cleansing cream removers. I can remember, not so long ago, seeing women who'd drag out a surprisingly shocking, much used cleanser rag and become so attached to an overused chamois powder rag they could not be parted from it. Today, with the improved cleansing tissues and a fresh one each time and the minimum cost of puffs, one sees a much better skin standard all around.

In fact, I keep marveling at the beauty of the average woman's skin today, and the immensely reduced number of blackheads and pimple victims. Better diet is an influence, of course, and more regular bathing, and a better hygienic pursuit of beauty all round contributes. In spite of all this, however, one sees women fumbling nervously in a bag in any public rest room, withdrawing a puff of disreputable appearance and rubbing it on and into soiled skin vigorously. And that's why the little blackhead darkies are born.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Scenting hair has always been something of a rite, since fragrant tresses are supposed to be just too romantic for words. Perfumed locks, if you believe the legends and the more sentimental poets, ensnare the hearts of men.

Be that as it may, fastidious women like to have their hair fragrant if for no other reason than it bolsters up their sense of feminine well being. The difficulty has always been that actual perfumes change when they come in contact with hair, sometimes not for the better. Then too, hair can't always be immaculately clean—unless one went in for a shampoo a day—and the thought of putting perfume on anything not brand clean is as unpleasant as the act itself.

However, there is a modern solution to the problem. Some hair specialists have evolved a perfume created especially for use on hair, bearing in mind all of the special requirements of such a product. It comes in a box with atomizer tucked beside it and is to be used after the hair is set and dressed—and of course, while it's at its cleanest.

There are now two fragrances of this perfume made expressly for hair, one just as nice as the other, although the newer one has a special appeal to us because its scent is faintly lemony and remarkably fresh. Choose the one that suits your taste, spray it on when you want to be at your best, and your crowning glory is delicately fragrant.

In addition to perfuming the hair, these fragrances are an aid to hair grooming; they help the cause of luster and, in a measure, help to keep the wave in place.

These have a tremendous appeal to the really dainty woman; as a special touch of fastidiousness they have many charms.

Civic Business Women to Hear Health Talks

The Chicago Civic Business and Professional Woman's club will have a health program at 8 o'clock this evening at the Congress hotel. Dr. L. Pearle Smith, Dr. Janet C. Lamar, and Dr. Clara G. Gottschalk will be speakers.

According to CULBERTSON

NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The national contract bridge champions will be decided in a tournament which begins in New York today and will continue through the week. The tournament is called the grand national and is under the direction of the United States Bridge association. This is the third year it has been held.

The grand national plan of holding annual championship tournaments was put into operation in 1933 by a group of men, including the late Milton C. Work, the greatest of all the auction bridge authorities, and myself. Until that time so-called national tournaments had been attended only by players from New York and a few other large cities east of Chicago. We decided that the general public should be given an opportunity to compete in these tournaments, from which they previously had been excluded by the fact that their geographical locations made it too expensive to travel all the way to New York just to play bridge. The plan we began involved running a number of preliminary tournaments, charging a small card fee, of which part was set aside to pay the expenses of the winners to New York. In the first grand national tournament, held in 1934, 44 players from all parts of the country, including Oregon, New Mexico, the central and southern states, and Massachusetts, competed with New Yorkers for the championship titles. [The New York players won the championships, however.]

At the tournament this week there will be events for teams of four, pairs, and mixed pairs.

A Perfect Count.

An opening bid of one no trump, as I explained last week, always shows a hand with 4-3-3-3 distribution. It also shows a holding of about four honor tricks. The no trump bidder's partner, knowing exactly the distribution as well as the high card strength which is shown by the opening no trump bid, can choose consistently the most advantageous final contract.

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	2 diam.	Double [final bid]

South's hand was a perfect no trump bid—4-3-3-3 distribution and four honor tricks. West's overcall was not so perfect. With such a strong suit and one or two side entries he should have doubled South's no trump bid, believing that with the advantage of the opening lead he could defeat that contract. However, his overcall gave North an opportunity to make a beautiful double. North knew that South had four honor tricks and he knew that South had at least three diamonds. Therefore, with his own one honor trick, he and South together had five honor tricks and seven diamonds, more than West could possibly hold. Game, against a strong diamond suit, seemed unlikely, whereas it was probable that West could be defeated two tricks in diamonds. Therefore North doubled.

North opened the club four and South finessed the jack, winning the trick. South now led the heart king, and when North signaled for a continuation by playing the nine, South continued with the heart ace and led a third one for North to ruff. West still had to lose two tricks in spades and one in diamonds, going down two tricks for a 500 point penalty. Since North-South could not have made a game, North's wisdom in doubling with two kings and a ten gained over 400 points for his side.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: In a progressive contract game, playing four hands at each table, how does one decide who is vulnerable?

Answer: On the first deal at each table neither side is vulnerable; on the second and third deals the dealer's side is vulnerable but the other side is not; on the fourth deal both sides are vulnerable.

Tomorrow's Hand.

"Baking the Perfect Cake," a 56 page booklet containing directions and recipes for 48 cakes, frostings, and fillings, along with causes and remedies of cake failures, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 20 cents. BY MARY MEADE.

Hummingbirds' tongues may have been choice banquet fare for the conquering Romans, but give us something more substantial! Serving tongue still is a commendable custom [and an excellent one for menu variety], but let the hummingbirds be. We'll take a tender baked beef tongue, thank you. And with it just a leetle more of that onion sauce or whatever.

To be even more specific, we'll take it just like this.

BAKED BEEF TONGUE.
[With onion sauce.]

Wash a fresh tongue carefully in cold water. Place in a large stewing kettle, nearly cover with water, add 1 tablespoon of salt, and simmer gently for 2 hours. Remove from kettle and, while still hot, peel off skin. Place in a shallow roasting pan rubbed with drippings or lard, and bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 1 hour.

Serve with this sauce.

2 medium onions, minced
1 tablespoon minced parsley
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 whole garlic clove
½ cup thin white sauce
1 tablespoon tomato catsup
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Cook onion and parsley in butter for 2 minutes over low heat. Add lemon juice, simmer for 10 minutes, then add rest of ingredients. Cook for 7 minutes, remove garlic clove, and serve on hot or cold sliced tongue.

As an alternate for the onion sauce, we vote for a currant jelly and horseradish combination. The tongue, hot or cold, sliced [across the grain, always] and arranged on an attractively garnished serving platter, is equally interesting with this flatterer.

CURRANT HORSERADISH SAUCE.
[For tongue or heart.]

2 tablespoons currant jelly
2 tablespoons fresh grated horseradish
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Beat jelly with whipper or fork until smooth. Beat in the rest of the ingredients and serve cold.

We needn't remind you that all the sundry meats, not tongue alone, have much to offer in the way of variety for spring meals. Stuffed braised beef liver, served with fresh spring vegetables, is the makings of an interesting dinner.

STUFFED BRAISED BEEF LIVER.

Buy 2 pounds of beef liver, and be sure that the market man knows you want it all in one piece. Wash thoroughly in cold water, then cover with boiling water and simmer for 10 minutes. Drain and dry, cut a deep slit or pocket into the center of the piece, and fill with a well seasoned bread stuffing, mixed with finely minced celery and parsley. Skewer or sew the opening together, brown the liver in a little hot fat, then add ½ cup of water. Cover the liver with 3 strips of bacon, cover closely, and simmer slowly for 2 or 3 hours, or until tender. More water may have to be added during the braising. Serve hot, sliced across the grain of the liver.

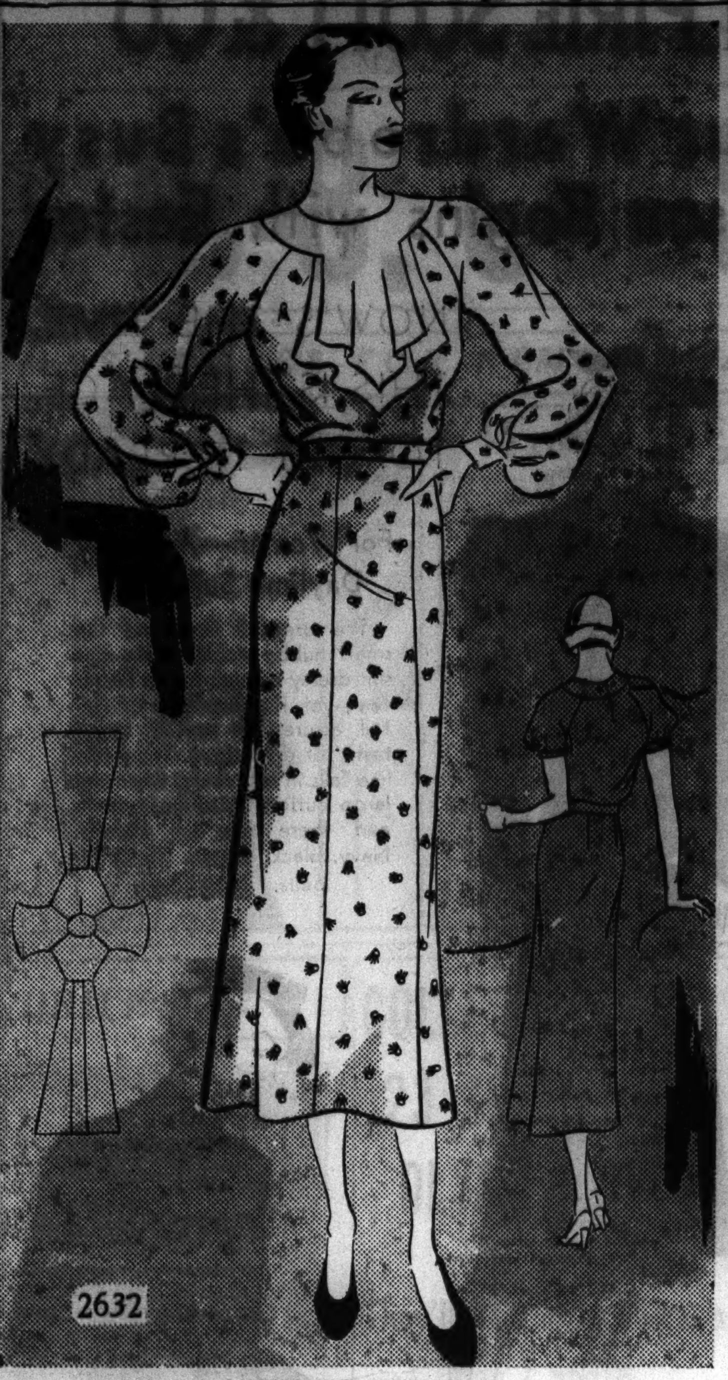
Flatters the Heavy Figure



WOMAN'S DRESS.

Women with heavier-than-average figures have learned that the best way to have a complete and charming wardrobe is to sew their own clothes. Straight lines with soft details are the rule for slenderizing overweight silhouettes, which makes sewing for oneself all the simpler.

The needs of the stout woman are fulfilled perfectly in the dress illustrated today. Its round neckline is minus furbelows, thus being extremely flattering. The skirt has a slenderizing panel in the front. The sleeves, which are full and graceful, have no bothersome armholes, since the shoulderline is raglan. Soft jabots lend a slim effect.

The original of this frock is fresh and springlike in print crépe, with the round yoke and jabots of white sheer. For summer, this model will be cool and attractive in tub pastel silks, sheer cotton prints, and linens.

Style No. 2632 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

1. More Iron and Copper than 1 lb. of spinach, 7½ lbs. fresh tomatoes, 3 lbs. of asparagus.
2. More Calcium than 1 lb. of cabbage.
3. More Phosphorus than 1½ lbs. of carrots.
4. More Sulphur than 2 lbs. of tomatoes.
5. More Sodium than 3 lbs. of turnips.
6. More Potassium than 6 lbs. of beans.
7. More Magnesium than 1 lb. of celery.

Without Cost—Make This Amazing IODINE Test!

Within 1 Week Sea Plant IODINE in Seedol Kelpamalt Must Give You Tireless Energy, Strong Nerves, Pounds of "Stay-There" Flesh or the Trial is FREE. . . . It Costs You Nothing!

Seedol Kelpamalt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea, gets right down and corrects the real underlying causes of weakness, skinniness and nervous, rundown conditions—IODINE STARVED GLANDS. When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. It just isn't turned into flesh. The result is, you stay weak and nervous, tired out and skinny.

The most important gland—the one which actually controls the body weight and strength-building—needs a definite ration of iodine all the time—NATURAL ASSIMILABLE IODINE—not to be confused with chemical iodides which often prove toxic. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested foods into firm flesh, new strength and energy.

To get this vital mineral in convenient, concentrated and assimilable form, take Seedol Kelpamalt—now recognized as the world's richest source of this precious substance. It contains 1,300 times more iodine than oysters, once considered the best source. 6 tablets alone contain more NATURAL IODINE than 486 lbs. of spinach or 1,387 lbs. of lettuce.

Make this test with Seedol Klepamalt. First weigh yourself and see how long you can work or how far you can walk without tiring. Then take 3 Seedol Kelpamalt Tablets with each meal for 1 week and again weigh yourself and notice how much longer you can work without tiring, how much farther you can walk. Notice how much better you feel, sleep and eat. Watch flattering extra lbs. appear in place of scrawny hollows. And if you don't gain 5 lbs. this very first week the trial is free. Seedol Kelpamalt costs but little to use. Try it today. Sold at all

Bevan, a Star of Sennett Era, Has Film Role

Billy Returns to Play in Mystery Thriller.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BILLY BEVAN.

Hollywood, Cal., March 29.—[Special.]—Billy Bevan, whose film start goes back to the days of custard pie artists—himself, Mack Swain, Ben Turpin, and Chester Conklin—in the original Mack Sennett heyday, twenty years ago, makes a reappearance in the movies in the mystery thriller, "Dracula's Daughter."

After the picture he will go back to his pruning shears and retirement at his avocado ranch near Carlsbad, Cal., 100 miles south of here.

When Bevan answered the call of Director Lambert Hillyer, like himself an old timer of the pioneer silent days, he showed up smooth shaven. "Shall I play it straight, or with the mustache?" he asked, referring to the bushy, black, clipped, semiwalrus mustache that used to be his trademark in the Sennett days.

"With the mustache, of course," said Hillyer, frowning at the uncovered upper lip.

"Okay," said Bevan, reaching into his pocket and drawing out a couple of mustaches, one of which he clapped on his face. "Years ago I got into the habit of always carrying a spare around the studio," he said.

Frank Davis, producer, and Tess Slesinger, scenarist, were married in Yuma, Ariz., today after a hasty trip to the Gretna Green by plane. Because both are at work on current productions, their honeymoon will be delayed. The pair met five months ago while working on the film version of "The Good Earth."

A fiend with a candid camera sneaked a photograph of Dance Director Jack Haskell and Producer Buddy De Sylva sitting on a bench of the "Poor Little Rich Girl" set. The photo showed Haskell with his arm about De Sylva's back and leaning forward to say something, but the camera shot made it look as if he wanted to kiss him.

Harry Brand made it a gag that both will long remember, by having the photo reproduced on postal cards and mailing them to all known friends of Haskell and De Sylva. The latter laughed, but began going around to all his pals collecting the cards to get them out of circulation.

Haskell hurried to the studio so fast to see about the gag that he got himself all tangled up in an automobile accident, suffering fractures of two ribs.

Radio-RKO studio has signed Florence Eldridge [Mrs. Fredric March] to play Queen Elizabeth in "Mary of Scotland." March himself is playing Earl Bothwell opposite Katharine Hepburn as Mary Stuart. Before Miss Eldridge got the part, the following were tested: Bette Davis, Helen Menken, Pauline Frederick, Helen Gahagan, Kay Linaker, and Judith Anderson.

It's costing Fred Astaire a lot of money to have his own way. Astaire has started with Ginger Rogers on "Never Gonna Dance," their new dancing-singing-comedy musical, and he will make only one more film after it. The studio wanted him to carry out its idea of the original contract which would have called for three more, instead of one more.

Inasmuch as Astaire is paid by the picture and draws a percentage on each film's receipts, he is making considerable financial sacrifice to follow his belief that "if I make too many films the audiences will get tired of seeing me, and I can't do my best work if I make more than two a year."

Medieval Walls.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Medieval Walls," also known as "Medieval Mosaic," is one of the older pieced quilts which are recommended for all beginning quiltmakers. Materials used in this pattern are responsible for the distinct mosaic motif. Old fashioned blue and white print material, combined with plain blue and white, produce a mellow beauty. The pieced blocks are large, measuring 18 inches square, and set together to form an all over design. The finished quilt measures 90 by 108 inches.

Divorcee, 25, Is Too Mature for Boy of 19

BY DORIS BLAKE.

When a divorced woman of 25 keeps company with a youth of 19, she is not playing fair and we cannot believe that a woman of 25 is unaware of what she is doing. She is certain to spoil that boy's future and she certainly is not building anything toward her own.

We have with us today such a woman as one of our correspondents. She is 25, divorced, and the mother of two girls, 6 and 7. The man-child she has managed to intrigue appears to be a nice fellow who has become deeply attached to the two children. The 25 year old woman obviously plays on this affection of the children for the young man.

There is a girl a year younger than the boy whose heart is carrying a heavy load as she looks on and sees her beloved being won away from her by the children's appeal aided and abetted by their mama. Even so, the boy, in response to a normal call, slips off with this younger woman occasionally, indicating that if he were let alone he would pursue romance in a wholesome way. The youth's modest weekly stipend obviously is being drained for other purposes than the children's entertainment needs. Mama isn't allowing herself to be totally neglected.

Happily, the pull of youth, as represented in the younger woman, eventually will get the boy straightened out. By that time the girl's illusions about him may be all shot to pieces. And here lies the real damage wrought in such cases. It's an entirely different thing when the same age difference occurs with the younger one much more mature, say 27, 28 or 29. But a boy of 19 is a baby under the influence of a 25 year old woman and taking aid of him for anything is simply stealing the baby's pennies, a crime listed among the most hated and most unforgivable of all.

Original Hand-Blocked

Pure Silk Prints

Imported from France

THEIR PRICES SELDOM, IF EVER, ARE LESS THAN $6.95 TO $15 YARD IN A SALE STARTING THIS MORNING

AT $3.95

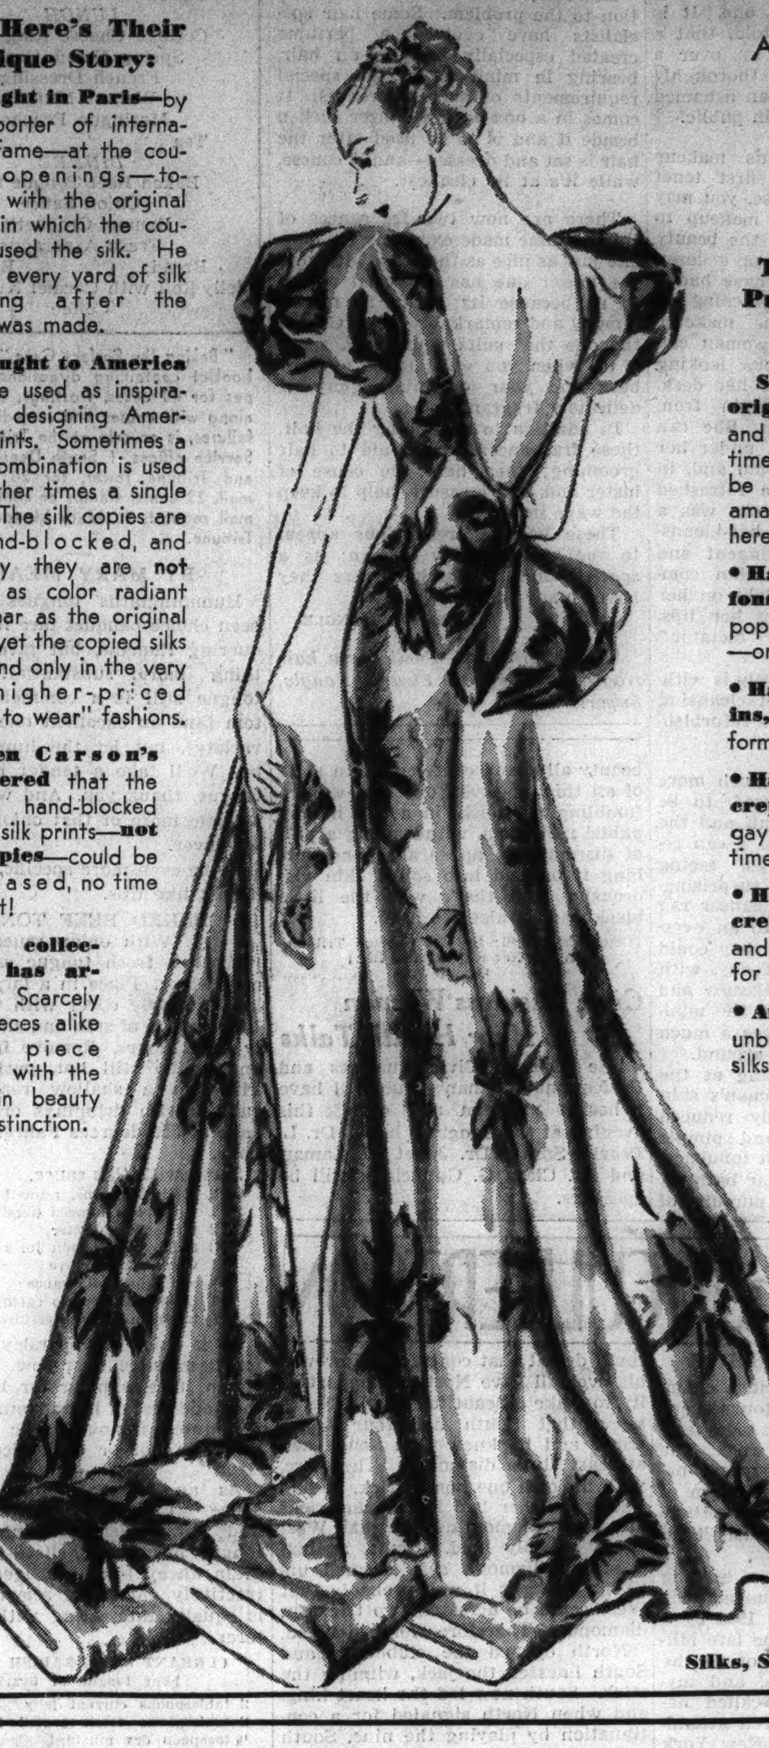
And Here's Their Unique Story:

Bought in Paris—by an importer of international fame—at the couturier openings—together with the original model in which the couturier used the silk. He bought every yard of silk remaining after the model was made.

Brought to America—to be used as inspiration in designing American prints. Sometimes a color combination is used—at other times a single motif. The silk copies are not hand-blocked, and naturally they are not nearly as color radiant and clear as the original—and yet the copied silks are found only in the very much higher-priced "ready to wear" fashions.

When Carson's discovered that the original hand-blocked French silk prints—not the copies—could be purchased, no time was lost!

The collection has arrived. Scarcely two pieces alike—one piece vying with the other in beauty and distinction.



This Amazing Purchase Made By Carson's

Seldom are these originals available—and we know of no other time—when they could be had to sell at this amazingly low price. But here they are—

- Hand-blocked chiffons—great, gorgeous poppies on black or white—or example.
- Hand-blocked satins, in striking prints for formal fashions.
- Hand-blocked silk crepes, dark toned with gay bouquets for daytime fashions.
- Hand-blocked crepes in delicate flower and feather printings—for dress-up fashions.
- And a choice almost unbelievably different in silks for blouses.

PIRATES BEAT SOX, 10-8; CUBS WIN IN 12TH, 4-3

DETROIT WINS TITLE; DEFEATS MAROONS, 2-1

Wings Take Third in Row.

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—Detroit, winning, 2 to 1, over the Montreal Maroons on a third period goal by Scotty Bowman, won the National Hocky league championship tonight for the second time in three years.

SCOTTY BOWMAN.

The Red Wings' victory sent them into the Stanley cup finals, where they were beaten in 1934.

Their feat in taking three straight games from the Maroons represented the first time the championship series had been decided in that manner since 1929. The Wings and Maroons played a record overtime game at Montreal before Detroit won, 1 to 0, and the Wings won the second contest, 3 to 0, at Montreal.

Beat Smith for Lead.

The Maroons, Stanley cup defenders, beat Goalie Norm Smith for the first time in the series to jump into a first period lead tonight on a drive by Gus Marker. Bob Gracie and Herbie Cain had carried the puck down. When Marker managed to break past Bowman and Ebbie Goodfellow, the Maroon feinted Smith to one side and drove the rubber home.

The Wings tied the score after 14 minutes of the second period when Johnny Sorrell, driving past Stew Evans and Marvin Wentworth, beat Goalie Lorne Chabot on a pass from Wally Kilrea.

Bowman Scores Clincher.

The game and championship winning goal came with Detroit's first line on the ice. Bowman swept down with the puck after taking it from Marty Barry, and when Larry Aurie's drive was stopped by Chabot, Bowman lifted the puck into the net. The final period was only four minutes old.

Some 14,000 fans jammed all available space in the Olympia, Detroit's huge indoor sports arena, to watch the Wings win the championship. Lineup:

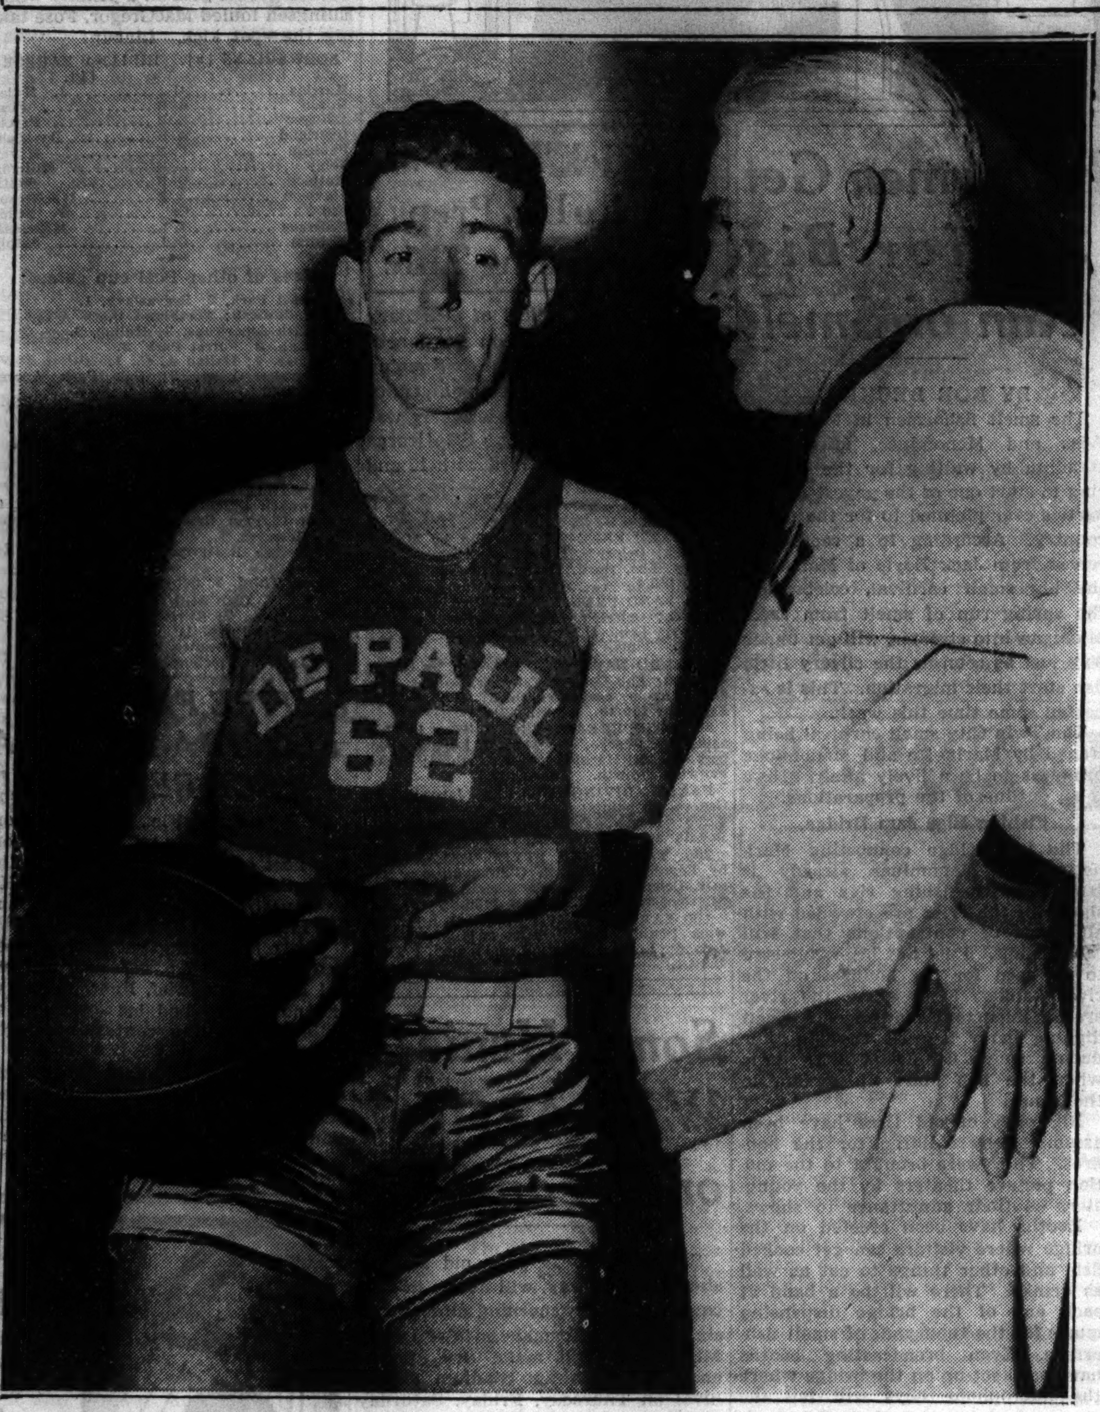
PLANNING FINAL OLYMPIC DRIVE



Capt. Ray Adams and Coach Jim Kelly of De Paul talk over plans for the Demons' final drive in the Olympic elimination tournament at New York this week-end. De Paul will represent the middle west.

De Paul Plays Washington in Olympic Test

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The McPherson Oilers and the Hollywood Universals, the two A. A. U. teams which are the favorites to reach the finals, have been seeded in opposite halves of the draw for the final Olympic basketball tryouts which will be played at Madison Square Garden on Friday, Saturday, and either Sunday or Monday, it was announced today by Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee.

The eight quintets entered in this tournament survived a series of elimination tournaments for the right to compete in a meet that promises to be the most spectacular in the history of the sport.

Here's the Schedule.

Six of the eight contesting teams finished their preliminary play during the last week. Here are the eight teams and the draw for Friday's play:

McPherson Oilers, National A. A. U. champions, vs. Temple university, district 1 and 2 champion.

De Paul university of Chicago, district 5 and 6 champion, vs. University of Washington, district 9 and 10 champion.

University of Arkansas, district 3 and 4 champion, vs. Universals of Hollywood, Cal., runners-up for the National A. A. U. title.

Denver Y. M. C. A. [known as the Denver Safeways in A. A. U. competition], national champion of the Y. M. C. A., vs. Utah state, district 7 and 8 champion.

Representative Group.

This is declared to be a truly representative group in spite of the fact that one or two teams had not been figured to survive the eliminations. The University of Kansas had been

COLLEGES NAME 23 BOXERS FOR OLYMPIC TESTS

They'll Battle in Chicago May 7 and 8.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charlottesville, Va., March 29.—Twenty-three college and university men were named today by the National Collegiate Athletic association boxing committee to compete in the Olympic boxing trials which will be sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on May 7 and 8 and which will be climaxed by the eight championship finals at the Chicago Stadium May 20. The N. C. A. A. is entitled, however, to 32 representatives in this United States Olympic meet, and Hugo Bezdek of Penn State college, chairman of the National Collegiate committee, indicated that additions to this list would be made later.

Members of the National Collegiate committee which made the selections are: Hugo Bezdek, Penn State, chairman; William Cowell, New Hampshire; James G. Driver, Virginia; Capt. R. C. Griffen, United States Naval academy; Capt. J. B. McInery, United States Military academy, and I. F. Toomey, California Agricultural college.

Here Are Picks So Far.

115 POUNDS — Mickey Brutto, West Virginia, champion; Russ Criswell, Penn State, eastern intercollegiate champion for the last three years, runner-up to Brutto.

135 POUNDS — Frank Goodman, Penn State, champion, 1936 eastern intercollegiate champion, undefeated; John Mastrella, Syracuse, undefeated until the National Collegiate finals.

Farrar Heads 145 Pounders.

155 POUNDS—Ord Fink, Syracuse, champion, undefeated 1936 eastern intercollegiate champion; Jule Medynski, North Carolina, one of the most clever boxers in the National Collegiates who might not have lost to Fink except that he tired in the last round.

Stupar Rates Chance.

Among those who in all probability will be added to this list is George Stupar, Wisconsin lightweight. Competition in this division was very close, and many thought that Stupar defeated Mastrella in the semi-finals. In the finals Mastrella had his supporters when Goodman received the decision. Stupar has not received sanction of the National Collegiate committee, but if this is not arranged, a special invitation by the Olympic boxing committee may make it possible for the Wisconsin boxer to compete in Chicago.

Al Mann of Duke is another who may come to Chicago. Mann lost to Fink in the semi-finals, and his coach, Addison Warren, believes he will have an excellent chance in the Olympic trials. Fink is regarded by Bezdek as the most promising of the college men, perhaps not at this time, but in another year. For this

Sox Beaten, 10-8, but Boy, Look at Stratton's Pitching

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 29.—The White Sox put on an eighth inning demonstration against their old friend, Guy Bush, today, but the effort went to waste. With a salvo of hits off the ex-Cub they galloped into a one run lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates, whereupon Whitlow Wyatt was summoned as a ninth inning life saver. The big fellow promptly fell apart. Ted Lyons, making his first effort of the year, couldn't adjust the situation, and the National leaguers punched home three runs for a 10 to 8 triumph.

GUY BUSH.

Wyatt, who pitched to three men in the ninth without retiring even one, wasn't the lone pitching flop of the day. Plenty of ineffectual throwing had been revealed earlier by Les Tietje. The Pittsburghers nicked him for three hits and two runs in the opening inning. They added two more hits in the second. In the third they tuned in with five more hits and five runs. Two more hits appeared in the fourth, which marked the conclusion of Tietje's hapless experience.

Stratton Flattens 'Em.

The Pirates, however, suffered extensively when Tietje's successor, Monty Stratton, began to work on them. He fairly breezed through four innings in which nobody reached base. Then when Bush was backed into a corner in the eighth it was necessary to employ a pinch hitter for the flashy right-hander. That's how the pitching vacancy was created for Wyatt, whose limited appearance netted the National leaguers one single and two walks with none out. All of those fellows scored while Lyons was on the job, although the 35 year old veteran allowed only one hit before retiring the side.

Three hits off Tietje in the first inning enabled the Pirates to jump away to a two run lead which proved of short duration. Jensen opened the battle with a single to center and was forced on Waner's bounder to Haas. Schulte, the ex-American leaguer, thumped a double over Kreevich's head. Vaughan, being looked upon as dynamite, was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Suhr popped to Appling for the second out, but Lavagetto, playing in Traynor's shoes, upset the calculations by singling to center, Waner and Schulte scoring.

Five Hits—Five Runs.

The Pirates couldn't produce a dividend on two hits in the second, but needed only five hits to compile their cluster of five runs in the third. Vaughan started it with a single to center and scored a moment later ahead of Suhr, who slammed the ball over the right center field barrier, some 400 feet distant. Lavagetto lined a singled into left and Young did the same thing. The two runners advanced on Todd's infield out and scored on Blanton's low drive which bounced past Kreevich for a triple. Blanton registered the fifth run on Jensen's liner into Kreevich's hands.

Lavagetto started the Sox on the

Sanders, Former Turf Publicity Director, Dies

Louisville, Ky., March 29.—(AP)—Verney Sanders, 67 years old, former publicity agent for the American Turf association and conductor of a syndicated turf column, "Gimme a Match," died here today after a six weeks' illness.

Sanders was given his first editorial job by the late Henry Watterson on the Louisville Courier-Journal. Several years later he joined the sports staf of the Louisville Times, remaining with that paper for 25 years. He resigned six years ago to devote his time to a syndicated column.

NOTRE DAME HOLDS SERVICES FOR ROCKNE

South Bend, Ind., March 29.—[Special.]—The University of Notre Dame honored the memory of Knute K. Rockne today with memorial services. The famed football coach died with eight others on March 31, 1931, when the airplane in which they were riding crashed near Bazar, Kas.

Today's services were held at 8 o'clock this morning when the Notre Dame Club of the St. Joseph Valley attended mass in a body at St. Olaf chapel, Dillon hall. The St. Olaf chapel was erected following the death of Rockne in memory of the patron saint of Norway, Rockne's native country.

Rushaway Is Derby Winner at New Orleans

New Orleans, La., March 29.—[Special.]—Rushaway, A. G. Tarn's speedy 3 year old, today won the $5,000 Louisiana Derby at one mile and one-eighth by two lengths at the Fair Grounds track. The Tarn racer, mean at the post, was moved from his No. 1 position to the outside. He started fast and finished well in front of Lolschen, which races in the silks of the B. Hernandez stable, in track record breaking time. Rushaway's mark of 1:50 4-5 replaced that held jointly by War Eagle and Uluniu at 1:51 1-5.

Rushaway, carrying 116 pounds and coupled in the betting with Miss Bam, was a 2 to 5 choice, and returned $2.80, $2.40, and $2.40 on win, place, and show tickets. Lolschen, which ran as an entry with Flag Cadet, rewarded backers with $4.00 to place and $3.00 to show. Professor Paul, also liked by many, finished third and was worth $2.60 for show.

The Louisiana Derby was the feature event of the closing day at Fair Grounds, which has conducted a 90 day meeting. Jocky J. Longden, who was aboard the winner, had trouble with his mount at the gate. Rushaway finally was sent to the outside. Immediately the other racers acted up and it was several minutes before the field of ten could be quieted and sent on its way.

Lolschen was ridden by Jocky S. Young, while C. Mojena was Professor Paul's jocky.

SHOUN STOPS YANKS' RALLY WITH THREE ON

Hartnett's Single Decides Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—Gabby Hartnett drove in Augie Galan with two out in the twelfth inning here today and that run, Augie's third, gave the Cubs a 4 to 3 victory over the New York Yankees before a capacity crowd of several thousand.

LEFTY SHOUN.

It was the first extra inning affair for both teams and by all odds the most exciting game in which the Cubs have participated this year. Lefty Shoun was the defensive hero of the day, holding the Yankees scoreless after replacing Bill Lee at the start of the New York ninth after the Yanks had risen up in the eighth for two runs and a 3 to 2 lead. He ended the game by striking out Roy Johnson with the bases full. He threw four straight strikes to Johnson, the third of which was fouled.

Hits Are Wasted.

The Cubs had a hard time making their hits count. Before Hartnett did his stuff in the twelfth they had made 13 hits, received five walks, and were aided by two errors, all of which produced the skimp total of three runs.

The Cubs, despite their large turnover of nonproductive hits, probably would have won but for the fact that Lee, after retiring the first six batsmen to face him, had one of his famous bad innings. He walked two men at the start of the eighth, and both scored to give the Yanks a 3 to 2 lead going into the ninth.

In this inning Phil Cavarretta opened with his third straight hit. Subsequent hits by Stan Hack and Pinch Batter Ken O'Dea got Phil around with the tying run. The Yankees threatened in each of the remaining four innings, never failing to get at least one runner on base. Each time Shoun braced in the nick of time, twice despite bad errors by Jurges and Herman.

Augie Shows Way.

Galan, who scored the Cubs' first two runs in yesterday's game, also rang up a pair in his first tries today. He opened the game with a double and scored on a single by Herman, Bill's first safe shot in eleven trips to the plate. Klein fouled to Gehrig and Hartnett walked. Then Demaree tapped to Gomez. In the third inning Galan walked with one out and stopped at second on Herman's single to center. He took third while Klein was forcing Herman and scored on a wild pitch. Lazzeri threw out Hartnett.

Inept fielding gave the Yanks a run after two were out in the third. After Gomez and Johnson had been retired, Cavarretta fumbled Rolfe's grounder. Hoag singled to right and when the ball got through Klein, Rolfe scored and Hoag reached third.

Big Boy Comes On.

Brown, 268 pound Yankee right-hander, replaced Gomez at the start of the sixth. Demaree fanned, but Cavarretta got his second single. Hack hit into a double play. Lee also started pitching in the sixth and retired Selkirk, Crosetti, and Glenn on fly balls.

Hoag, the seventh batsman to face Lee, was the first to get on base. He walked to start the eighth. And so did Gehrig. Lazzeri singled to right,

SAGILIO, M'LEAN DECIDE GRUDGE MATCH TONIGHT

Boys to Go Ten Rounds in Marigold Ring.

A good old fashioned grudge match, reminiscent of those involving rival boxers from different sections of town years ago, will be held tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, when Frank Sagilio and Scotty McLean meet in a ten round bout.

The ill feeling between the Cicero fighter and McLean had its inception at Peoria two weeks ago when they met for the first time. On that occasion the Peoria boxer won the bout on a foul in the eighth round.

Sock! Out Go the Lights.

Jack Hurley, manager of Frankie, says the body blow which floored McLean was fair and the referee, James Kennelly, should have counted out Scotty. He also charges that on two other occasions during the contest McLean was floored with punches to the head and both times the lights went out. He adds that tonight's return bout is a mismatch and should never have been permitted by the Illinois boxing commission.

These charges of prejudice and violation of the rules will be heard by the commission this afternoon after the fighters weigh in.

"Frankie will knock him out in two rounds," Hurley predicts.

Bout May Gross $1,800.

The first match between the two attracted a gate of about $500. Indications are tonight's meeting will draw a capacity crowd of more than 1,500. At that rate, receipts will amount to approximately $1,800.

Harold Brown, Chicago welterweight, and Ray Sharkey, Cleveland lightweight, both of whom are Golden Gloves products, will appear in two of five supporting matches. Brown will met Al Pahl, Sioux Falls, S. D., for five rounds, and Sharkey is booked to clash with Sammy Verse for four sessions. Sammy De Pasquale and Duke Davis will be opponents in a second lightweight match at four rounds.

Amateur boxing teams representing Gary and Chicago will meet in a series of intercity bouts tonight at the Johnny Coulon gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street. . . . Mike Belloise, New York featherweight challenger, arrived yesterday for a 15 round elimination with Everett Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., Friday at Marigold Gardens. He will open drills this afternoon at Trafton's gymnasium. At the same time Everett will resume workouts after resting yesterday. Danny Villa, promising local lightweight, will make his professional debut on the card. . . . Ted Tanner, Golden Gloves second, will leave this morning for St. Louis, where he will handle Otis Thomas, 1934 Golden Gloves heavyweight king, in a ten round match against Eddie Simms of Cleveland tonight.

Johnny Pacek, former Golden Gloves heavyweight titleholder, has returned from California, where he won several battles, to undergo an operation today or tomorrow. He plans to resume his coast campaign within five weeks.

STATE WILL ASK COURT TO HALT OAKLAWN MEET

Little Rock, Ark., March 29.—(AP)—Attorney General Carl Bailey tonight followed up a criticism of the extension of the racing at Hot Springs with the announcement he would move to stop the operation of Oaklawn race track this week through court action.

After asserting that the Arkansas racing commission was without authority in recently granting Oaklawn an additional six days to operate beyond the originally scheduled closing date of the thirty day meeting yesterday, Bailey said he would seek an injunction against the extension in Pulaski Chancery court here.

He said he would ask Chancellor Frank H. Dodge tomorrow to enjoin the license permitting the Hot Springs track to continue racing during the week.

URGES FIVE YEAR CLOSED SEASON ON FUR BEARERS

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—A five year closed season on marten, fisher, wolverine, and otter to save them from extinction has been suggested by Ira N. Gabrielson, chief of the federal bureau of biological survey.

He has asked game and conservation officials in states where these animals still live to provide a "breathing spell" for them.

"Several states have laws providing closed seasons on these animals, but broader protection is needed" Gabrielson said.

Fishermen Get Set for Big Run of Smelt

BY BOB BECKER.

The smelt fishermen in Marinette, Wis., and Menominee, Mich., are standing by waiting for the bell to ring to start one of the gayest fishing parties ever planned to for the north country. According to a report received from Jack Boyle of Marinette the big smelt carnival, celebrating the spring run of smelt from Lake Michigan into streams, will get under way just as soon as the silvery little fish start their migration. This is expected some time this week.

The Twin City smelt carnival being staged by Marinette and Menominee promises to be a lively affair. Here is an outline of the preparations.

Fishing Rigs Jam Bridge.

The big bridge connecting Marinette and Menominee already is jammed with fishing rigs and the shores of the river are crowded with all kinds of contraptions that will catch smelt. Fuel has been collected to be used for big bonfires on the river banks. Fires along the river are an important feature of a smelt dipping party because the big time during smelt fishing is after dark, when the fish start up stream in thousands.

Big piles of old tires have been assembled by children for the bonfires. They were brought to the motion picture theaters by the youngsters as their admittance to shows.

Booths have been erected on the bridge where visitors can get cooked fish, and other things to eat as well as drinks. There will be a band at each end of the bridge dispensing music for the thousands of smelt fishermen. Even broadcasting booths have been set up on the bridge where the microphone boys will tell the story of the sport that thousands of smelt fishermen are having while dipping the fish from the river by the light of bonfires and long strings of electric lights.

It's Gay Party.

All in all this Twin City smelt carnival looks like a gay party—a sort of early spring salute to the sport of fishing. One convenient thing about going after smelt is that it is not a fish that requires any rod and reel or other regulation tackle. It's simply a case of dipping some kind of net into the stream and lifting out the smelt. Everybody is invited to this northland smelt carnival which will start this week on the shore of Lake Michigan about 295 miles from Chicago.

Sonja Henie Will Arrive on Wednesday

Sonja Henie, 24 year old skating star from Norway, will arrive in Chicago Wednesday morning direct from six sell-out performances in the east. Miss Henie will make five appearances at the Chicago Stadium ice carnival on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, and at a children's matinée Saturday.

The party of the three-time Olympic and ten-time world's champion figure skater from Oslo includes, besides Miss Henie, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Henie; her manager, Dennis Scanlon, and Jack Dunn, the British figure skate champion, who is a member of the supporting cast in the nineteen appearances on Miss Henie's first American professional tour.

To Skate Three Numbers.

Norwegian night on Thursday, the opening night of the carnival, is in the hands of a committee that includes Walter E. Olson, president of the Olson Rug company; Chief Justice John H. Sonsteby, Judge Walter W. L. Meyer; Alexander Berg, acting Norwegian consult in Chicago; Erwin Larsen, president of the Norwegian National league, and R. R. Haugen, editor of the Skandinavan.

Miss Henie will skate three numbers on the Stadium program, giving her Olympic routine, her famous "Dying Swan" dance, and a third number, a mazurka, which she will present for the first time in Chicago this week. In the Olympic routine she will present the various school and free skating figures in which she has been undefeated in the world's competition since she was 14 years old. These figures are a novelty in the usual run of ice carnival programs which are devoted entirely to exhibition figures.

Dunn Is Champion.

Dunn, who was runner-up in the men's division of the Olympic games figure skating, also will demonstrate a competition routine, as well as appearing in his spinning rhumba dance specialty.

Maccabees Win in Peel Cup Soccer

Favored by a strong breeze, the Ravenswood held their more experienced opponents even for the first thirty minutes. A few minutes later, Molvie scored for the Maccabees close in. The Ravenswood had several chances to tie, particularly when McEwan missed an open net.

The Maccabees held the upper hand in the second period, but could not pass Goalie Linderman. Forcing a corner, Von Drasek finally placed nicely for Cuthburt, who headed into the net for the Maccabees. Lineup:

ENTIRE FLEET IN FLORIDA-HAVANA RACE BECALMED

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 30 [Monday].—(AP)—Failing winds left the entire fleet of twenty-one yachts in the seventh annual St. Petersburg-Havana yacht race becalmed near Sanibel Island early today.

The nine leading yachts had been becalmed since 7 p. m. south of Sanibel Island, but brief, light breezes to the northward had led observers to believe the trailing contestants might overtake the leaders.

Shortly after midnight the breezes also died down, leaving the fleet stranded. The coast guard cutter Pandora, convoying the yachts, reported a light fog had settled over the entire area.

BOBBY JONES SHOOTS 70 IN PRACTICE ROUND

Beats Runyan and Smith with Dudley.

Augusta, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—Bobby Jones continued to play subpar golf today in preparation for his third annual return to the Augusta national invitation tournament opening Tuesday, but he yielded the scoring honors to the home pro, Ed Dudley, in the chief attraction among the day's workouts.

Finding his putter, the original Calamity Jane, not so trustworthy as the day before, when he lowered the practice record to 64, Jones shot a 70, two under par. The former world champion started off with birdies on the first and third holes, but thereafter was somewhat erratic off the tees.

Dudley Rallies.

Dudley, out in 38, started back with four straight birdies, but three putted the 15th and 18th, besides losing a stroke to par on the 17th. He finished with a 67. His shotmaking, however, was the chief factor in a 3 and 2 victory for himself and Jones over Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and Horton Smith of Chicago.

Smith, aided by an eagle 3 on No. 15—where Gene Sarazen holed a spoon shot for his famous "double eagle deuce" a year ago—carded a 70. Runyan finished with 73.

Little Has 72.

W. Lawson Little Jr. of San Francisco, the amateur champion of Great Britain and the United States, had a par 72, despite three putting three greens. Scotty Campbell, Seattle amateur, shot a 74. Among the professionals Vic Ghezzi had a 70, Bobby Cruickshank a 71, and Craig Wood and Tommy Armour each a 73.

Kiefer Races Zehr Tonight in Patten Pool

Swimming stars of Northwestern university and the Lake Shore Athletic club, with a number of outstanding high school perfomers from the Chicago area, will combine tonight at Patten pool, Evanston, in the presentation of a water carnival the proceeds of which will be turned over to the Olympic fund.

Topping the competitive end of the meet will be a backstroke race between Danny Zehr, Northwestern's national intercollegiate champion and a member of the 1932 United States Olympic team, and Adolph Kiefer, holder of every existing record in this particular style of swimming.

TIGERS DEFEAT CINCINNATI, 7-4; GEHRINGER STARS

Sensational Catch Nips Reds' Rally.

Tampa, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 4, in an exhibition game today, largely because of a sensational diving catch by Charlie Gehringer which nipped a Cincinnati rally in the eighth inning.

Gehringer threw to first as he lay on the ground to complete a double play and preserve a one run lead. Elden Auker pitched midseason ball for the Tigers, allowing only three hits in seven innings, but he gave way to Jake Wade after the Reds got a single and a double in the eighth. Lee Stine held the Tigers to five hits in seven innings. Score:

Cincinnati [N.]	002 000 020—4	8	2

RED SOX, 3; PHILS, 2.

Sarasota, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—A hit by Jimmy Foxx broke up a 13-inning duel between the Boston Red Sox and the Phillies today, giving the Red Sox a 3 to 2 victory.

Boston tied the score in the eighth inning. The winning run came when Foxx lined a single to the outfield, sending home Eric McNair, who got on with a drive through short.

ATLANTA, 4; A.'S, 3.

Atlanta, Ga., March 29.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics were beaten, 4 to 3, today by Atlanta's Southern association Crackers.

Bobby Durham turned back the Athletics without a hit or run for seven innings. He retired in favor of Almon Williams and the A.'s pounded in their three runs in the eighth inning.

Score:

Philadelphia [A.]	000 000 030—3	4	2
Atlanta [S. A.]	100 102 00*—4	7	0

GIANTS WIN, 2 TO 1.

New Orleans, La., March 29.—(AP)—The New York Giants defeated the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, in an exhibition game today played before the largest crowd to see the Giants perform this spring.

Before 5,000 Carl Hubbell and Fred Fitzsimmons held the opposition to five hits while their mates collected nine off Mel Harder and Willis Hudlin. The Giants clubbed Harder for six hits in the first four innings, but failed to score. Berger got two hits for the Indians. Score:

Batteries—Hubbell, Fitzsimmons and Danning, Mancuso; Harder, Hudlin and Becker, George.

DODGERS WHIP CARDS.

Clearwater, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—George Earnshaw held the St. Louis Cardinals to two hits in seven innings today as the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Red Birds, 6-3, in an exhibition game.

Not a man reached first until two were out in the third inning and only three Cards reached base in the seven innings Earnshaw pitched. One scored. Virgil Davis cleared the right field fence for a homer in the fifth. Bucher slugged his second homer in two days as the Dodgers made five runs in the fifth. Score:

Brooklyn	000 050 10*—6	11	1

SENATORS POUND BROWNS.

Orlando, Fla., March 29.—(AP)—Continuing its batting streak, Washington pounded two St. Louis Browns' pitchers for 15 hits and a 13 to 1 victory today.

Nine of the Senators' hits were for two bases or better. There were three triples and Sammy Holbrook, pinch-hitting, knocked out a homer in the sixth. Merritt Cain and Jim Walkup pitched for St. Louis.

St. Louis	000 100 0— 1	3	1
Washington	113 071 *—13	15	0

Batteries—Cain, Walkup, and Hensley; Deshong, Coppola, and Bolton.

Indians Lead in Grapefruit League Games

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Their consistent ability to beat the New York Giants and their own farm club, New Orleans, keeps the Cleveland Indians on top of the Grapefruit league standing today at the end of another week of spring training competition.

The Indians' spring record shows eleven victories in 12 games and five straight over National league opposition. They whipped the Giants four times and the Cubs once, but have yet to face their first American league rival.

The next best record is credited to the St. Louis Browns, with seven victories and two losses, while the flashy Cincinnati Reds are third with ten games won and five lost. The Reds went a long way toward avenging the Cleveland triumphs against their league by winning eight of ten games from American league opposition.

The compilation of interleague rivalry for the spring season thus far shows the National league ahead by a fair margin, winning 23 games to the American league's 18 triumphs.

The Grapefruit league standing, including Saturday's games:

	Intra-league.	Inter-league.	All games.
Indians	0-0	5-0	11-1
Browns	3-2	0-0	7-2
Reds	2-3	8-2	10-5
Cardinals	2-2	6-2	9-5
White Sox	0-0	1-3	7-4
Senators	3-2	2-1	8-5
Phillies	2-3	1-1	8-5
Yankees	0-0	5-4	6-4
Tigers	3-1	4-5	8-6

Cubs	4-5	3-2	8-7

Pirates	0-2	1-0	4-4

way to two runs in the third and then suddenly stopped them with a brilliant play when it looked as if they might keep going indefinitly. Lavaggeto threw wild on Radcliff's grounder and fumbled Kreevich's grounder to open the inning. Haas singled over second, Radcliff scoring and Kreevich going to third. Kreevich registered on Washington's single to left. Waner got his hands around Appling's liner. Hayes sent a high powered grounder toward third and Lavaggeto forced Haas and threw to Suhr in time to double Hayes at first base.

Mauldin Gets Double.

In the two innings worked by Blanton after the third the Sox made only limited headway. After two men had been set down in the fourth Mauldin was ushered forth to bat for Tietje. He drove a two bagger down the left field line, but Radcliff fanned. The only remaining hit off Blanton was a looping single to right by Haas with one out in the fifth. He was forced one out in the fifth.

The jarring of Bush in the eighth for the four runs that put Chicago into the lead for the first time, opened with Washington's double to right. Suhr retired Appling after scooping up a grounder. Hayes singled to right and Washington scored. Morrissey, who had supplanted Dykes, was thrown out by Lavagetto, after which Shea walked. McCulloch batted for Stratton and singled to fill the bases. Then Radcliffe let loose a double which bounced off the center field fence, Hayes, Shea, and McCulloch scoring. Radcliffe endeavored to stretch his hit into a triple and was nailed at third.

Wyatt Is Wild.

The Pirates' winning effort in the ninth started when Waner, the first to face Wyatt, singled to left. The big speedballer promptly lost control and filled the bases on passes to Schulte and Vaughan. This was where Lyons came into the picture. He pitched one ball to Suhr, who lined it over first for a single, Waner and Schulte scoring and Vaughan going to third. Vaughan scampered home on Lavagetto's fly to Kreevich. A double play brought an abrupt finish to the assault.

The Sox and Pirates will leave here tomorrow morning aboard their special train and hesitate at Austin this afternoon for the third game of their barnstorming series. Dykes will give a couple of his freshman pitchers—Ira Hutchinson and Red Evans—a chance to test their arms against the National leaguers. The Pittsburgh pitching will be handled by Red Lucas and Jim Weaver, and possibly Jack Tising, a rookie from Louisville.

He explained that the four eastern clubs—Des Moines, Davenport, Waterloo, and Cedar Rapids—had voted in favor of a six club league.

He Has a Wallop.

Farrar has the advantage over most college boxers in that he not only knows defense but he can hit accurately and hard. He has had experience, as his Golden Gloves record proves. Moreover, Farrar is determined to win an Olympic championship as a climax to his amateur boxing career.

"I haven't boxed much since 1934," Danny said today in discussing the coming Olympic trials. "Do you think I've gone back?" he asked anxiously.

We assured the champion he hadn't gone back. The way he shot his left to the body and head was reminiscent of the 1934 Golden Gloves campaign when Farrar finished off the Polish champion to climax a brilliant year.

Hurt in Southern Meet.

Farrar fought only seven bouts in his freshman year at Duke, for freshmen cannot compete in intercollegiate contests. He won all of them. This year in the southern conference tournament here at the University of Virginia Farrar recived a bad cut on his head in the first round and was forced to forfeit his match.

Danny bruised the first knuckle on his left hand in the final last night, but Coach Warren believes a month's rest will bring it back into condition. That left hand is Danny's best weapon. With it he knocked out Cas Niewiadomi of Ohio Normal in the first round of his first match, and while Niewiadomi wasn't injured he went to the hospital for observation. Farrar then punched out a decision over the veteran Art McGivern of Syracuse, and completed his schedule with a decision over the previously unbeaten Sam Donato of Penn State. Donato was knocked down twice in the first round for counts of eight.

Heavyweights Have Class.

The National Collegiate tournament will send at least three fine heavyweights to Chicago. Pontecorvo, Brown, and Richter are better than any Golden Gloves heavyweights Chicago has seen this year. Cramer of Virginia cannot hit and is the least promising of the quartet named, although he has unlimited courage and persistence and missed beating Brown of Syracuse by one point.

The 1937 National Collegiate boxing tournament has been assigned tentatively to California Agricultural college. Distance may be a handicap, Chairman Bezdek said today, and this is why the decision is not final. The University of Wisconsin is second choice for next year, and many of the coaches are of the opinion the tournament will be held there.

BREVITY IN DERBY.

MIAMI, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—Brevity, impressive winner of the Florida Derby, carries more than just the hopes of Owner Joseph E. Widener in Kentucky's 62d annual classic at Louisville May 2. This handsome bay fellow carries the hopes of all Florida, and to a certain extent its reputation as a winter training ground.

In years past there was decided prejudice against winter raced horses which has entirely subsided. In reality it probably was because better horses were not raced in winter than because this racing hurt them for spring stakes that caused prejudice and that the turf axiom of "winter racers don't win Derbies" took its place along with "fillies don't win Derbies."

At any rate, not since the time of Black Gold in 1924 has one come up from the south to capture the blue grass fixture. Place and show horses, yes, but not Derby winners.

Even when these winter horses were trying to win heretofore they were given a siege of conditioning in Kentucky. Owner Widener elects to keep Brevity in these parts until three weeks before the big event, venturing the opinion this climate will prove beneficial. Others opined that northern trained colts, because of the severe winter, would be backward in their preparation.

No sooner was this opinion expressed than all Kentucky voiced protest. Such lèse-majesté could not be tolerated by the great breeding state breeders. Owners and trainers came forward to explain their charges would be ready for Brevity's challenger of speed and climate.

Brevity is strong future book favorite for the Kentucky Derby. Whether he is as great as he looks remains to be proved by more serious contention than he has faced yet this season. Several colts were rated higher as 2 year olds. In his two races at Hialeah Brevity did not beat much, but he beat them so easily, outfooted them in such fast time, and had so much left at each finish that he rightfully is entitled to first call until beaten, if he is beaten.

Ray, Vanderbilt Giant, Eyes New Shot Put Record

Nashville, Tenn., March 29.—(AP)—If the good start Buford [Baby] Ray, Vanderbilt athlete, has made is any indication, the world's shot put record may remain in Dixie even after Jack Torrance, world record holder, has retired.

Ray, sophomore tackle on the football team, threw the shot 43 feet last week in his first attempt. Ray, like Torrance, is a giant physically—6 feet 6 inches tall and weighing 282 pounds.

In competition Saturday, after only a few days' practice, Roy got 42 feet 7½ inches. At the same stage of his collegiate career at L. S. U. Torrance was throwing the shot between 42 and 44 feet, his mark in May reaching 45 feet.

"I haven't got much rhythm yet," said Ray, "and I've got to develop a style to suit my build so I can stay in the ring. I hope to be able to hit 46 feet," he added, "by the end of the track season."

48 CHESS STARS START PLAY FOR NATIONAL TITLE

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Forty-eight chess experts are ready to start tomorrow in the preliminary matches for the United States championship—a title which, since Paul Morphy, New Orleans, began his brilliant world-beating career in 1857, has been held by only seven persons, including the southerner. The present champion, Frank James Marshall, New York, has held the title nearly 27 years. Recently he announced he had had his full share of the honors and that, while not competing, he would recognize the victor of the tournament as his successor.

The forty-eight players, including entries from Porto Rico, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, and New Jersey, in addition to representatives of the five boroughs of New York, will be divided into four groups of twelve each. Each group will be required to contest eleven rounds. The two leaders in each section then will be admitted into the championship finals.

The Jayhawks had won 23 consecutive games this year when they met the Rocky Mountain champions, Utah dropped the first game of the series by two points in overtime and then took the two deciding contests.

So there can be no quibbling about the class of the westerners.

Stanford had been expected to come through on the Pacific coast, but Oregon state upset the Cardinals in the first round and then was beaten soundly by the Huskies in the final. Arkansas won easily as anticipated, and Temple had a narrow escape. De Paul, least known of the five college quintets, has been a "giant killer" all year and rates its place. Minnesota was easy for it in the inter-district playoff.

Oilers are Favorites.

The victory of the Denver team in the Y. M. C. A. tournament gives the Olympic tests another entrant of exceptional class. It had been thought originally that the Y. M. C. A. would produce a champion hardly worthy of the rest of the contestants, but the Denver Safeways, playing as a Y. M. C. A. unit, came whirling through that tourney even though the Wilmerding, Pa., the defending champion, did give it a terrific battle in the final before capitulating, 47 to 45.

The Olympic favorite will be the Oilers, especially since it is just a three day show that will not tire the swift-stepping Kansans the way a week-long national tournament would. McPherson will be might hard to beat and no one who saw it play in New York a fortnight ago will miss watching such a marvelous combination in action once more.

Just as an Olympic tournament sidelight an interesting item is that Temple will have three Jews in its starting lineup and the Universals two. This is an odd twist that has developed in spite of the action by many Jews to boycott the Olympic tournament.

The draw was an open one made in the presence of Brundage; Maj. John L. Griffith, president of the N. C. A. A.; J. Lyman Bingham, secretary of the Olympic basketball committee, and A. A. Schabinger, director of the tournament.

Medica Leads Swim Stars in A. A. U. Meet

Leading American swimmers, including a dozen champions in twenty different events, were arriving in Chicago yesterday and are scheduled to spend today and tomorrow in workouts in the pool at the Lake Shore Athletic club in preparation for the senior National A. A. U. swimming and diving meet which opens a four day run there Wednesday night.

Among the title defenders in the men's events are Jack Medica, the nation's greatest free styler, who will defend his 220 and 500 yard crowns; Peter Fick of the New York Athletic club, who will defend the 100 yard free style title and also swim with the Spence brothers of the same club in defense of the 400 yard free style relay title; Elbert Root, now with the Detroit Athletic club, who holds the low board diving title; Dick Degener, also of the Detroit Athletic club, who holds the high board diving title, and Adolph Kiefer of Chicago, who has acquired every backstroke title in the books since he started swimming at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Katherine Rawls to Compete.

Stars in the women's division who have arrived for the meet are Katherine Rawls, Miami Beach, here to protect her 100 yard free style, 100 yard breast stroke, and 300 yard medley relay titles; Eleanor Holm Jarrett, who has set world, American, and Olympic records in the 100 yard and 100 meter back stroke events, and Dorothy Poynton Hill, Los Angeles, who holds the low board diving championship.

Also here are 16 year old Betty Lea and her three teammates, Olive McKean, Doris Buckley, and Mary Lou Petty of the Washington Athletic club of Seattle, who hold most of the American relay records. Lenore Knight Wingard has come from Cincinnati to defend her 220 and 500 yard free style titles.

Medica Is the Favorite.

Three of these titles will be at stake Wednesday night when spectators will see the finals in the 100 yard free style and the 300 yard individual medley for women and the low board diving for men. A champion also will be crowned Wednesday in the 1,500 meter free style event for men, a distance that is included in the national indoor meet only on Olympic years. The favorite to win at the 1,500 meter distance is Medica, University of Washington senior,

Henshaw, Flowers to Hurl Against Cardinals Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 29.—Manager Grimm of the Cubs will send two lefties, Roy Henshaw and Wes Flowers, against the St. Louis Cardinals at Bradentown tomorrow. The trip, almost 50 miles each way, is the next to longest on the Cub's Florida bus schedule.

Manager Grimm announced tonight he had given tomorrow off to Gabby Hartnett, Bill Herman, Bill Lee, Tex Carleton, and Larry French. Lon Warneke also was on the rest list but won't go fishing with the others. He was rushed to a doctor tonight with a slight infection on his knee, the result of a sliding "strawberry" or abrasion. The doc said everything would be all right in a day or so. Chuck Klein will not play tomorrow, his bad cold being back on him.

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, on a visit here recently said he considered Gabby Hartnett the best catcher he'd ever seen.

Joe Di Maggio, Yankee boy wonder who has been out of the lineup for a week because of burns which he received in taking heat treatments, today took a workout for the first time since the accident.

scoring Hoag with the tying run. Gehrig reached third. Selkirk fanned, but Crosetti singled to right, scoring Gehrig and putting Lazzeri on third. Glenn was called out on strikes. Then Crosetti stole second. Brown became Lee's third strikeout victim of the inning.

Shoun Takes Turn.

Cavarretta opened the ninth with his third single and stopped at second on Hack's single to center. Jurges attempted to sacrifice and popped to Rolfe, but O'Dea batted for Lee and singled to left, Cavarretta scoring the tying run and Hack stopping at second. Galan fanned and Herman grounded to Lazzeri.

Sundra was the Yankee pitcher at the start of the twelfth. Galan walked on four pitches and went to second while Sundra was throwing out Herman. Klein flied to Selkirk, but Hartnett lined a single to center, his first hit of the game, scoring his third and the Cubs' fourth run. Demaree retired the side with his sixth out.

WHO WAS STUNG? WINTER DEALS NOT ALL PROFIT

Red Sox Still Wonder if Books Will Balance.

New York, March 29.—(AP)—For at least a couple of months it will be impossible to determine the profits and losses compiled in baseball's winter ivory mart, but meanwhile there are plenty of indications that all the trades didn't turn out as expected.

In the cases of the biggest deals, from the financial side, a wait-and-see attitude must necessarily be adopted. The Red Sox' purchases of Jimmie Foxx, Doc Cramer, Eric McNair, and Heinie Manush involved such huge sums that the results can't be judged on the basis of spring training performances. Incidentally, if it were possible, the opinion would be almost unanimous that Tom Yawkey & Co. had been badly stung. The Red Sox have made one of the worst showings of any major league club so far in the Grapefruit league games.

Simmons Back in Form.

Similarly the world champion Tigers must weigh carefully the answer to the question of whether Al Simmons was worth the $75,000 outlay. Word from the south is that Al is back in the form he used to show with the Athletics. If he keeps it up all season, he likely will mean another pennant for Detroit and thoroughly justify the high price.

On the other hand there are such deals as the Yankees' trade of pitchers with Cleveland and the Dodgers' $50,000 purchase of First Baseman Buddy Hassct from the Yanks' Newark farm that are threatening to backfire.

Allen Has Yet to Prove Worth.

Joe McCarthy says he got the better of the Cleveland swap; that Monte Pearson not only has a temperamental advantage over Johnny Allen but will turn out to be at least as good a flinger. However, Steve Sundra, who was with Newark last season although the property of the Indians, has figured more prominently in the headlines this spring. Allen has yet to prove his worth to Steve O'Neil, Cleveland manager, although the Indians apparently are counting on him as a regular flinger.

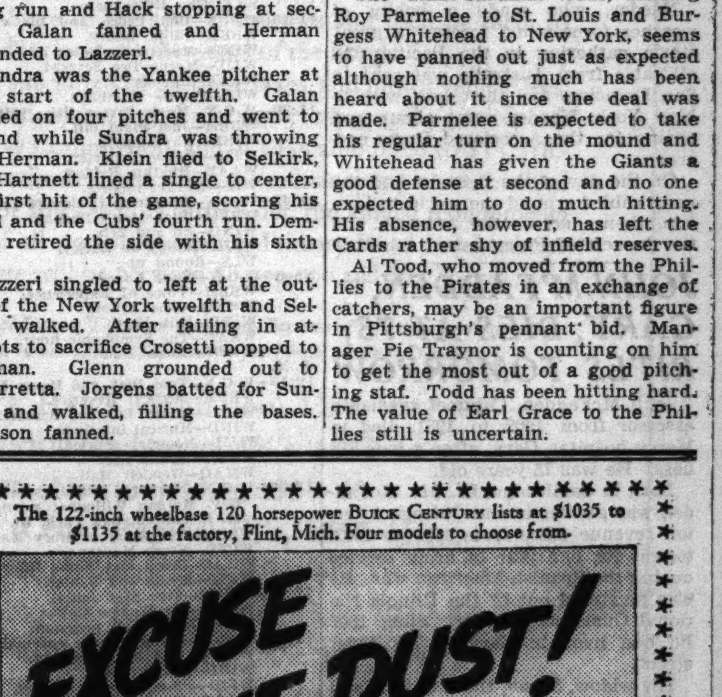
Hassett has started more than one gray hair sprouting around the Dodger premises by his failure to connect with major league pitching. But after a slow start he has begun to hit the last few days and is still regarded as one of Brooklyn's prize plums. Freddy Lindstrom, cast adrift by the Cubs, is another whose performances may be of great importance to the Dodgers this year. He hasn't done anything to start the comeback ballyhoo sounding this spring, but according to all indications he'll do very well in the Brooklyn outfield.

Yankees, Senators Satisfied.

The big swap between the Yankees and Senators, involving Roy Johnson, who played last year with the Red Sox; Irving [Bump] Hadley, Jimmy Deshong, and Jesse Hill, seems to have been satisfactory to all concerned. Johnson may be the man to take Chapman's place if Ben persists in his holdout, while Hadley has done some fine exhibition pitching. Bucky Harris of Washington says he is "impressed" with Deshong's hurling and he has been using Hill as an outfield regular.

The Giant-Cardinal trade, sending Roy Parmelee to St. Louis and Burgess Whitehead to New York, seems to have panned out just as expected although nothing much has been heard about it since the deal was made. Parmelee is expected to take his regular turn on the mound and Whitehead has given the Giants a good defense at second and no one expected him to do much hitting. His absence, however, has left the Cards rather shy of infield reserves.

Al Tood, who moved from the Phillies to the Pirates in an exchange of catchers, may be an important figure in Pittsburgh's pennant bid. Manager Pie Traynor is counting on him to get the most out of a good pitching staf. Todd has been hitting hard. The value of Earl Grace to the Phillies still is uncertain.



EXCUSE THE DUST!

PRESIDENT READS SUNDAY SERVICE ON NAVAL VESSEL

Sea Planes Deliver Mail for Roosevelt.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—With all hands summoned to the quarterdeck of the destroyer Monaghan by a shrill boatswain's pipe, President Roosevelt this morning read the brief sea Sabbath service by virtue of his rank as commander in chief of the army and navy.

Also on the quarter deck were members of the Presidential fishing party and men and officers not on watch aboard the destroyer Dale and the presidential yacht Potomac. A brilliant sun shone on the bowed heads of the worshippers in the restless waters of Crooked Island.

Church Pennant Aloft.

The assembly to worship was signaled when the Stars and Stripes were hauled down from the mainmast of the Monaghan and sent aloft a moment later below the church pennant—white with a blue cross. The pennant is the only emblem which flies above the national emblem aboard a man of war. The President's flag fluttered from another mast.

After the services two navy sea planes carrying three pouches of mail for Mr. Roosevelt and others for the men and crew of the fishing flotilla skimmed onto the water. Briskly the transfer was made.

Mr. Roosevelt returned to his yacht to read the mail and dash off answers to more pressing letters. At 1:43 p. m. the planes took off again for Nassau, where they will remain overnight to return in the morning to Miami where the mail is to be delivered to the temporary White House in the Miami Biltmore hotel for transmission to Washington.

Tells of His Luck.

There was to be no fishing by the party today. Mr. Roosevelt and his companions lolled about the deck to deepen a week's accumulation of sun tan. The President reported he had a good day yesterday in a radio message to his assistant secretary, Marvin H. McIntyre. The message read:

"Good fishing at Mariguana yesterday. We are spending a quiet Sunday off Crooked Island and proceed to Cat Cay tomorrow. All well. Mail planes left Crooked Island 1:43 for Nassau. Will spend the night there and make flight to Miami Monday morning."

GEORGE NAEDER, RETIRED EDITOR, IS DEAD AT 70

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 29.—(AP)—George Naeder, 70, former news editor of the Associated Press, died today after an illness of only a few days.

Naeder, who entered the employ of the Associated Press 39 years ago, previously had been employed by the United Press and Scripps-McRae newspapers. He retired from active newspaper work eight years ago.

Naeder generally was credited with having been the first to get the flash on the Titanic disaster, but his greatest boast was his world-wide beat on the Johnson-Burns fight in Australia.

Naeder, who made a hobby of weather forecasting, foresaw a great storm gathering in the Pacific. As all cable from Australia was sent to San Francisco and then over wire to New York, Naeder went about preparing for the Associated Press coverage.

On the day of the fight he had the news cabled around the world to London, thence across the Atlantic, and the Associated Press scored a beat.

HOLD LAST RITES TODAY FOR MRS. CARRIE JAUNCEY

Funeral services for Mrs. Carrie Jauncey, 75 years old, a resident here 63 years, who died Friday in St. Elizabeth's hospital, will be held today at 2 p. m. in Rosehill cemetery chapel.

Mrs. Jauncey lived for nearly 40 years in a house she owned at 4427 West Washington boulevard. Of late years, three sisters, Misses Emma and Vine Thoma, 86 and 77 years old, respectively, and Mrs. Ella Tatge, 72 years old, a widow, made their home with her. When Mrs. Jauncey's illness became serious a month ago all four moved to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

The four sisters and three brothers, Frank, William F., and Louis A. Thoma, came to Chicago in 1873 from Chillicothe, O., after the death of their parents. An uncle, Louis Bear, who once owned a farm in the vicinity of what is now Chicago avenue and Clark street, helped them establish a home here.

One of the brothers, the late William, was politically prominent in the 1890's. Two of his sons, Lee A. and Edwin L., live in River Forest, and a third, Ross B., in Detroit.

Mrs. Jauncey was the widow of Dr. Edwin L. Jauncey, a dentist, who had an office for many years at Milwaukee and Chicago avenues.

BURY VENIZELOS IN PEACH GROVE OF NATIVE CRETE

CANEA, Crete, March 29.—(AP)—As cannons boomed salutes Eleutherios Venizelos was buried today in a peach grove overlooking the sea at the village of Acrotiti, where the "stormy petrel" of Greek politics first raised the Greek flag in 1897.

The burial was held today instead of tomorrow, as scheduled, upon the wish of the widow. Veterans of Crete's struggle for independence from Turkey lowered the body to the grave.

Venizelos, seven times premier of Greece, died March 18 in Paris, where he was living in self-imposed exile.

2,000 ATTEND RITES HERE.

Nearly 2,000 persons attended memorial services held at St. Constantine's Greek Orthodox church, 61st street and Michigan avenue, yesterday in honor of the memory of Eleutherios Venizelos, former Greek premier, who died in Paris on March 18. Similar services were held in other Greek churches in the United States. A letter addressed by Mayor Kelly to Peter S. Lambros, Greek publisher, was read at the services. In it Mayor Kelly said he was in accord with a request to name one of Chicago's streets in honor of the Greek patriot.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Bernarr McFadden will launch a new sponsored dramatic program, "The Good Will Court," over W-G-N and the Mutual network on June 2. The program will take the place of the Court of Human Relations, which has been running for years on NBC. McFadden will be the guest of Advertising post of the American Legion at luncheon today, when he is to receive an award for meritorious service to the Legion and Youth movement. Tomorrow Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh, who will be celebrating their fourteenth anniversary on the air, will interview Mr. McFadden on their WBBM Gossip club program.

One of Evanston's city ambulances is to be equipped shortly with a two way radio unit developed by General Electric. Similar units will be placed in ten police patrol cars. Thus, during a police chase or in an emergency in which an ambulance is used, the driver of the radio car, if he desires to reach police headquarters or a hospital, may lift a telephone from a hook on the instrument panel and a 15 watt transmitter mounted on the car will go on the air, connecting him with headquarters.

The same electric company is going on the air, coast to coast, with a one hour broadcast over WMAQ-NBC from 11 a. m. to noon today. Richard Bonelli, baritone; the Revelers, Harold Levey's orchestra, and the General Electric Male chorus will provide the entertainment, and there will be talks by experts from the company's "House of Magic."

Winners of the Metropolitan Opera audition of the air announced yesterday on NBC are Anna Kaskas, contralto of Bridgeport, Conn., and Arthur Carron, tenor. Both are to be given contracts with the Metropolitan Opera company. Mr. Carron sang in more than 30 operas in England and appeared in English motion pictures with Charles Laughton. Miss Kaskas made her debut with the Lithuanian Government opera in Kaunas [Kovno].

The other evening sponsors of Hammerstein's Music Hall announced the names of eight girls who had appeared as guests on this program who were to be given screen opportunities by Fox-20th Century as a result of their radio showing. Among them was Evelyn Hall of Chicago. An inquiry revealed that Miss Hall is really Sara Ann McCabe, who used to sing with the Northerners on W-G-N, on Melodies of Yesterday, and several NBC programs.

ALFRED P. SLOAN RAPS NEW DEAL EXPERIMENTING

Urges U. S. Return to Free Enterprise.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The road to progress lies in the restoration of the principle of free enterprise and the encouragement of individual initiative in this country, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation, says in the corporation's annual pamphlet report to stockholders, issued today.

ALFRED P. SLOAN.

The present attitude of the government and its "experiments in economics" have definitly postponed recovery, Sloan declares.

"It is reasonable to believe, however," he adds, "that sooner or later such unsound policies as exist will discredit themselves and hence will be eliminated. Progress already can be seen in this general direction. On the other hand, such policies as promote economic progress will be reshaped into practical form. Hence there will develop a broader foundation of confidence in the security and opportunities of the future than exists today."

Warns of Effect on Sales.

Increased expenses of the government will be reflected not only in increased taxes, Sloan warns, but in reduced production of goods, since the higher levies will result in increased costs, in higher selling prices and thus in smaller purchases by consumers.

"Added responsibilities must be assumed by industry," Sloan says. "Industry must assume the rôle of enlightened industrial statesmanship. It can no longer confine its responsibilities to the mere physical production of goods and services. It must aggressively move forward and attune its thinking and its policies toward advancing the interest of the community at large, from which it receives a most valuable franchise."

Sales Up 34 Per Cent.

General Motors' net sales last year amounted to $1,155,641,511, against $862,672,670 in 1934, a gain of 34 per cent, the report says. As shown in the preliminary report, which was issued recently, the net profit for 1935 was $167,226,510, equal to $3.69 a share on the average number of shares of common stock outstanding. This compares with $94,769,131, or $1.99 a share, in 1934. Earnings and sales last year reached the highest levels since 1929.

Sloan reports that earnings were favorably affected last year by the introduction of new automobile models on Nov. 1, last, instead of on Jan. 1, and that as a result earnings in the fourth quarter of 1935 established a new high record of $1.18 a share.

The corporation's pay rolls increased 22.7 per cent last year to $323,030,599, the highest total since 1929, and at the same time, through the earlier introduction of models and the attempted leveling of the peak of the automobile season, greater continuity of employment and increased earnings were provided for the individual worker. Last year's pay roll compared with $263,204,225 in 1934, $171,184,315 in 1933, $143,255,070 in 1932, and $389,517,783 in 1929, the record year.

The total number of employés last year was 211,712, compared with 191,157 in 1934; 137,764 in 1933; 116,152 in 1932, and 233,286 in 1929.

Policy on Labor.

Discussing the labor policies of the corporation, Sloan says:

"The average working hours per week increased during the year, as compared with the previous year, by approximately 11 per cent. The policy with respect to maximum hours was not changed. The corporation is firm in its conviction that to the extent working hours are shortened and the rate of pay correspondingly increased, unemployment is likewise increased.

"Such a program necessarily increases the selling prices of goods and services, and does not increase the purchasing power to consume these goods and services. The corporation believes in a reasonable number of hours per week for industry's workers. This insures a balance between the obligation to work and an opportunity to enjoy the fruits of work, always having in view the importance of reducing and not increasing the cost of goods and services.

"There was an increase in the average hourly wage rate during the year of approximately 5 per cent as compared with the previous year. The current average hourly rate is the highest in the history of the corporation and exceeds the average hourly rate of the highly prosperous year of 1929 by approximately 5 per cent."

North American Light to Get $4,000,000 Loan

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The North American company has completed arrangements to advance to the North American Light and Power company $4,000,000 in the form of a one year 5 per cent note to meet the maturity on Wednesday of the fifth and final $2,000,000 serial 5 per cent note and to replace the loan of $2,000,000 made a year ago by the North American company to retire the fourth $2,000,000 note of the light and power company.

Gt. Northern Bank Loan Cut, Report Shows

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The Great Northern railway repaid in 1935 $3,000,000 borrowed from the First National Bank of New York in 1933, W. P. Kenney, president, disclosed today in his report for last year. The company also repaid $319,340 on account of a loan of $3,000,000 extended by the Railroad Credit corporation.

The company paid from earnings $5,093,000 of general mortgage 7 per cent bonds. This payment, with other transactions, reduced funded and unfunded debt by $8,883,340 in 1935.

Explaining an increase of 16.3 per cent in freight revenues, or from $60,348,273 in 1934 to $70,211,977 in 1935, Kenney said it resulted from a greater movement of grain, ore, forest products, petroleum and products, iron, steel, cement, and passenger automobiles. He predicted a considerable increase in iron ore tonnage this year. Passenger revenue increased from $7,953,108 in 1934 to $8,208,410 in 1935, the highest total since 1931.

Expects Passenger Gain.

"With the reduced basic passenger rate now in effect and a revival of business general," said Kenney, "the downward trend of passenger earnings has been reversed." He added that air-conditioning had increased the earnings of the Empire Builder train, although competing buses had reduced passenger revenues in some parts of Montana.

Included in freight revenue in 1935 was $1,500,000 derived from the emergency surcharges which the railroads seek to have extended beyond June 30.

Report of Pennsylvania.

The pamphlet report of the Pennsylvania Railroad company for 1935 shows total operating revenues last year of $367,812,186, an increase of $24,143,487, or 7 per cent, over 1934. The increase, the company says, was due in part to higher freight rates. Freight revenues were $272,047,434, or $20,817,449 more than in 1934. The figures follow closely the results reported recently in the preliminary statement.

The report points out that the improvement in operating revenues was offset by an increase of $17,132,347, or 7 per cent, in operating expenses resulting chiefly from "higher wages, increased cost of fuel, and increased expenditures for maintenance of roadway, track, and equipment." Taxes also increased $1,502,999 and "required almost 7 cents out of each dollar of operating revenue, and equaled $1.92 a share on the capital stock."

The net income was $23,849,798 after charges, taxes and reserves, or $1.81 a share on the 13,167,696 capital shares of $50 par value outstanding. This compares with $21,633,965, or $1.61 a share, in 1934. A reserve of $2,818,271 which had been charged in operating expenses in 1934 on account of the railroad retirement act, later declared unconstitutional, was credited to profit and loss account.

N. & W. Income Rises.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—Although restoration of wage reductions and increased cost of materials and supplies affected all accounts, the Norfolk and Western Railway company's net income for 1935 showed an increase of $5,075,670 over 1934. The company's annual report, made public today, showed net income of $25,355,852 for last year. The company showed a net revenue from operations of $33,545,219, or an increase of $5,368,609.

Income balance, after paying the regular 4 per cent dividend of $919,692 upon the adjustment preferred stock and an extra dividend of $2 per share on common stock, $22,812,966, was $31,623,194, an increase of $5,075,670.

New Haven Has Deficit.

New Haven, Conn., March 29.—(AP)—Pres. Howard S. Palmer in his annual statement to stockholders made public tonight reported the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company had a deficit of $3,560,469 for 1935 after fixed charges. The deficit was $1,971,645 lower than that of 1934, and did not include $1,123,439 guarantees on separately operated properties.

Gross revenues amounted to $71,113,280, an increase of $1,830,170, or 2.6 per cent over 1934. Total operating expenses of $52,414,423 for 1935 were $299,789 lower than the preceding year. The New Haven railroad is now being reorganized under the federal bankruptcy act.

STEEL INDUSTRY REBOUNDS FROM FLOOD LETDOWN

Output Reaches New Peak at 58½ Pct.

Steel mills last week demonstrated their ability to recover from floods by pushing up their national operating rate 8½ points to 58½ per cent of capacity, a new 1936 high, according to the magazine Steel's reckoning.

In Pittsburgh area alone operations shot up 27½ points to 45½ per cent of plant capacity, while Wheeling boosted its output 18 points to 73 per cent, Cleveland, 3 points to 82 per cent; Chicago, ½ point to 64 per cent, eastern Pennsylvania, ½ point to 38½ per cent, and New England, 11 points to 67 per cent. Cincinnati operations declined 21 points to 55 per cent of plant capacity, due to precautionary measures taken against floods. Other districts were unchanged.

In the Pittsburgh and Wheeling areas normal finishing steel capacity was quickly restored after the floods, the journal reports, with releases for sheets and strip so heavy that mills are assured capacity operations throughout April.

First Quarter Shipments Extended.

Makers of these products in other areas also are unable to meet their own deadline of April 1 on first quarter shipments. As a result of this bulge, March orders for light finished steel products ran 30 to 40 per cent above February.

Only moderate interest has been shown so far in second quarter requirements, according to the review, and the automotive industry is looked upon as the determining factor in pace setting though the next three months. In the five months since new models were introduced 1,848,000 cars have been produced, compared with 1,910,598 in the first five months of last year's models.

Rolling of rails and car materials apparently will be heavier during the next quarter than in the first three months of the year, the journal says. Expectations are that tractor and implement operations will be steady at uniformly high rates during April and May.

Flood Repair Orders Large.

Estimates of steel requirements for rehabilitation in the flood districts range up to 100,000 tons. In Pennsylvania 29 large bridges were destroyed and six others were damaged beyond use, while in Maine 120 bridges were washed out. Inquiries are already appearing for structural shapes to rebuild some structures. Demand for shovels in Pennsylvania led to rush orders for strip steel from manufacturers.

The raw material market is strong, and scrap is coming out more freely, while prices remain firm. The magazine's scrap composite is 4 cents higher at $14.50 a ton. Considerable contracting has been done in pig iron for the second quarter at an advance of $1 a ton. Beehive foundry coke is up 25 cents a ton. The journal's finished steel composite is 20 cents higher at $52.50 a ton, due to the higher prices in effect on wire April 1. The iron and steel composite advanced 8 cents to $33.13 a ton.

500 NEW YELLOW CABS WILL BUZZ WHEN THEY BACK

An automatic buzzer signal to warn pedestrians when a taxi driver is going into reverse is one of several new safety features to be incorporated in 500 new streamlined canary colored cabs ordered by the Yellow Cab company.

Business of that concern has been so heavy during the three months of December, 1935, January and February, that the present old orange colored cabs, originally scheduled for retirement six months from now, will have to be taken off the streets within the next few weeks, according to President Thomas B. Hogan.

The first contingent of a new fleet of 500 bright yellow hued cabs will arrive in Chicago on or about April 23 from the plant o fthe Checker Cab Manufacturing company of Kalamazoo, Mich. The entire lot of 500 cabs, built at a reported cost of more than half a million dollars, will be delivered here within from four to six weeks after the first lot arrives. They originally were ordered for delivery next August and September.

278 INJUNCTIONS TAKEN TO BLOCK POWER PROJECTS

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Chairman Frank R. McNinch of the federal power commission asserted today private power companies had caused an "enormous loss" by resorting to court injunctions to delay construction of public power projects.

This was "clearly shown," he said in a commission report on 278 injunctions obtained within the last few years. These injunctions, he said, have cost 195 public authorities a total of $376,233 in "direct expense" in litigation and $11,920,207 in "indirect expenses" because of extra charges caused by delay, loss of profits, loss of consumers in extra charges, and extra charges to authorities for electric energy for public use.

The "direct expense" item, the report said, did not include the $1,000,000 estimated cost of such actions to the city of Los Angeles.

Gain in Assets Reported by International Mining

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The International Mining corporation reported today that on Dec. 31 the net asset value of its 400,055 shares of common stock was $21.93 each, compared with $21.65 on Dec. 31, 1934. The figure for the end of last year was after deductions of approximately $1.74 a share for a reserve of mining venture losses and unrealized profits on securities held.

ADDRESSOGRAPH 1935 PROFIT IS REPORTED IN 78 PER CENT GAIN

Net profits of Addressograph-Multigraph corporation in 1935 showed an increase of 78 per cent over 1934, according to the annual statement sent stockholders yesterday. Net profit last year amounted to $829,755, equivalent to $1.11 a share on the common stock, compared with $465,829, or 62 cents a share, in 1934.

"Equipment orders received from customers in the United States and Canada showed increases of 22 per cent over 1934, 102 per cent over 1933, and 93 per cent over 1932," Joseph E. Rogers, president, said.

"The outlook for 1936 and succeeding years continues promising. For the first two months of 1936 shipments are ahead of the corresponding period last year, and the backlog of unfilled orders is running at higher levels than at any time during the last six years. Based on the present rate of operations, the indications are that the first quarter this year will show a satisfactory increase in net profits over the first quarter of last year."

Current assets at the end of 1935 amounted to $6,473,199, against current liabilities of $1,059,335. This compares with current assets of $5,747,713 and current liabilities of $2,198,199 at the end of 1934.

SUPREME COURT TO TEST ILLINOIS COMMISSION ACT

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—Constitutionality of the Illinois commerce commission merchants' act was defended yesterday in a brief filed in the Supreme court by Otto Kerner, Illinois attorney general. He asked the highest court to dismiss the appeal of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity company, which challenged validity of the act. Arguments in the case are expected this week, with a decision likely before the summer recess.

Kerner said the act was to safeguard credulous farmers against fraud. He added that "if a broker is dishonest, he can, by improper market manipulations, easily defraud the farmer." The Illinois act, passed in 1919, and amended in 1927, requires a license for all brokers or commission dealers in farm products and a bond to protect their customers.

The Hartford company appealed from a decision of the state Supreme court which upheld the act and ordered it to pay $5,700 on two bonds posted by the G. H. Gross company. The company, a Chicago commission firm dealing in fruits and vegetables, became bankrupt and owed farmers and producers more than $13,000. The bonding company argued the state law interfered with interstate commerce and so the bonds posted under it were void. It contended the 1930 federal perishable agricultural commodities act covered the same fields.

EASTER DEMAND FOR GOODS AIDS CHICAGO'S TRADE

Last minute calls for Easter wares were a marked stimulus to the Chicago market last week, according to Chicago Association of Commerce observers. Wholesalers were swamped with demands from merchants who had delayed or curtailed earlier orders.

With Mrs. and Miss America planning to dress for Easter on a scale unknown since 1929, and in more vivid colors than in several years, manufacturers and wholesalers are finding it hard to keep up with last minute needs. Orders are pouring in from all parts of the country.

Rail Safety Gets Praise of President

Praise for the safety record of American railroads is contained in a letter of President Roosevelt, made public yesterday by John J. Pelley, president of the Association of American railroads. The letter was a reply to a communication sent the President by Pelley, touching on safety achievements last year.

"During the calendar year 1935," Pelley informed the President, "only one passenger lost his life in a train accident on all railroads of the United States. This regrettable fatality, resulting from the exposion of a steam heater in a passenger car standing in a station, occurred Nov. 6, 1935.

No Fatality in 12 Months.

"Prior to that time there had been no passenger fatality in a train accident on American railroads for more than 12 months.

"During 1935 a total of 445,994,621 passengers rode on the railroads of the United States without loss of life through collision or derailment of a train. This record was accomplished during a period when volume of business and the speed of trains were being increased.

"The record for 1935 is the result of years of steady, persistent and coöperative effort and improvement. Of 142 class one railroads in this country, 130 have a clear record of no passenger fatalities in train accidents for the last five years or more; 114 a record of 10 years or more, and 99 for 15 or more years."

Roosevelt Congratulates Roads.

President Roosevelt replied:

"The railroads, as well as the country, are to be congratulated on the record of safety discussed in your letter. Such successes of railroad men and management in the field of safety of operation have occurred before and so frequently that the country now has come to expect them, however difficult.

"They show the great capacity for intelligent and sustained effort. The industry now faces, and I assume will always face, new problems arising from the necessity of continually adapting its facilities to meet the rapidly changing transportation needs of the country."

RANK AND FILE TRADERS MOVE TO SIDELINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—Fresh uncertainties over the French franc and the growing vicissitudes in the domestic business situation have had the effect of slowing down operations on the stock exchange for the time being. Traders of the rank and file are showing noticeable disposition to retire to the sidelines pending clarification of the general picture. The result is that the market has degenerated very largely into a professional affair, with prices gradually losing headway.

The business volume for last week amounted to only 9,571,732 shares, an average of less than 2,000,000 a day. The preceding week's turnover ran to 10,567,826 shares. Yesterday's aggregate of 656,780 was the lightest of the year so far.

Market Is Irregular.

For the week as a whole the market has been irregular rather than downright reactionary. It started out in a rather cheerful tone, thanks in some measure to the news from Europe holding out promises of at least a temporary peaceful settlement of the Rhineland trouble, if not the Italian affair, and on revised estimates indicating that the flood damage in eastern industrial states would not be nearly so heavy as had been feared.

Enough selling came into the list on Tuesday, however, to wipe out Monday's gains and the market then became a hesitant affair, backing and filling until Friday, when the "averages" took a tumble of nearly two points. A minute recovery was regis-

Primary Road Refunding Bonds

IOWA COUNTIES

PRIMARY roads in Iowa are constructed by the various counties under State supervision. Bonds for financing the costs are, in opinion of counsel, valid and binding general obligations of the respective issuing counties. Moreover, the State Primary Road Fund is annually budgeted so that allotments from it are made each year by the State to the several counties and used by them to pay the annual principal and interest requirements of the bonds.

The Primary Road Fund, supported by gasoline taxes, and motor vehicle fees, averaged in the six-year period 1930-1935, $16,153,037.02 according to reports from the Iowa State Highway Commission, and in 1935 amounted to $15,218,000. The Commission has estimated that when the refinancing plan authorized by the General Assembly of Iowa is fully carried out, the annual requirements for principal and interest of all presently existing Primary Road indebtedness of all the counties in the State will be between $8,000,000 and $8,250,000.

Exempt from all present Federal Income Taxation and from Personal Property Taxation in the State of Iowa; eligible, in our opinion, as security for Postal Savings Deposits.

FEDERAL ISSUES FIRMEST GROUP IN BOND MARKET

Other Sections Are Under Light Pressure.

New York, March 29.—(AP)—United States government bonds enjoyed an unusual degree of prestige last week when other sections of the listed market were under light pressure resulting from a number of outside influences, including political uncertainty abroad.

Continuing the movement which got under way 10 days ago, when the federal list broadened out on the upside following disclosure that the federal reserve banks had materially increased their holdings of longer term maturities, virtually every one of the active issues, including the indirect obligations, were pushed to new high levels during the week.

Institutional Buying Seen.

Of particular interest to the investment community was the strong showing made each day when sales of government bonds crossed the $1,000,000 mark, indicating to some observers that institutional buying was going on in earnest. This reversed a situation which existed much of last fall and well into 1936, wherein prices were considered too high, yields too low, and individual portfolios were regarded as topheavy with government securities.

Price swings in the corporate divisions as well as in foreign bonds were narrow. Some of the low priced rails were offered in sufficient quantity to bring a generally lower average level toward the close of the week, but strong support appeared for the industrials and utilities on each minor dip. Some of the issues having stock purchase and other special privileges were strong at times.

Italian Issues Decline.

Promulgation of new decrees making far reaching changes in the economic setup in Italy brought sharply lower prices to most of the government and municipal issues of that country. The failure of the Franco-German situation to come to a head made for general restraint elsewhere and other foreign bonds did little either way.

The five major groups used in the Associated Press averages fluctuated within a tenth of a point during the week and finished about where they were at the beginning.

McGraw Electric.

Investors' Guide: I shall greatly appreciate any information you give me regarding McGraw Electric. Thank you.—W. L. J.

Answer: McGraw Electric company, Chicago manufacturer of automatic toasters ["Toastmaster"], automatic waffle irons, fuses and other commercial and household electric appliances, has operated at a profit in all but one of the last ten years. Earnings for 1935 were the best since 1929.

	Net sales.	Net income.	Income per share.
1935	$3,802,000	$614,000	$2.60
1934	3,190,000	503,000	2.13
1933	1,910,000	106,000	0.45
1932	1,682,000	*269,000	*.12

*Net loss.

On Dec. 31, 1935, current assets were $1,960,000 and current liabilities were $257,000, a satisfactory position. Capitalization is represented solely by 236,396 shares of $5 par capital stock. The stock is not on any regular dividend basis. A dividend of 50 cents a share was paid on Feb. 1, 1936. Dividends in 1935 were $1.50 a share, against 50 cents a share in 1934, while nothing was paid in 1933 or 1932.

During the five years to Dec. 31, 1935, the company earned the equivalent of $4.82 a share and paid out $3.25.

Central Idaho Irrigation District.

Investors' Guide: Will you please send me what information you can about Central Idaho Irrigation district bonds, supposed to pay 6 per cent. They are signed by the state treasurer of Idaho.—H. L.

Answer: Central Idaho irrigation district is in Jefferson county. There are $940,000 of bonds outstanding. These were sold to provide funds to irrigate the district. In September, 1933, the flotation of the bonds was investigated by the state. The state treasurer announced that the project had been completely abandoned and that there was no salvage value whatsoever for the bonds.

The report said that there never had been an adequate water supply and that the project never reached the state of completion indicated by data circulated in the interest of bond sales. There was at the time apparently no available source from which to secure funds for payment of interest or principal on the funded debt.

The treasurer submitted an opinion in which he held that the bonds are not and never were a general obligation of the state.

WHEAT CHEAPER DESPITE DOUBT OVER NEW CROP

Derth of Rain Fails to Halt Steady Decline.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Although adequate rainfall has not yet relieved the drouth conditions existing over part of the winter wheat belt, there has been practically no halt in the decline in prices in the Chicago market. New low prices for the seasons were marked up last week in Chicago and other markets on a number of wheat future contracts. Rye futures also lost ground during the week, but oats and corn gained slightly.

The September wheat future contract in Chicago fell below its previous low level of the season of 86½ cents a bushel. October wheat in the Liverpool market, and May and July wheat contracts in Winnipeg sold at the season's low levels. In Buenos Aires wheat was quoted as low as 90 cents a bushel, the government guaranteed minimum price. The recession in foreign markets came in the face of unfavorable reports on European crop conditions.

Expect Ample Wheat Crop.

The market action in Chicago suggests widespread belief that this year's domestic wheat harvest will amply cover all domestic requirements and leave a surplus available for possible export. This opinion persists, although the meager rainfall that has materialized in the sections where drouth exists has been insufficient to provide any real relief.

In the southwest, where the drouth conditions are most acute, observers believe that the crop can go another week or two without incurring any serious damage. If soaking rain should come, it is said, it would go far toward assuring a good harvest.

The comments last week of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace were regarded as significant in that they showed the government is prepared for a large harvest this season. Wallace's statement suggests that the exportable surplus of wheat may be as large as 260 million bushels on July 1, 1937.

U. S. Plan Has Little Effect.

It would appear from Wallace's remarks that he tacitly admits that the soil conservation program will have little effect on this year's production, although providing the means for distributing a half billion dollars to farmers.

That the calculations indicating a good harvest may prove valueless is exiomatic, as shown by experience. One need go back no further than 1935 to illustrate how a favorable outlook may be completely obliterated in a relatively short period. The black rust blight in the spring wheat country destroyed the prospect for a bumper crop in a few weeks. This yaer the spring wheat belt has had ample moisture and there is a possibility that wet weather will result in material delay in seeding. Late seeding and rains, it may be recalled, are regarded as favorable for development of black rust.

Automatic Products company last night reported net profit of $36,054 or 21 cents a share for 1935, compared with $37,537 or 25 cents a share the preceding year. A MESSAGE OF VITAL IMPORTANCE

TO

Pressed Steel Car Company Security Holders:

The undersigned Protective Committees believe that you will be interested in the following letter which has been received by the Trustees of Pressed Steel Car Company:

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 26, 1936.

Messrs. George D. Wick and Walter A. Bonitz, Trustees, Pressed Steel Car Company,
Grant Building,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Sirs:

The Debtor Company Plan for the reorganization of the Pressed Steel Car Company has been carefully studied by the undersigned.

We write you our conclusions because as Pittsburghers we believe that the security holders of a Company which carries on its activities there will want to know just what Pittsburgh thinks of the proposed plans having to do with the management and finances of the company in reorganization.

The proposed Company Plan to us is specifically and basically sound, and has, in our judgment, the elements in it which should make for financial and industrial growth of the Company—a great benefit to the City of Pittsburgh.

The proposed Company Plan of Reorganization has been tentatively approved by the United States District Court and is the only Plan which the Court has authorized to be presented to the security holders.

We have gone into the record of the General American Transportation Corporation, which it is proposed shall enter into partnership with your Company, and have found that it has been careful and outstandingly successful in its management in allied fields.

The General American Transportation Corporation has served its security holders to their advantage throughout its entire history. Dividends have been paid every year. Every maturity on funded debt, from the inception of the Corporation, has been paid when due. The General American Transportation Corporation has been active in the field of leasing railroad cars and building cars. We believe that their aid in the management of the Pressed Steel Car Company will be of enormous value to the security holders of your Company.

As Pittsburghers, we know how difficult and intricate the railroad and railroad supply business is, and in view both of the present situation—what with a disastrous flood that has raised havoc with your plant—and the entire future situation, we believe that the paramount question before your Company is management and that the solution to this question lies in the consummation of the Company Plan.

Very truly yours,

SMITH & CORONA TYPEWRITER CO. TO REFUND DEBT

Announce Plan to Retire Bonds, Bank Loans.

A plan for refunding the outstanding debt of the L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters, Inc., at a lower rate of interest was announced last night. Bonded debt and bank loans will be retired through proceeds of a sale of an issue of new debentures underwritten and offered by a syndicate composed of Shield & Co., F. Eberhardt & Co., and Bloren & Co. The amount of the new issue and other details were not disclosed.

Outstanding are $969,700 of 6 per cent sinking fund gold bonds of L. C. Smith & Brothers Typewriter, Inc., issued in 1924 and to be called for redemption at 101½ and interest on May 1. Also to be retired is an issue of $30,000 of 7 per cent bonds of Miller-Bryant-Pierce company, a subsidiary. At the close of the year ended June 30, 1935, notes payable were reported at $550,000.

Iowa Road Bonds Offered.

Offering of $10,118,000 in primary road refunding bonds, obligations of twenty different Iowa counties, will be made today by Halsey, Stuart & Co. The bonds carry coupons of 1½, 1¾, and 2 per cent, maturity extending from 1937 to 1945, and are priced to yield 0.35 to 2.09 per cent. The bonds represent almost half of those sold during the last three weeks under the refinancing act.

An issue of $6,500,000 City of Oslo, Norway, 19 year 4½ per cent sinking fund bonds is being offered today at 99½ by an underwriting group of Brown, Harriman & Co., Edward B. Smith & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Blyth & Co., and White, Weld & Co. This issue will be used to refund $6,080,000 of 30-year 6 per cent bonds maturing in 1955. Olso, chief port of Norway, has a population of 266,107.

Brewing Company Offers Stock.

Also to be offered today are 25,000 shares of Feter Fox Brewing company 6 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock of $10 par value. It is priced at $10.50 a share, through Webber-Simpson & Co. of Chicago, and Edward D. Jones & Co. of St. Louis. Proceeds of approximately $200,000 will be used to build an addition to the present plant, permitting expansion of productive capacity from 150,000 to 225,000 barrels annually to handle growing business.

NONFERROUS METALS QUIET; SPOT TIN EASY

New York, March 29.—Nonferrous metals were generally quiet last week. The copper trade was particularly interested in the significance of an advance of ½ of 1 cent per pound in prices for brass tubing, but whether it foreshadowed a rise in copper was a matter for conjecture. Moderate demand was supplied at 9¼ cents for electrolytic although several producers maintained the price at 9½ cents. Foreign prices were easier, but partial recoveries developed late in the week.

Tin spot premiums eased to a basis of 1 cent over futures during the week as a result of larger stocks afloat and poor consumer demand. Reports indicated that tin plate mills would rapidly resume activity.

Lead was quiet with prices unchanged. Smelters who had experienced a good demand earlier in the month were not pressing sales.

Zinc and antimony remained dull and quotations were unchanged.

Baldwin Locomotive Group Fights Reorganization Plan

The independent preferred stockholders' committee of Baldwin Locomotive works yesterday mailed to stockholders a letter outlining its objections to the proposed plan of reorganization for the company, pending in the federal district court in Philadelphia. The committee has been fighting the plan since last fall, urging that it does not give proper consideration to the preferred stock rights.

SEES SPOILSMEN AS MAIN THREAT TO GOVERNMENT

Dr. Magill Warns Against Economic Dictatorship.

Political spoilsmen, applying ward politics to the nation and extending their power through economic dictatorship, are the most serious threat to free government and public welfare in the United States, asserted Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors, in that organization's current issue of Investor America, out today.

"To permit political spoilsmen of any party to gain control of private industry is to add to their tremendous power to pollute the fountain heads of free government, crush out opposition, rob the people, and ultimately establish a political dictatorship on the ruins of private industry and the wreck of free government," said Dr. Magill.

Warns Recovery Is Retarded.

These considerations, he said, are far more serious than financial losses to be borne by consumers and the public from political management.

"The constant threat of government ownership under partisan management has for three years hung like a pall over private industry, and has seriously retarded economic recovery," Dr. Magill continued.

"The dangers of such socialistic policy are especially felt by investors, because such policies seriously increase the ordinary business risk of investments and tend to keep capital inactive and unproductive.

"The dangers to private industry are not due to possible lower production costs by which consumers would be benefited. Experience has demonstrated conclusively that private industry has nothing to fear from public ownership if the competition is on a just and equal basis.

Political Management Wasteful.

"It has become common knowledge that industry under political management means waste and extravagance, which result in higher costs to the consumer. But politicians cover up these losses and pass them on to the taxpayers. In the end the consumer loses, and those who toil and save must pay the bills."

In the first three years of the present administration, he pointed out, the federal government spent $19,150,100,000, while its receipts were $9,853,700,000.

"No thoughtful person ever doubted that the frightful cost of this orgy of spending would have to be met by this and succeeding generations," Dr. Magill said.

WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION, INC.

The undersigned represent the holders of a substantial amount of Debentures and Preferred Stock of Western Newspaper Union. We have advised these holders not to accept the proposed Reorganization Plan as it is unfair both to the Debenture Holders and the Preferred Stockholders and favors solely the Common Stock and the present Management.

Standard Statistics is advising against the deposit of Debentures under the present proposed revised Plan dated January 25, 1936. The terms as proposed below have not been submitted to nor passed upon by Standard Statistics.

In order that the opposition to this Plan may be unified, we are forming a Security Holders Protective Committee to offer a new plan which will provide Debenture Holders with 3% interest instead of 2%, which can be paid under efficient operation, and furnish the Company with a superior management and additional working capital, two things of which it is in vital need.

The Management and the existing Debenture Holders Committees have denied us a list of the security holders of the Company so we take this means of communicating with you to urge you not to accept the Plan and to revoke any proxy you have given.

Retain your independent status until all information is made available to you. If you will forward us your name and address we will mail you directly an outline of our objections to the Plan as proposed and furnish you with the terms of the plan which we propose to offer.

RANK AND FILE TRADERS MOVE TO SIDELINES

Varied Factors Serve as Brake on Market.

Other Disturbing Factors.

Besides the fresh doubt as to France's willingness or ability to keep on the gold standard, the market's current problems include statistics indicating a moderate letdown in business activity, a decline in steel output, and growing threats to the nation's crops from dust storms in the west and the forward march of the administration's new tax program. Railway freight loadings figures, which in the preceding week had run 19,436 cars above last year and two weeks before had exceeded 1935 by 47,618 cars, dropped last week 40,370 below last year.

Brokerage house commentators are fairly unanimous, however, in the agreement that confidence in continued business recovery is unshaken in the speculative community and that this optimistic view of matters on the "long pull" is proving a sustaining force for the market in the face of whatever discouragements may confront it at the moment. First quarter earnings reports are beginning to appear in some volume and their influence is becoming apparent in stock movements here and there. For the most part the effect has been favorable. One of the outstanding beneficiaries of these figures was General Motors, which rose to the highest level since 1929 on its first quarter statement, advancing 2½ points in one day's session.

"Special influences" are hard to detect in group movements. Some fresh interest is being shown in the rubbers due to predictions of an early improvement in the tire price structure. Building shares attracted a little further attention on prospects of increased business from the flood areas.

BUSINESS HEADS APPROVE PLAN FOR CAR CONCERN

A plan for the reorganization of the Pressed Steel Car company, which provides for a partnership with the General American Transportation corporation, was recommended yesterday by several leading industrialists of Pittsburgh in a letter made public jointly by committees representing common stockholders, preferred shareholders, and 5 per cent bondholders.

The indorsement was signed by such business leaders as A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, J. T. Tierney, president of the Koppers Coke company, and B. F. Fairless, president of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

The letter urging acceptance terms the plan "basicly sound and has, in our judgment, elements which should make for financial and industrial growth of the company."

Graham-Paige Plans Common Stock Increase

Stockholders of Graham-Paige Motors corporation are scheduled to vote at the annual meeting April 20 on a proposal to increase the authorized common stock to 3½ million from 2½ million shares. If the move is approved 600,000 shares will be offered stockholders at $3 a share on the basis of one new share for each four held.
